I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy, to the best of my knowledge and belief, of the minutes of The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama, of October 27, 1952.

HAROLD H. SMYER,
Clerk of The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama.

The fact that England and France were enemies in Europe increased the bitterness of their rivalry in America. In 1756, the Seven Year's War began in Europe. Two years earlier, the French and English had started fighting in the upper Ohio Valley in North America. This war in America is known as the French and Indian War because so many Indians took part in the fighting on the side of the French.

A.A.U.W. MET

On Thursday afternoon of November 6th, the Chilton County Chapter of the A.A.U.W. met at the high school library. Mrs. Joe Campbell, the president, called the meeting to order. The year books were given out and followed with a short business session.

A motion was passed that our chapter help finance the permanent A.A.U.W. collection of prints, beautiful colored reproductions of great master pieces, which our State Creative Arts chairman, Mrs. Adele B. Robinson, has undertaken to do as a project. These prints are to be mounted in heavy cellophane covers and shipped around the state to the high schools or libraries. The director of the Birmingham Museum of Art, Mr. Richard Howard, internationally known authority in this field, will write comments for the high school level to be exhibited with the paintings. It will be cumulative and may become a very powerful educational aid as it continues to grow.

Following the business meeting, Miss Faye Woolley, who at the present is acting as head of the Welfare Work in Chilton County, gave a most informative talk on the kind of social work that is being done in the county and how the welfare board functions. It was a most interesting talk and was enjoyed thoroughly by every one present.

Out of 35,000 lives lost in traffic accidents in 1950, 26,700 were sacrificed on the altar of carelessness. Speed—excessive, killing speed—accounted for nearly half that number. Speed, claiming 13,300 dead and 475,000 injured victims in a single year, is the nation's Killer No. 1.

While all traffic deaths declined from 1946 through 1949, even then fatalities on the open road kept creeping up. In 1950 a deadly spurt of speed accidents claimed 3,200 more victims in rural areas than it had the year before. Last year speed deaths again mounted.

Why do drivers race so heedlessly to destruction on the highway? Hardly to save time. Scorching at 70 is an invitation to disaster. Over any distance, 50 m.p.h. takes only a few minutes longer and offers a better chance of a safe arrival.

When you start out with your family or friends, discount speed before you take off. Give yourself and others in your car an extra margin of safety by leaving earlier and holding your speed within bounds. It's your responsibility to them and to others on the road.

Remember—more than one out of every three fatal accidents is due to speed.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

The former Evelyn and Kathryn West liked to have had twin girls. They are the only daughters of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. West of Lomax, and presented their husbands with daughters only five days apart. Kathryn, who is married to Sgt. Charles Tracy, Jr., gave birth to a 6 lb. 10-oz. daughter last Wednesday afternoon and Evelyn, who is Mrs. C. D. (Cliff) Klie, gave birth to a daughter Monday. Klie is manager of our local Yeilding's Store. Charles Tracy is stationed at Bangor, Maine, but Cliff Klie was around town Tuesday handing out cigars.

William O. (Oliver) Headley is now at Ollie's Barber Shop. It's really the Service Barber Shop and is operated by Ollie Blalock, but just about everybody knows it as Ollie's Barber Shop. Anyway, Mr. Headley wants his friends and old customers to visit him at his new chair.

Did you hear about the little boy who fell in the mud puddle? His father asked him how he came to fall in. He answered: "I didn't come to fall in, I slipped."

Chick Wade down at Clanton Jewelry Company had a pot full of money in the window and some dollar bills pasted about. The other night some smartaleck decided he would find out the right answer as to how much money was in the pot so he broke the window. The night policeman must have scared him away as there was no money missing. In fact, he didn't even get through the window. After breaking the glass he scadoodled.

Sheriff Luther Kendrick had a foot race through briar patches Tuesday night to catch a bootlegger. Luther stated that the briars had never been used since they were first sharpened either. Looks like more than the bootlegger got stuck on that deal.

"Darling," she said: "Would you like some tender chops, nice browned potatoes, string beans, and then some delicious apple pie with ice cream for dinner?" "No," answered the husband, "let's save money and eat at home."

We can't get our little girl to save money in her piggy bank because she says it turns parents into bank robbers.

A pastor was being entertained at dinner. He was suffering with a boil on the back of his neck, so he wore a soft shirt with the collar unbuttoned. In response to his hostess' expression of sympathy, he said:

We must endure such misfortunes with patience. I assume that suffering is inflicted on us at times to try us."

The six-year-old daughter of the hostess listened to his remarks and then asked earnestly:

Well, if you're supposed to suffer, why don't you button your collar?"

MRS. HUGH JONES IS RE-APPOINTED TO LEAD COUNTY CANCER SOCIETY

The re-appointment of Mrs. Hugh Jones as County Commander for Chilton County for the American Cancer Society, Alabama Division, was announced today by Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director, Birmingham.

Mrs. Jones will be in charge of the Educatinal Program for Chilton County, and will continue to lead in this important fight on cancer.

Mrs. Meade stated, Mrs. Jones has been an outstanding leader in the field of Cancer Control, and I am happy to re-appoint her for another year."

Mrs. Jones is active in her community. Recently she received an honorary Life Membership in the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers for six years service as President of the Chilton County High School P.-T.A.

Mrs. Jones has also recently been honored from Rome with the Papal medal, Pro Ecclesia Et Pontifice."

LIBERTY HILL W.M.U. MET

The W.M.U. of Liberty Hill met at the church November 17th with 28 present. The program was opened with a song, and the devotional was given by Mrs. Calvin Daniels. Mrs. Earl Lowery made a very interesting talk. Then the minutes were read by Mrs. Fred Lowery, after which business was discussed.

Three quilts for the Mississippi Indians have been quilted.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. J. W. Johnson.—Reporter, Mrs. Glennie Kendrick.

Concert Association Enjoyed Rare Treat

The patrons of Chilton County Community Concert Association and music lovers in general enjoyed a rare treat in the performance of Genevieve Rowe, coloratura soprano, who opened the concert season in Clanton on Friday evening in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church. The large audience was not long in detecting that the beautiful radiant Genevieve Rowe had something genuine to contribute and they gave her a succession of ovation throughout the evening.

The program presented by Miss Rowe, assisted by her husband, Robert Payson Hill, prominent pianist, teacher and her accompanist, was composed of wide variety of selections so that each patron could be reached. One distinguished selection of the evening where in both artists merged their genius, was the beautiful Blue Danube Waltz, by Strauss (adopted from the Schulz-Evler-Arabisques, by Robert Payson Hill).

During the entire concert the gamut of its rendition was one of taste and elegence. An established concert artist, Miss Rowe in addition to her lovely voice, capable of remarkable shading has a simplicity of charm and a most pleasing touch. The color shading of her wonderful soprano voice was especially noticeable in lovely Aria, a famous colotura Air: Una voca poca sa (a little voice I hear), a favorite opera selection from Rossini's "Barbar of Seville."

The audience was warm in its exceptional qualities, endeared herself to Friday night's patrons who expressed their appreciation by remarkable outburst of enthusiasm.

Last year's concerts, directed by Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, received much praise. This year under the direction of Mr. A. C. Knight, greater performances are expected.

The Chilton County Community Concert Association hopes to go forward with expectation of greater performances.

LET'S MAKE IT A REAL THANKSGIVING!

Thanksgiving, 1952! What will it mean to you, your family and your community?

In this twentieth century one sometimes wonders whether Thanksgiving has any significant meaning even to church people. We seem to be so proud and self-sufficient. We, the creators of powerful machines have largely forgotten God, the Creator. Children today do not often see adults humbly giving thanks to God for anything.

This year let us attempt to recapture the real spirit of Thanksgiving. Let us make it a time when young and old alike come to a new sense of wonder and awe as they think of the Great God Who sustains all life and who so bountifully provides for our every need. Let us help one and all to feel joyful and happy inside, not simply through repeating or singing praise thoughts but through opportunities to share God's gifts with others.

On Wednesday evening, November 26th, at 7 o'clock at the Clanton First Methodist Church you will have the opportunity to bring happiness to someone this Thanksgiving Day. Take advantage of this opportunity to share your blessings with someone. You have a cordial invitation to attend.

The broadcast will be carried over radio station WKLF from 2 until 3:30 o'clock. We do appreciate so much the fine cooperation give us last winter in making the convention a great success, and ask that everyone join us again this year with another fine broadcast of gospel songs.

Rehearsals are underway for "Shooting Stars," the local talent show being sponsored by Disabled American Veterans, to be presented November 25 and 26 at 8:00 p.m. at the Clanton City Hall. The play is under the direction of Helen Smith of Detroit, Michigan, and she is very pleased with the cast and the cooperation received from them. The Roxy Rockettes who do dance routine in this opening scene are: Mary Jo Wagoner, Ardith Askins, Helen Todd, Ruby Price, Shirley Price and Jackie Minor.

There are to be impersonations of several TV and Radio stars. In the opening scene, the entire cast is on stage, practicing their acts when suddenly Milton Berle, known as Mr. TV himself, impersonated by Bob Taber enters and shouts for attention. This scene is a fast moving combination of songs and dances that gets the show off to a big start. Milton Berle will also do a comedy skit later on in the show.

Two Studio Pages, Betty Jones and Joan Smith appear next in syncopated patter invite the audience to follow them on a tour of the studios where they will see television "Shooting Stars" onto the screens in the living rooms of thousands of homes throughout the nation.

The first program they suggest that the audience should see is one designed for the youngsters. This is called "Tell A Story Time" and features Miss Helen Parrish in the role of Fran Allison, who has won fame with her Kukla, Fran and Ollie Show. She tells the story of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs as ten children wearing special satin costumes enact the fairy tale in pantomime.

Teen-agers in appropriate costumes next give a chorus number called "Backstage TV Queens." This is a comedy routine showing that life for young hopefuls in television is not all glamous and the clever is not all glamour and the clever floor mops adds color and fun to the production. The girls who take part in this number are: Vee Davis, Paula Gore, Marjorie Smith, Peggy Rasberry, Paula Nivens and Patsy Buckner.

Next comes a production number which uses a rustic setting and is called the Happy Hayride Show. In this scene Mr. Curley Q. Huntley acts as master of ceremonies while he impersonates Roy Acuff of Grand Ole Opry fame. Virginia Wagoner, Betty Moliston, Elinor Warr, Bobby Crowe, Corine Seales and Myrna Crew, wearing colorful costumes appear as the Happy Hayriders and do dance routine, and we know you will be well pleased with the several special acts Roy Acuff has lined up for you.

The scene called the "Fred Waring" Show is outstanding from the point of good music and uniqueness. Mr. Red Fulmer as Fred Waring will act as MC and will troduce Rebecca Popwell as Joanne Wheatley, the soloist. She will sing Liebestraum and Beautiful Dreamer. Eighteen girls in evening dresses will appear also in this scene.

Of particular interest to the women attending the production is the "Queen for a Day" scene. Mr. Leland Hudson as Jack Bailey chooses three women from the audience to come up onto the stage. He interviews them, and asks questions, just as the original Jack Bailey does in the famous show by the same name. The applause of the audience determines which of the three should be given the honor of becoming Clanton's Queen for a Day. When she is chosen, a coronation ceremony takes place on the stage and she will be the recipient of several lovely gifts and awards to assure her of a happy twenty-four hour reign. These gifts are from the local merchants who are cooperating with the Disabled American Veterans to make the show a success. There will be a 'Queen for a Day" chosen each night.

Tickets are on sale and you may get yours from any of the Veterans of any member of the cast. These may be reserved Tuesday morning free of charge.

THE OTHER NINE TENTHS

In her message to the teachers of America, NEA president Sarah Caldwell said:

"Teachers have done their best in school classrooms. Outside of that area few teachers use more than one tenth of their real power or influence. But today, more than ever before, their responsibility extends beyond the four walls of their schools."

And she might have added, so do many of their finest opportunities. These, too, many of them, lie outside schools. In overlooking these outside chances teachers by-pass some of life's greatest satisfactions. Instead, they shunt their years into ever-narrowing experiences, dwarfing their personalities, further limiting their opportunities.

"Greener pastures lie on the other side of the fence" is literally true for many teachers; not occupational pastures, but non-teaching pastures, recreational by-ways, social playgrounds, fields of intellectual competition, broad avenues of church work, crowded streets of civic service.

Life for everybody, for teachers, particularly, is many-sided. All of it does not lie between a flat-topped desk and a strip of blackboard. All of it is not concerned with children, nor should it be, lest it become dwarfed into immaturity by its too-close contact with immature minds. Few sights are more tragic than a child's personality in an adult body. And yet such tragic sights are found in many American schools today; glimpses of teachers who, unknowingly, perhaps, have stopped growing because years ago they accepted the four walls of their classroom as the boundaries of their daily world. —Alabama School Journal.

BOOING THE CANDIDATES

In the recent election, teen-agers were reported booing the Presidential candidates, President Truman and other leading figures in the past political campaign. Whether these demonstrations were spontaneous, or organized in advance, matters little.

In our country we have traditionally allowed candidates to be heard in an atmosphere of fair play and politeness. While this record is not perfect, of course, and while jeers and boos have punctuated the political meetings of the past, they have fortunately been the exception and not the rule.

The new twist this year was that teen-agers committeed the offense regularly. The fact that these young people are not mature enough in their judgment to understand both sides of many issues is pretty well established. However, American youth traditionally has, in the past, had respect for it's elders.

In the past campaign, this respect was not observed by some of the nation's teen-agers. One may disagree with everything a candidate says, but we must not disregard his right to say it.

DRUG ADDICTION

Drug addiction is not in itself a crime but a disease. Because of the increase of addiction among teen-agers, parents would do well to understand the habits of their offspring.

How does it start? Even though there are laws directed to regulate the sale of drugs, addicts obtain them. Unfortunately, there are numerous peddlers of the various habit-forming drugs. Environment and association are factors, and frequently it is the offer by a companion to a girl or boy of a new lift or thrill that starts the habit. The provider knows that small amounts of drugs at nominal costs will not satisfy the victim; for once the habit is entrenched, frequent and bigger doses of the drug are necessary, which runs into more money.

What is the answer to the problem? Education of parents and children alike. Boys and girls must be taught that it is not smart or sophisticated to use drugs in any of their narcotic forms, and they should understand the dangers involved. While it is estimated that at least five per cent of narcotic addicts become so by means of repeated dosages of drugs to alleviate pain, the preponderance of addicts fall among those persons, normal in every respect, who seek adventure and emotionally unstable persons who cannot face the realities of every day life.

Indications of drug addiction vary according to the method and the type of drug used. Among them are a strained expression, glassy stare of the eyes, trembling hands, swelling or redness in the partition of the nostrils, apparent puncture marks on the skin from hypodermic needles. Symptoms include running of the nose or tearing of the eyes; excessive yawning and sneezing, constant itching of the skin of the arms and legs and dilatation of the pupils of the eyes.

Drug addiction can be cured through hospital treatment which includes psychiatric care and the gradual withdrawal of the drug. The pain, usually associated with the withdrawal treatment, is agonizing to the patient. Unfortunately, institutional treatment is not always a success because, once the patient is discharged, he is susceptible to the demands and threats of his former companions and the unscrupulous peddlers who thrive financially.

ALABAMA'S OLD PEOPLE

Alabama's old people — those 65 years of age and older—increased more than five times as fast between 1900 and 1950 as the population as a whole.

The State Department of Health called attention today to a state-by-state tabulation prepared by the Federal Security Agency's Committee on Aging and Geriatrics, showing that this state's population increased during that half-century by 8.1 per cent. It also shows that this state's men and women above 64 had increased by 45.8 per cent. In the United States as a whole the population increase amouted to 14.5 per cent during that time. The increase in those 65 and older in the entire country amounted to only 36.1 per cent, or only slightly more than twice the increase in the population as a whole.

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

THE HINGE OF DESTINY—A PERSONAL QUESTION.

"Believest thou this?" — John 11:26.

The most unhampered liberty within one's possession is the liberty of belief; the one private right that no law can invade, either for enforcement or prevention. Therein every man enjoys a freedom of which he can never be deprived.

In the field of religion one's eternal welfare hangs upon the intelligent exercise of the privilege mentioned here; that of unfettered belief. In the practice of it two God-given agencies are brought into action, namely; the mind and the heart; the rational faculty and the emotional. For example, you will find an invitation offered in the first chapter of Isaiah in these words: "Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord"; and in the Epistle to the Romans you will find the authorized declaration; "With the heart man believeth unto salvation."

Reason is the steadying power, and emotion the driving force. The two must needs travel together, and by their mutual interaction one's soul is brought into proper adjustment with his Creator. And we may note that if either one becomes predominant over the other, there is consequent failure in the acquirement of well-balanced belief. Over-emphasis upon either will invariably mar the development of a wholesome Christian character.

"Believest thou this?" By a mighty thrust that question penetrated the inmost being of a woman in an hour of fathomless agony. She had known the questioner as her friend and had trusted him in the routine of ordinary incidents of the passing days. Now however, the shock of disaster was causing the foundation of her trust to tremble. "If thou hadst been here, my brother had not died." But now he is dead, and is it not too late? Then comes the test to her belief; "I am the resurrection of the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. . . .Believest thou this?" That good woman stood the test and came through the fire with her garments unsinged! The united operation of reason and emotion (which is trustful love in action) provided her with a liberty of faith that was simply unconquerable. Therein we see the linking of divine revelation and human insight.

"Believest thou this?" The answer to that question reveals the measure of anyone's brain and heart. Does the declaration that the dead in Christ shall rise again satisfy your mind as well as your soul? Would you stake all you have upon that conviction? If so, you can accept the testimony of Dr. Howard A. Kelly, the distinguished scientist and surgeon, who said, "A definite Christian faith is the one really important thing in life. I mean that literally."

FARMERS CAN FIND GOOD MARKETS NOW

Alert retail food merchants plan a sales campaign several days or even weeks in advance. And the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons are two of the heaviest marketing periods during the year.

"Therefore," advises Austin Ezzell, API Extension distributor marketing specialist, "now is a very good time for farmers to contact food merchants about crops they have for sale."

Ezzell admits that many of the holiday foods are not grown on Alabama farms. But retailers are interested in selling as many good, locally-grown foods for holiday use as possible.

BAN LIFTED ON HUNTING

Montgomery, Ala. — State Conservation Director Earl M. McGowin has lifted the ban on Alabama hunting following a general rain which did much to dispel forest fire danger, and gave new life to winter crops in the state.

This week heavy rains fell across the Tennessee Valley area in North Alabama, and showers were reported throughout the state. Fires which had raged in Alabama timber lands sputtered out.

State farmers said also that the rain was helpful to pastures which were turning brown after more than a month without watering. However, many grass farmers said that more wet weather is needed.

The three-day ban on hunting affected only the squirrel, rabbit, o'possom and raccoon seasons. McGowin added that the season for trapping and hunting game birds and animals will be opened at the time originally set.

STORED SWEETPOTATOES

After sweetpotatoes are cured, keep temperature in the storage house between 50 and 55 degrees F.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

At what age do little girls first become interested in members of the opposite sex? Some observers argue that they're born interested, and after watching the way our new baby saves her sweetest smiles for masculine admirers, I'm inclined to agree.

By the time they're five, they're definitely interested.

Last week a group of dancers from the dancing school the five-year-old attends was invited to perform at a nearby Army base. The five-year-old was delighted at being included in the group and could hardly wait for the appointed day to arrive. Her eyes got bright and shining every time she talked about going out "where all those soldiers are."

It turned out though that the entertainment was not to be for the soldiers but for their wives. The five-year-old almost lost interest in the project when she heard this news.

"There're just going to be ladies to watch us dance," she reported. "Now ain't that a shame!"

Our neighbor around the corner finds a use for everything. Nothing is ever wasted around her house, and there are mighty few things so worn out that she can't convert them into something useful. There has even been a report that she turned her husband's discarded false teeth into ash trays (some folks said it was tooth pick holders, but I think that report is an exaggeration.

Anyhow, she's mighty thrifty. For instance, after her bath towels become worn, she cuts out the good parts, finishes them with a blanket stitch and adds them to her supply of bath cloths. If the towel is too worn to be converted into bath cloths, she uses several thicknesses of it as the filling for a pot holder.

This same thrifty neighbor makes pot holders, took out of the legs of worn out blue jeans. I've never found out what she does with all the pot holders she makes. How many of those articles can one housekeeper use?

Speaking of saving things, do you have any of the metal rings that protect spools of adhesive tape? Our neighbor who has a big family saves them and turns them into napkin rings.

Her family dislikes using paper napkins, and her cloth ones kept getting mixed up after mealtime until she hit upon her inexpensive napkin ring idea.

She gave the rings coats of enamel, using various colors she had left over from other paint jobs. Then she used a nail polish brush to print each child's name on his napkin ring in contrasting colors.

What began as a practical solution to a household problem has now become a profitable hobby for their neighbor; nearly every boy who sees the attractive rings places an order for some like them.

Helpful hint: The next time you're cutting butter or margarine into pats for the table, cover your knife with waxed paper and the fat won't stick to the knife.

Now here's a dessert treat, as easy as it is good: Add a tablespoon of honey and a dash of cinnamon to an egg and beat well. Dip slices of dry cake in the mixture, brown in a bit of fat and serve topped with tangy jelly.

/erbena Offered Bowl Bid After Defeating Clanton

The Verbena football team was ited to play in a bowl game at kson, Ala. The call came late day afternoon, but Verbena had refuse as they had already played ten games this season.

By Gerald Lee
Advertiser Sports Writer

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 14. — A run-g-passing duo of Gordon Burk-ter and Homer Robinson proved much for Clanton here tonight the Red Devils of Verbena thun-ed to a 27-0 victory and added 30 in one of the state's most liant win streaks.

These ancient Chilton County als battled away in The Ad-tiser's featured High School me of the Week. The con-t was the season's finale for th squads. The loss was the rth in the current campaign. the Tigers of Clanton.

umbles proved to be a per-al plague where the Tigers e concerned, but the real dif-nce in the victory rested in skillful blending of Burkhal-s pin-point aerials, the bruising ning of Robinson and Bobby ore, with the generalship of rterback James Lee.

he charges of foxy J. R. Porch erted their superiority from the ning whistle, when the Red ils plowed their way down to Clanton 15. Clanton shifted to even-man line, and on the next y Ray Williams pounced on a rkhalter fumble to give Clanton ssession and thwart Verbena's e in the opening minutes.

Throughout the first quarter e two teams battled in stale-ate fashion. Leading the way r Clanton was a rugged full-ck named Don Askins.

he second quarter opened with rbena mired deep in their own ritory. But Burkhalter electrified the Verbena stands with a 70-yard jaunt off tackle before he was knocked out of bounds by Corky Oaks. Moore hit the line for one, but Burkhalter was smeared for a 3-yard loss on an attempted end around.

Burkhalter directed his attention toward the center of the line, but was able to acquire but one yard. With the drive apparently stymied, Burkhalter flipped six yards in the flat to Robinson, who carried an additional four yards to Verbena's first touchdown. Burkhalter's pass intended for Harold Patterson was no good, but Verbena led 6-0.

Later in the second quarter, Verbena, led by Burkhalter and Robinson, battled to the Clanton 6. At this point Moore took a handoff for one yard, but Verbena was penalized 15 yards, and from all appearances the drive had been squelched. But Burkhalter's razor-sharp passing arm clicked again with a 20-yard pass to Robinson in the end zone for another Verbena touchdown. Moore hit the center of the line for the extra point to give Verbena a 13-0 half-time lead.

Clanton, in the twilight moments of the second quarter, received a bonus package in the form of two consecutive personal fouls against Verbena which moved the ball to the Verbena 38, but the Verbena forward wall, led by Patterson and Harold Pierce, held, and Clanton was forced to punt.

Verbena took advantage of a Clanton fumble in the third quarter, and the one-two punch of Burkhalter and Robinson drove to the 2 before Moore carried through the center of the line for Verbena's third touchdown. Burkhalter exploded through the line for the extra point to put Verbena out front 20-0 shortly before the quarter ended.

In a lackluster fourth quarter the Red Devils did not start rolling until late. The fourth touchdown drive came in the form of steady assaults against the Clanton line. The most spectacular run was furnished by Moore, who plunged 10 yards to move Verbena to the Clanton one-foot line. Behind the brilliant blocking of the entire Verbena line Robinson furnished the extra point and Verbena was out front 27-0.

Abetted by a 15-yard penalty and the accurate passing of Joe Ellison, Clanton drove to the Verbena 27, but Burkhalter interceptd on of Ellison's desperation passes in the end zone and ran it out as the ball game ended.

ALABAMA REPORTS 12 DIPHTHERIA CASES

Alabama reported more diphtheria cases during the week ending November 1 than any other state.

The State Department of Health called attention today to a state-by-state tabulaion prepared by the National Office of Vital Statistics, a copy of which has been received here. It shows that the Alabama total of 12 for that week exceeded not only that for every other state but also the combined totals of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. These five states reported only 11 cases

FARMER'S INCOME

Last year $1,719 was the average net income per farm worker, while $3,416 was the average net income of the industrial worker.

Georgia ranked second to Alabama, with 11 diphtheria cases reported during that week. The national total was 91, or less than eight times the Alabama total.

DIESEL 19,500 GVW to 100,000 GCW
A product of General Motors engineering
Built with features usually reserved "for big trucks only" — that's why GMC's last longer!
THERE'S extra value in a GMC pickup, stake or panel truck because there's extra quality in the way it's built—a long list of heavy-duty features that are usually reserved by other manufacturers for their "big trucks only."
First, there's the sturdy, truck-built valve-in-head engine—protected against wear and breakdown by the same features you find in the big 200-H.P. GMC's: Tocco-Hardened crankshaft, airplane-type main and rod bearings, full-floating piston pins and rifle-drilled connecting rods carrying full-pressure lubrication all the way to the piston pins.
There's extra stopping power in a GMC's burly brakes, extra strength in its deep truck frame—extra comfort in a GMC's longer "pillow-action" springs, extra ease in a GMC's recirculating ball-bearing steering.
They're features usually reserved for "big trucks only"—yours in a GMC at no extra cost. You won't find a better truck on the market!

Beef Cattle Now Ahead Of 1951

Beef cattle growers are keenly aware of developments now going on in the industry and are anxious to get all the information that has a bearing on their situation. Some of this is summarized briefly as follows.

(1) Cattle marketing increased slowly in early 1952—about 3% during the first 5 months. Summer beef production was up more and the Fall output is running well above last year. The overall output of beef in 1952 is expected to be a gain of 8 to 10 per cent above 1951.

(2) Larger beef production this Fall is the first real increase from the big national expansion that begin 1949. Beef output will be higher for the next several years. Another 10% rise is expected in 1953.

(3) Increased slaughter will slow down the expansion in cattle numbers but will likely not stop it in 1953. Cattle numbers, starting from 77 million head on farms in January 1949 increased to 88 million by the beginning of 1952 and is expected to reach 93 million by January of 1953.

(4) Until recent months most of the increase in cattle slaughter has been from feed lots. Now the slaughter of cattle off grass is building up and will probably increase further next year particularly as more slaughter cows begin coming to market again.

(5) Cattle prices have declined about 1-5 to 1-3 depending upon the grade. Prices for top grade cattle have fallen less than lower grades as is usually true when cattle slaughter is increasing. Midwest market prices in September for choice slaughter steers was $4.15 per hundred below a year ago while decreases amounted to $9.2 for commercial cows, $5.72 for commercial steers and $8.33 for feeder cattle.

(6) Per capita consumption of beef this year is estimated at 60.4 pounds, nearly 4 pounds above last year but nearly 9 pounds under the most recent high of beef consumption reached in 1947. Total supplies of all red meats including beef, veal, lamb, mutton and pork will be about 142 pounds in 1952, and is expected to reach 144 pounds in 1953. This is considerably below the 154 pounds total for 1947, and was also exceeded in 1945, 1946 and 1948. We have not yet reached the average consumption of 160 pounds of meat per person per year which nutritionists say we need.

(7) A big factor in the price decline during the past few months has been marketing of feed lot cattle from the Corn Belt. Twenty-six percent more fed cattle were marketed from the three principle states of Iowa, Illinois, and Nebraska, July 1 through September than for the same months last year. On October 1 there were 14% more cattle in feed lots in these states than at the same date last year. This survey shows that these cattle feeders intend to market 69% of the cattle now on feed by the end of the year.

(8) With cheaper stocker steers, prospects look good now for Alabama cattlemen with good grazing who can over winter and finish out good or better grade animals for market next year. From here on the sale of such cattle by mid-summer or before the fall rush begins seems more important than ever.

(9) Led by a strong demand for beef by a fast growing population, the long range prospect for beef cattle looks good for Alabama cattlemen who will capitalize on our natural advantages.

In every possible case producers should hold beef animals and weather the present "rough" price situation.

Mulberry Church—

We had one hundred and eleven in Sunday School at Mulberry Sunday morning and a good attendance Sunday night for B.T.U. and preaching. Our pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, brought a wonderful message Sunday morning on "Singing." The Sunday night sermon was on "Records." Both sermons were fine. We were honored by having Rebecca Hardy of Coosa County to sang quiet a few songs for us Sunday morning. We always enjoy her singing. She was accompanied by her mother at the piano.

We were glad to have the Isabella Sunday School congregation join us in our preaching service Sunday morning at Mulberry.

Mrs. J. H. Wells was elected as librarian of the Mulberry library. We have some new books ready to be checked out. We want our men, women, boys and girls to take advantage of this good reading material. Check out and read it.

Bro. Jones attended the pastors convention in Birmingham last week. He gave some good reports on it Sunday.

We are having good prayer meetings, there should be more present to receive the spiritual blessings.

Lutheran Church News

The Service 11:00.

Sunday School 10:00.

Everybody welcome.

For our consideration today I would like to deal with the numerical strength of the Lutheran Church. This may probably come as a surprise to many when I say that the Lutheran Church is the largest Protestant Church on earth, but that is a well established fact. There are more Lutherans than all other Protestants combined.

Our greatest strength is in the United States, Canada, North Germany, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia. Post war figures place Lutheran membership at a little over 60,000,000. Our membership in this country is about 6,000,000 or about one-tenth of our total world membership.

Among the Protestant denominations of this country, the Lutheran Church ranks third being exceeded in number only by the Baptists and Methodists.

So you see, friends, the Lutheran Church is no small sect, but is indeed one of Protestantism's greatest fortresses.

The marbles provide just enough weight in the toes to prevent the wind from wrapping the stockings around the clothespins and line, but not enough to pull the stockings out of shape.

Child Lost and Found—

On Tuesday morning of this week a very small boy, about two years of age, was found playing around in a vacant lot and in the street on Eighth Street. The neighbors knowing this child did not live in the neighborhood were very concerned and several of them tried to get the child to say where he lived. He would only point and say "Over there." One good lady took the child in her car to find his home. Fortunately she soon learned he lived on Tenth Street. So mother and child were united and all was well.

Mothers should never get too busy with the house work or other things that they let the little ones, God's greatest gift to them, get this far from home when alone.

Getting Around with Mac Brown

Last week I was in Montgom- ry and watched the parade here. I like parades, military music and marching bands, and hey had some good ones. Lots f them were from high schools n different Alabama towns.

Of course, me being a truck driver I was very interested in he use of trucks in the parade. One completely motorized mili- ary unit passed by. In each ruck about twenty soldiers were eated, face to face with their ifles in their hands. Most people on't realize how much it helps o have trucks to transport not nly supplies but the soldiers too —to bring them into position quickly and not worn out from marching.

The importance of a large, healthy civilian trucking system s a defense asset is realized in ome places. I read not long ago where one European country is subsidizing truck manufacturers n order to build up their civilian ruck fleet for possible use in ime of war.

Over here it seems at times we re mighty short-sighted in this espect. Some people want to amper truck operators—regu- ate and tax them right out of usiness because they compete with other transportation sys- ems Maybe before its too late Americans will wake up, too, and tart boosting trucks and truck- rs instead of hounding them.

President-Elect Buys Christmas Seals

"Let's stop taking TB for granted. Let's get out of the rut with this disease.

"A total of 52 people have died of tuberculosis in Chilton County the past ten years. Right now there are 68 known cases living in our county, according to State Health Department records."

This message was issued here this week by J. B. Fort, Clanton, president of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association.

Coming on the opening week of the Annual Christmas Seal Sale, it was emphasized that Christmas Seals strike a heavy blow at TB. Funds from the sale are used to treat and hospitalize patients, as well as educate the public on ways to prevent the spread of this contagious killer.

The Christmas Seal Sale is one campaign in which the urge to give is left entirely up to the individual. No high pressure methods will be used to insist on a contribution.

Tuberculosis leaders, instead, believe that when enough people wake up to the facts about the disease—that it can be prevented and can be cured—every public spirited citizen will join in the crusade of the Christmas Seal.

Leaders are stressing the use of Seals on all holiday mail and packages. They are convinced the little Seals are the very best missionaries in reminding the public of a disease that kills needlessly.

Any who have not received their Seals are urged to get in touch with the county chairman, who will be glad to send a supply.

FIN-FAN ITEMS

Many anglers are enjoying this mild weather and are catching nice strings of Bass and Crappie on the beautiful CoosaTallapoosa Lakes. The water is in great shape. There are all existing shades of clearness to match the desires of those who prefer the slightly stained crystal clear. Fish are being caught from all Lakes. Stripes and Largemouth Bass are being taken from Sandy and Blue Creeks, Lake Martin; Smallmouth Black Bass are striking on Yates Lake and Stripes, Largemouth Bass and Crappie are the heavy hitters on Lay, Mitchell and Jordan Lakes.

Lake Jordan weigh-in stations report the Whopper Catchers of the week. Joe Smith, Owner, Log Cabin Beach Fishing Camp; at the ferry below Mitchell Dam, reports: C. C. Cochran, 4609 North 14th Avenue, Birmingham, fished the head waters of Jordan with a Jim Harvey Sucker Minnow and from his string of beauties the largest catch was a 2-pound 11-ounce White Lake Bass; by the way, Joe Smith is a member of the Lake Jordan Coast Guard Auxiliary and is doing a grand job of promoting water safety.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stearns recently replaced Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mathews as managers of Blackwell's Fishing Lodge on Shoals Creek, Lake Jordan. The Mathews are making their new home in New Jersey. We will miss the Mathews but not as much as Roy will miss his fishing on Shoals Creek. Mrs. Stearns has swung right into step on her new job by sending in the following good entries in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest: H. C. Swaringen, 3545 Honeysuckle Road, Montgomery, fished Shoals Creek with a Shimmy Wiggler and picked up a nice 5-pound Largemouth Bass. Mrs. Henry Fay, Millbrook, had her usual good luck last week. Live minnows were used to hook several handsome Crappie, the largest weighed in at 2 pounds 4 ounces. F. F. Huett, 340 Polk Street, Montgomery, also used live minnows and brought in a good string; his largest catch was a 1-pound 15-ounce Crappie. Mrs. Stearns says that the Stripes are schooling in the upper end of Shoals Creek—sounds mighty interesting.

C. R. Trousdale's Fishing Camp, just above Shoals Creek, Lake Jordan, reports: W. W. Smith, 3703 South Court Street, and W. A. Cox, 2047 Harmon Street, Montgomery, strung up 12 Bass weighing from 1 to 2½ pounds each. A couple of Maxwell Field Lieutenant Colonels, G. S. Walbom and D. A. Baight caught the creel limit of Bass fishing with a medium size yellow Lazy Iwe. The string averaged from 2 to 3¼ pounds. Dr. R. C. McQuidd, 3311 Montevallo Road and Phillip Lorino, 1509-7th Avenue West, Bush Hill, Birmingham, used deep running plugs to creel the Bass limit. Walter Rosen, 21 South Court, Montgomery, had quite a tussle landing a whopping 12-pound Blue Catfish. Walt was trilling with a Lazy Ike when the catch was made. Mr. Trousdale, always mindful of possible accidents on the Lake, sent in several safety suggestions, as follows:

(1) Standing in boat to start an outbroad motor could be very dangerous. Outboard motors starting at high speed will turn automatically to one side or the other, throwing the occupant out of the boat, leaving the boat traveling in a fast circle making it nearly impossible for one in the water to get out of the way.

(2) It is nearly impossible to hold a fast outboard motor on a tricky boat without a steering wheel.

(3) Inboard boats will often sink when not in use and most of the time caused from a leaking stuffing box, check it after each time you run your boat.

(4) If you have an inboard boat and your motor is covered over with a tight hatch-cover, do not step on the starter until you are sure that gas fumes are not in the bilge. A small amount of gas is sometimes more dangerous than a large amount.

(5) Don't stand up in an outboard while under way — more people are thrown out of boats traveling in an upright position than when the boat actually capsizes.

Many thanks go to Trousdale for the above safety hints. We welcome all safety suggestions so that we can all profit from your experience, send in any helpful water safety measures that you know of.

Please be careful with your cigarettes and matches while walking or riding through the woods. Hunting season was temporarily closed recently in an effort to check the outbreak of additional fires. Last week on Paint Creek, Lake, Lay, a hunter would have had a hard time seeing his prey for the smoke. Even the fishermen had to leave the area the smoke was so bad. You can help—just by being careful with your fires.

2nd Lowest Number Job Hunters Seeking Work Since World War II

Montgomery, Ala. — The second lowest number of job-hunters since World War 11 were seeking work through offices of the Alabama State Employment Service at the end of October, it was announced by Joe L. Coleman, director of the Department of Industrial Relations.

Active job applicants at the end of the month numbered 33,087. During the month, the Employment Service had made 12,486 non-farm job placements. This figure represented a drop of more than four per cent from the unusually high number of placements in September.

Initial Claims for unemployment compensation jumped sharply during October, Coleman revealed. Initial claims were filed by 9,431 persons during the month, an increase of 50 per cent over September. Unemployment insurance payments totaling $794,648, meanwhile, went to an estimated 13,000 jobless workers. The number of payments was up about 14 per cent from the same period last year.

Part of the jump in the number of claims filed during October was accounted for by the number of new claims by Korean veterans filing joint claims under Title IV of the Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1952.

These veterans, when entitled to benefits under the Alabama Unemployment Compensation Law, may get their weekly benefit checks increased to 26 dollars from federal funds.

Applications for work at Employment Service offices were filed by 7,113 men in October as compared with 5,785 in September and 6,033 in October 1951. Women, however, filed substantially fewer applications than during either the previous month or the same month last year.

The drop in the number of job placements was greatest in manufacturing industries, and particularly in the textile, apparel, lumber, and chemical and allied products industries. Only in transportation equipment manufacturing was there an increase in the number of placements over the previous month among manufacturing industries.

HERE'S WAY TO MAKE DUSTLESS DUST CLOTH

Auburn, Ala. — A cloth that will pick up dust and hold it is what most homemakers want in a dust cloth.

"Here's how to make one," says Stella Mitchell, API Extension home management specialist. "First, obtain a one-half yard square of hemmed cheesecloth, medium grade. To one quart of boiling water, add one tablespoon of linseed oil, one tablespoon of kerosene, and one tablespoon of turpentine. Keep this mixture in a closed container. After it cools, soak the cloth thoroughly in the solution, wring it out, and hang it up to dry. Wash when necessary and repeat treatment."

MORE INTEREST IN STATE DAIRY SHOWS

Auburn, Ala. — There was more interest in Alabama dairy shows this year than in 1951, is the opinion of J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairy specialist.

He points out that Alabama 4-H'ers and other youths showed a total of 795 number of animals was made up of 59 per cent registered Jerseys, 23 per cent registered Guernseys, and 18 per cent grade cattle.

With an eye toward shows for 1953, Parrish says that all dairy calves should have ample grazing or its equal in good hay and silage with grain until they are at least one year old. Of course, after one year of age they must be kept in a thrifty condition by giving them plenty of grazing, hay, and silage with grain when needed.

And, adds the specialist, six weeks before freshening, grain should be fed.

BREEDING COWS

When cows are bred as early as 35 days following calving, only about one out of three settle the first time.

STATE DAIRY INDUSTRY ADVANCES FOUR STEPS

Auburn, Ala. — New Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisors started work in four Alabama counties this month

Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist, said these men recently completed a DHIA shortcourse in Auburn, and they are now qualified to help promote a better record keeping system for dairy men.

Ralph Culbreth of Evergreen went to work with the Central Alabama organization made up of Lee Elmore, Autauga, and Tallapoosa Counties. Coy Laster of Cullman took over the work with the Cullman-Blount Association. Don Goggins of Ft. Payne is the new supervisor for the Marshall-DeKalb DHIA, and Oliver Ingram of Opelika went to work for the Coosa Valley Association made up of dairymen from Calhoun, St. Clair, Cleburne, and Talladega Counties.

SOIL CONSERVATION IN WINTER MONTHS

With fall harvesting and seeding about completed, farmers are concerned with jobs that will help control erosion, improve soil, and increase crop production.

During the winter months ahead, S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist, reminds farmers that labor, power, and equipment ordinarily idle at this time can be used to make needed improvements.

He says that on many farms there are idle acres of eroding land that should be converted to sod crops. They will provide forage for livestock and conserve and improve the soil at the some time.

BETTER SWEETPOTATOES

Sweetpotatoes may become a more important world food crop, thanks to discovery of plants resistant to black rot by a Chinese scientist working at the U. S. Department of Agriculture

TOMATO LOSS

Of every 100 pounds of tomatoes picked by the farmer, only 57 pounds reached the housewife in 1951.

Our Town Wouldn't Take a "Back Seat"

Well, the "battle of the buses" has been settled! Our town is again friendly with Balesville.

Everything started when buses began going through our town with a big sign on them saying SHOP IN BALESVILLE. The bus line is owned in Balesville and operates over here on a franchise.

Windy Taylor was all for putting up barricades — he kept calling up the police and the bus company. Finally Judge Cunningham invited the Balesville Chamber of Commerce to meet with ours at Andy's Green Gardens. Over a good meal and glass of beer we all reached a compromise without any trouble. Those signs now read SHOP HERE IN TOWN. Everyone's happy.

From where I sit, it shows how problems disappear once both sides get together and try to work things out. Naturally we're all a little different. Some like soda pop, for instance, and some like beer. So what? We all have to ride along through life together. Why not make it a pleasant trip?

TWIST-TYPE RUGS VERSUS TUFT-TYPE

Twist-type carpets and rugs are becoming more popular and, they are challenging the long supremacy of the "cut pile" type, such as the axminster, finds Alice Peavy, API Extension home management specialist.

She states that axminsters still lead all other kinds of carpets in sales, but consumers are showing a preference for the twist-type with the harder surface and nubby or pebbly look.

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

VOLUME XXX CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, NOV. 27, 1952 NUMBER 48

—By Ben

Course when we said the other week that our favorite Welfare Worker had left Chilton County, ve didn't mean that Jean, Mary, Elizabeth, Fay, Bobby, and all the others aren't our favorite Welfare Workers here. What we meant was that Jean Lake was our favorite Welfare Worker that had left Clan- on. Well, we don't think that leared that up very well.

Got a call this morning from Helen Parrish that a meeting had een called for the 1952 edition of he Chilton County Christmas Chest or tonight. We wrote our editorial age before the call came. M. K. Vickers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, has been made 1952 hairman of the drive and with the oyal workers he has behind him, ve know that he will make a big uccess of the Christmas Chest this ear.

Bob Taber, Leo Thompson and ewis Culver have got their new lumbing and heating business going full blast now. They call it the Tri-Service & Supply, Inc. They eature air-conditioning, Crane lumbing fixtures and heating supplies. They're located across the treet from that other newspaper n Clanton.

Wish Clanton would have a Christmas parade with big rubber alloon Santas, reindeer, sleds, etc. Nothing brings home the feeling of Christmas like a great big Santa Claus Christmas parade.

Betty Robertson, who is a student t Huntingdon College at Mont- omery, is assistant business man- ger of the college Student Maga- ine this year. Betty is the dau- hter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Robertson.

And while we're talking about ur young folks Lenore Oglesby, who is also a student at Hunting- on, has been elected President of he Scribblers Club. The Club is n organization of freshmen who re studying writing. Congratula- ions to both of these fine young adies.

We were sorry to learn of the eath of Carolyn Montgomery last veek. She had many friends in Chilton County who were grieved t her death. Miss Montgomery vas public health nurse for this ounty for several years. She was uried with full military honors at Valhalla Cemetery.

Roy Mahan was in to see us the ther day and told us of a visit to he burying ground of some of his ncestors. He had heard his Dad, rkie Mahan, tell of the cemetery etween Wilton and Montevallo so e stopped by to take a look at the ead stones. He found the grave f Major John Mahan, Esq., born 1750 and died in 1820. By-the- ay, John A. was the name of his ather. Next to this lay Col. James Mahan who died May 29, 1849. oy says this was probably a son f Major John A. Mahan. Roy's ate father, John Arkie, was a name- ake of the Major John. CHRISTMAS SEALS HELP MAKE TB CURES POSSIBLE

New methods of treatment make it more important than ever to find the 150,000 "unknown" cases of tuberculosis—people who are infecting others . . . and losing their own health.

These "unknowns" must be found and spread of infection controlled—by more chest X-ray, educational, and research programs. These are just some of the activities encouraged and supported by your Christmas Seal dollars.

Remember, no one can be "cured" until treated . . . and no one can be treated until found. So, continue the winning fight against tuberculosis. Send in your contribution today.

Transcontinental Asking For 35% Increase In All Wholesale Natural Gas Rates

Cooperation Of All Gas Line Patrons Solicited By Council

Your city-owned gas system has been in operation about fifteen months. This system was acquired by your City selling $540,000.00 worth of bonds. These bonds were sold with a potential period of thirty-year retirement.

When acquiring this bonded indebtedness the wholesale gas rates of the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Company were taken into consideration. These rates are now $2.15 per thousand cubic feet Demand Charge and 20c per thousand cubic feet Commodity Charge—this being about 90% higher than the Southern Natural Gas Company's wholesale rates. However, it was not possible for us to connect with Southern Natural Gas Company because of too great a distance to their main which is located above Calera, Alabama.

On December 1, 1952, at 10:00 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time), the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Company is bringing before the Federal Power Commission at Washington, D.C., at a Hearing, a plea to raise the wholesale rates to all their customers 35%. This increase would have to be passed on to the Gas Customers of Clanton and Cooper, Alabama

Your City Officials feel that this increase, or any increase in rate, is not justifiable and should not be granted. However, our only hope to stop this increase is for the Users of Natural Gas in Clanton and Cooper, Alabama, is to let their thoughts be known by wiring or writing to Congressman Armistead Selden, Greensboro, Alabama, and Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman, Washington, D.C.

We sincerely hope that every Gas User and Citizen will give this matter his most serious consideration and contact at once the men mentioned above.

We are asking our local newspapers to publish this statement as a public service.

Your City Officials, of Clanton, Alabama.

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

Our attendance was fair for Sunday School and worship service. Bro. Cook's messages concerning the promises we make to God and the church body, when we joined the church was very good. I'm sure many of us were made to feel ashamed of how we failed so many times. Also that in our hearts we mean to do better service for God in the future. Let's all pray that we will be better Christians., Let's ask our people who just carelessly miss church to be more concerned about our Master's business. When one member of our Sunday School is absent we just can't carry on the work as well.

Mrs. N. E. Cook has been very sick since last Monday night. She was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital Sunday afternoon. Her condition is not improved much. She had visitors in her home Sunday. Those out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Duncan of Deatsville, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Luke Calloway of Prattmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Thornton and Paul and Mrs. Jesse Thornton visited relatives in Phenix City last week.

Let Us Be Thankful—

Praise the Lord, O My Soul and forget not all his benefits. Psalms 103:2.

As we celebrate this special day, Thanksgiving, let us be mindful of all the blessings and privileges that are ours. For life itself, health, for all the special opportunities that come our way, let us be grateful. We have the privilege of worship in our churches to learn the lessons that God teaches through His servants. It was Abraham Lincoln who proclaimed the first Thanksgiving Day, in 1863. Much that he said then is applicable today—in part, "No human counsel hath devised nor hath mortal have worked out the great things of our country. They are gracious gifts of the Most High, who while dealing with us in anger for our sins hath also remembered mercy."

There are so many minorities demanding attention these days that the majority rarely gets much attention.

Reading a book would not be so difficult if the writer knew more about what he was writing and told it simply.

Despite our modern civilization, most human beings give the bulk of their efforts in exchange for the necessities of life, and some even fail to get them.

OUR CHRISTMAS CHEST

For the past several years Chilton County Christmas Chest has brought happiness and cheer at Christmas time to hundreds of needy children and adults in the county.

It is time for our thoughts to be turning in this direction and let us hope that the business leaders of Chilton County come to the aid of these needy people again this year. Let us all give all that we can to make their Christmas a happy one.

GAS RATE INCREASE NOT FAIR

Trans-Continental Gas Company's petition before the Federal Power Commission to increase gas rates by 35 percent is unfair.

When plans were made for natural gas for Clanton the cost played a vital part as to whether the City could promote and realize a profit in natural gas customers. After long deliberation the City Council agreed to undertake such a project and the result to date has been gratifying.

Now comes word that Trans-Continental Gas Company will attempt on December 1st, before the Federal Power Commission in Washington, to get that Body's permission to raise their gas rates. To Clanton the cost would be approximately $15,000.00 per year and it would come out of the consumer's pocket.

Many of our citizens have wired or written their Senators and Congressmen in Washington to appear before the Commission and ask for a postponement of the hearing that the consumers side of the picture might be presented. This will take until at least March 1st.

Whatever the outcome we do not think it fair to Clanton to impose an increase in natural gas rates when our gas system is only a year old and will suffer enough as it is from growing pains without this added increase in cost.

WE DO HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT

Number One on the legislative agenda for the Republican Congress, that will take over in January of 1953, as Eisenhower moves into the White House, will certainly be the writing of a law to eliminate the presidential electoral college.

Since the days of George Washington, the President of the United States has been officially chosen by men elected in each state to the electoral college.

When you voted on November 4, you put no X-mark beside the names: Stevenson and Eisenhower. Those names did not even appear on the ballot.

The consequence of the indirect, electoral college, method of naming a president has resulted in no voice for minority voters. Not since Wilson defeated Hughes in 1916 has any candidate, lacking a majority of the popular vote, been elected to the presidency.

But the outworn electoral college system has been out-of-date for half a century.

It took the serious depression of the early '30's to stress the need for inaugurating a new president in January, instead of waiting until March 15th.

Right at this hour, with Truman's gang readying for a hurried exit from Washington, our national leadership is clouded in uncertainty and doubt. This is demonstrated in the frantic messages Truman has been making to have Eisenhower arrange to take over at the earliest possible hour.

Possibly, the oath-taking of new presidents should be moved up another month or so, from mid-January to December, 30 days after the election results are totaled.

But the great reform most needed is that of tossing the electoral college into the ash-can. The popular vote, and that alone, should be the determining factor in electing a president.

America believes in majority rule. Democracy is riding towards a heavy jolt when it uses an elective system that might permit a minority control of the highest office in the land. — Andalusia Star-News.

Your School Days

Remember your school days? You would very likely be able to identify your whereabouts if you were suddenly removed to a modern school room but you would probably have cause to ponder the tremendous change that has been made since your student days—especially if you have reached that stage in life where you have children of school age.

The observance of American Education Week, Mrs. Curry Thomas' sixth grade invited the parents of the children in her class to attend a skit entitled "School for A Day." The program was presented by teir Better Speech Club and both the students and Mrs. Thomas assured some nineteen of us parents that it was a fairly typical day in their school life. This being true, you may rest assured that your child is getting a full dosage of reading, writing, and arithmetic; but just as positively you may well know that it is quite different from your experiences. Of course, the present day provides many conveniences and machines that were relatively unknown in your time—such as radios, roll-away charts and maps, lavatories and dining rooms. But, there has been a change in methods, too; and results is a changed attitude in the whole set-up.

From the welcome to the close of the program came one surprise after another. To see the pupils lead devotional by repeating Scriptures far beyond the average adults ability, to watch them perform problems on the board and find errors by retracing their work, to hear recitals of poetry, to follow them in their learning about health, science, spelling, art, and all the other things that they will use in actually living and earning their way in life is most reassuring. To sit with them through lunch period, watch their behavior in performing te little acts of courtesy so essential to successful relations with others, just to be with them is an experience well worth the time required. It is more, it is a challenge to all parents because your children are setting high examples for you, and you know it is supposed to be just the opposite.

Finally, you and I are indebted to our school officials beyond our means. They are doing a highly satisfactory job, but still work under severe handicap. Buildings are inadequate, teachers are over-loaded with too many pupils, and despite the facilities that have been added since our day there are others needed. Yes, even now, television is being discussed for the educational field. All in all, you are going to have to "stay on the ball," or Johnny and Jane are going to end up a lot smarter than Mom and Pop; but isn't that just what we all want?

Every student in the class took an active part in the program, but the subjects and the leaders were as follows:

Welcome — Billy Miller.
Devotional — Sandra Ellison.
Arithmetic — Jack Wright.
Social Studies — Denny Wood.
Writing — Billy Miller.
Physical Education — Larry Culpepper.
Attitudes — Ruby Jewel Littleton.
Health — Bobby Littleton.

FARMERS CAN MAKE OWN CONCRETE FENCE POSTS

Auburn, Ala. — A fence built with concrete posts is practically free from upkeep expense. This is the big reason millions of concrete posts are now in use on farms throughout the U. S.

William T. Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings, says that several hundred concrete posts were erected on the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station farm at Ames in 1914. These posts, after more than 25 years of service, are in excellent condition and will give good service for many more years.

Plans and specifications for casting concrete fence posts may be obtained by asking the local county agent for Extension plan No. MF-2, "Concrete Post Details" and plan No. MF-3, Corner Fence Post."

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

LUNG CANCER

Cancer of the lung has increased at a rate far in excess of cancer of other organs in the last generation. The reason for this is not known, but statistically it is so. The present longer life expectancy is, of course, a factor.

Coughing is a symptom present at one time or another in almost every case of lung cancer, just as it is a symptom common to all diseases of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Expectoration of blood is another fairly common symptom of cancer of the lung, as is pain in the chest. Because these various symptoms are also identified with other conditions, the physician must resort to numerous procedures in making his diagnosis.

One is the x-ray film which reveals the presence of an abnormal shadow in the lungs. To explain the shadow, examination of the sputtum is one of the first steps taken to make a diagnosis. In addition, with the aid of a bronchoscope, a ligted instrument which is passed down into the trachea or windpipe and then to the right or left side of the chest into the smaller bronchial tubes, the physician can inspect directly the area involved, noting any evidence of irregularity such as the presence of a tumor.

When a diagnosis of cancer of the lung has been established, surgical removal of the entire lung is indicated. The accepted methods of treating cancer, namely the use of radium and deep x-ray therapy, and other procedures now undergoing experimentation, do not seem to be particularly advantageous in treatment of cancer of the lung. Surgery, the third accepted procedure, appears to be the only answer. However, other methods may be employed for alleviation of pain if the disease has spread extensively or is in the advanced state.

As in every form of cancer, best results are obtained when diagnosis is established early. The same principle holds true for treatment.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

No matter how much she loves him, a little brother can be mighty annoying at times to a five-year-old.

The other afternoon, a rainy afternoon it was, the three-year-old had devoted his finest talents to pestering his big sister. He had undressed her dolls, hidden her crayons, gotten in her way when she tried to dance, appeared as an uninvited and very hungry guest at a tea party, scribbled in her coloring book and claimed all the comic books.

The five-year-old bore up under these tribulations rather remarkably, seeming to realize that sometimes little brothers will behave in that awful fashion. Finally though, after he had scattered her paper dolls all over the floor, she gave him an exasperated look and exclaimed:

"I'm just thankful our new baby is a girl!"

It hardly seems possible that Thanksgiving is here already. Most of Alabama's bumper turkey crop has already moved from the farmyard to the oven, and the first fruit cakes of the season have already been sampled.

If you'd like to surprise your dinner guests with something unusual, make individual fruit-turkey salads for them, the kind our next door neighbor makes.

She begins with two pear halves put together with cream cheese for the body. Then, using tooth picks to anchor it in place, she makes the tail from half a pineapple slice. The neck is a wedge from a red apple, pieces of pimento make the wattles, and a cherry head with clvoe eyes perches on top of the neck. Shredded cereal sprinkled along the back like feathers completes the perky Thanksgiving bird.

The turkey salads are served atop a shredded cabbage nest. Our neighbor says they're easy to make, but then she has a way of making most things sound deceptively simple.

A new grocery store which opened in our neighborhood recently gave gas filled balloons as souvenirs for the children. Like all the other youngsters, the three-year-old and the five-year-old were fascinated with their "floating balloons," but before we got home, the three-year-old turned loose the string for a second and his balloon flew away over the trees. Oh, he was unhappy!

The mother down the street prevented such an unfortunate incident for her children by giving each child a big empty spool. Then she tied the strings of the balloons through the spools, thus giving each child a firm handle for his souvenir.

Several of our gardening neighbors picked all their late tomatoes to save them from the frost, and several of them had more green tomatoes than they knew what to do with.

A reader-friend from Georgia writes that she ripens her green tomatoes by placing them inside a paper bag for a few days. Sounds like a good idea.

Now here are some suggestions for your Thanksgiving menu: Serve your cranberry sauce fropen. Break up a can of jellied sauce with a fork and mix in 3-4 cup ginger ale before freezing in your refrigerator tray. . . .Put a tiny pumpkin made of cheese on top of each piece of pumpkin pie. Shape the pumpkins, chill and use a sprig of parsley for the stem.

Do you know this about telephone taxes?

You may not realize how large a part of the money paid by telephone users goes to taxes.

Including the federal excise tax, a total of 29¢ out of every dollar received from Southern Bell customers last year was paid out in taxes to federal, state and local governments. To put it another way, the average amount of taxes was $2.67 a month per telephone.

Telephone taxes are necessary to the support of government, but they do mount up. Higher taxes of course have effect on the price you pay for telephone service.

The next time you pay your telephone bill, remember that a good part of it is taxes for government and national defense.

Plans are well underway for a full year of activities. We look forward to one of the best years we have ever had. An effort is being made to bring the church roll up to date, and to try to locate all non-resident members. Those having information concerning non-resident members will aid us greatly by giving us that information. We hope to have our calendar of activities completed very soon.

We have been well pleased with the increase in prayer meeting attendance. W hav been abov 50 several times and we hope to reach 75 in the near future. The midweek service is an important service, and gives that much needed spiritual life for the week.

DON'T TRUST ANIMALS

Even gentle animals may kick or strike when startled. Handle all livestock kindly, but with alertness.

Here's how you tell when a pan of gingerbread has baked enough: The top should have a light springy feeling when gently tapped with the fingers, the sides of the cake should have shrunk slightly from the sides of the pan, and there should be no sticky particles left on a clean toothpick or wire cake tester inserted in the center.

CHRISTMAS SEALS HELP MAKE TB CURES POSSIBLE

New methods of treatment make it more important than ever to find the 150,000 "unknown" cases of tuberculosis—people who are infecting others . . . and losing their own health.

These "unknowns" must be found and spread of infection controlled—by more chest X-ray, educational, and research programs. These are just some of the activities encouraged and supported by your Christmas Seal dollars.

Remember, no one can be "cured" until treated . . . and no one can be treated until found. So, continue the winning fight against tuberculosis. Send in your contribution today.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Let's give thanks that the fight against TB can and will be won."

That's the Thanksgiving message expressed here this week by Mr. J. B. Fort, president of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association.

"Tuberculasis is curable and it is preventable. And the prevention and cure of the disease is the purpose of the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

"We're thankful so many people are having a part in a great crusade because they buy and use Christmas Seals. Death rates have been dropping steadily since the first Seals were sold 46 years ago.

"But a strong fight still, must be waged. The battle is only half won.

"There are active, infectious cases of TB in every Alabama county. Many of them are known cases, recorded on health department files, but there still are just as many unknown cases. A lot of people have TB and do not know it, because in the early stages TB gives no warning signs.

"Tuberculosis is everybody's responsibility, because it is a 'catching' disease. The purchase and use of Christmas Seals gives everybody a chance to discharge his responsibility in this once-a-year drive.

"Let's be thankful we have this opportunity—and give as generously as we can.

"Money contributed now will help hospitalize, treat and prevent TB the whole year through."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to all who helped in any way during the illness and death of our grandother, Mrs. Adaline Wilson. Especially do we thank Dr. Charles Moore, the nurses at the Ctntral Alabama Hospital for all they did; Martin Funeral Home for their nice service; all who sent flowers, the ones that sang and Rev. J. I. Bice. May God's richest blessings abide with each one of you is our prayer. —Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Wilson.

Insurance Benefits To Survivors Of Korean War Dead Are Lagging

The irregular issuance of monthly insurance benefits to survivors of Korean war dead is causing extreme hardship on these families, the Disabled American Veterans said today.

Raymond P. Mims, Commander of the Chilton County Chapter, said the Servicemen's Indemnity Act of 1951 provides a $10,000 government insurance policy for survivors of members of the armed forces who die in active service.

"However," he said, "when Congress passed this law it failed to provide necessary money to pay the claims. It was many months after the law passed before the survivors received their monthly benefits.

"Finally, during the closing days of this last session of Congress the appropriation was approved. This was soon exhausted and there were several months until a supplemental appropriation was passed during which the survivors once again did not receive their monthly benefit checks."

The DAV Commander said the period during which the survivors do not receive benefits on which they have set their standard of living, cause extreme hardship.

"The DAV urgently requests," he said, "that this situation be brought to the attention of Congress and that in the future ample provision be made to cover payments under the Servicemen's Indemnity Act."

A thorough treatment of soil with five per cent DDT and fuel oil will control termites for five years or more.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

The Alpha Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma an honorary fraternity for Women educators, held the November meeting in the private dining room of the Dixie Cafe. Hostesses for the afternoon meeting were Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin and Mrs. Rose Sutley.

The program was under the direction of Miss Lois Black. She honored the club in the presentation of Mrs. Erle Ellis in a vocal recital of many favorite numbers. Mrs. Ellis had as her accompanist, Betty Kemp.

The program rendered was most fitting as it was approaching the Thanksgiving Season, and climaxing National Education Week. Among the numbers so beautifully and effectively rendered were:

"America the Beautiful."
"We Love America."
"The Song I Love to Sing."
"I Wonder As I Wonder."

The hostesses had served to 20 members and two guests a most delicious salad course and hot coffee.

The club will meet December 11 at 3:30 p.m. at the Dixie Cafe, with hostesses, Mary Clements, Miriam Harvey and Edna Williams.—Publicity Chairman.

Peel a tomato, seed it, and chop fine. Mix with two mashed avocados, a tablespoon of vinegar, a little minced onion, and salt and freshly ground pepper to taste. Serve on toasted buns.

Citizens Must Want Tourists In Alabama

"Tourists are on their way to Alabama but they're only coming in 'dribbles' whereas the State has an opportunity to get them in 'droves'," W. Bancroft Timmons, Secretary-Manager of the Alabama Motorists Association, of the A.A.A., said today when he spoke before the Tourists and Convention Committee of the Opelika Chamber of Commerce.

He recommended a ten point program for the Chamber's Committee to adopt as a continuous working plan. The ten points were as follows:

1. Opelika and its citizens must WANT" tourists and the best way to create this desire is to show that tourists are a great community economic gain. The tourist dollar only starts at the hotels, tourist courts, restaurants, etc., but from there it funnels through wage payments and supply buying and to all phases of an area's economic life.

2. It should continue its development and refinement of its tourist accommodation facilities which will bring a gradual and constant word-to-mouth area advertisement through satisfied customers.

3. Develop and mark all major and minor points of interest including historical gems. Local citizens often overlook and fail to designate unique items that would interest the tourist.

4. Develop recreational facilities; especially fishing lakes, tennis courts, and golf courses.

5. Constantly improve the roads and streets over which the tourists enter and leave the community, by widening and other improvement steps.

6. Place proper directional markings. Re-check with tourists to see if the markings are adequate for their travel both in and around the community. Signs may not seem important by local people but they are to the tourists.

7. Promote a local campaign of extending courtesy to the tourist, not only when he is dealing with hotels and restaurants, but also at other money spending points like retail stores, threatres, car repair garages, etc. Show him that he is a welcomed guest.

8. Promote a policy of reasonable and sensible traffic law enforcement procedures. The tourist is usually a good motorist but is often confused. The Opelika Police Department has established a record of unusual fine tourist cooperation. We do not have one complaint in our files of Cash Register Justice" by your traffic officers or police court. It appears by your city's good accident rate of not a traffic fatality so far this year, that your police department is trying to prevent accidents instead of trying to make a volume of arrests.

9. Advertise your community and its program that is set up to help the tourists. Let them know that you want them to come and that you are prepared to make their stay pleasant whether he is going to spend a week or is merely passing through.

10. Keep your local committee in a functioning state and try to cooperate with committees in near-habit of condemning a whole state because of one adverse insident anywhere in the state so Opelika can help Montgomery or Huntsville and those communities can help Opelika if they are all doing their job for the people who we want to come to see us and put their money in our economic life.

by communities and the other instruments of the State which are promoting tourists. A tourist who likes Mobile may also decide to stay at Opelika overnight on the way northward. Tourists have a

D. A. V. Ask For More Visitors

Don't leave it all to the women—male volunteers are needed at veterans hospitals, too.

That's the plea of the Disabled American Veterans as it issued a call for volunteers to visit the boys in hospital wards.

Raymond P. Mims, Commander of the Chilton County Chapter, said disabled veterans in VA and service hospitals receive far too few visitors and in many cases not even a single visit within a year.

"The DAV is proud to participate in the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Program but our membership must be augmented by volunteers," he said. "Many women are doing a fine job but we need more male volunteers and we hope they will contribute some of their spare time.

"You don't have to be a specialist in any field of endeavor. The hospital staff conducts orientation courses in what you should do and you'd be surprised how a kind word and a smile can help the medical rehabilitation of a disabled veterans."

The DAV Commander called on public spirited citizens to provide personal services, entertainment features and comfort items.

For full information on how you can take part in the voluntary services program get in touch with the DAV Chapter at phone 1074.

THOMAS D. RUSSELL, president of the Russell Manufacturing Co., Alexander City, was elected president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the group in Birmingham Thursday. The new president of the State Chamber is a son of the late Benjamin Russell, first president of the State Chamber when it was organized in 1937, and also like his father, heads one of the State's largest textile manufacturing companies in Alexander City. The day-long Birmingham meeting heard talks by Alvin C. Burger, Research Director of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, Washington, D. C., C. Hamilton Moses, Chairman of the Board, Arkansas Power and Light Co., Little Rock, and, Dr. Walter R. Courtenay, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn.

DON'T STUFF TURKEY UNTIL READY TO COOK

Auburn, Ala. — One time-saving practice not recommended to Thanksgiving meal planners is stuffing the turkey in advance or before freezing.

Mary Hulsey, API Extension nutritionist, warns that stuffing birds in advance may result in spoilage and food poisoning.

She advises homemakers to save time by making the stuffing the day before and holding it in the refrigerator. It will help if string needle or skewers, and other tools are easily available so the job can be finished a few minutes after it is started.

'But remember not to put the stuffing in until the turkey is ready to go into the oven," urges the specialist. "And in roasting, allow enough time and use the right oven temperature to insure cooking to the very center of the stuffing."

Miss Hulsey adds that turkeys should roast at 300 to 325 degrees F. in an uncovered pan according to a time schedule suited to the weight of the bird. This lets the heat penetrate slowly and thoroughly, holds in the juices, and prevents overcooking the outside of the bird before the inside is done.

GARDEN FERTILIZER

The one best time for making an application of unrotted manure to gardens and truck patches is late fall and early winter.

Soften a package of cream cheese and stir a little anchovy paste and finely grated onion in it; use as a spread for crackers to serve with tomato juice. If you haven't any anchovy paste in the house, substitute finely minced stuffed olives.

Dorothy Perkins To Head Seldens Staff

Greensboro, Ala., Nov. 20 — Miss Dorothy Perkins of Tuscaloosa, Red Cross worker and former teacher in the schools of her home town, has been named executive secretary to Armistead I. Selden, Jr., newly elected congressman from the Sixth Alabama District.

In announcing the appointment of Miss Perkins to head up his office force in Washington, Mr. Selden said:

"I feel most fortunate in getting a person of Miss Perkin's ability, experience and background for this important job. She comes to me highly recommended, and I believe that she will serve the people of my district most effectively. Her personnel experience with the Red Cross especially equips her for this position."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Herbert Perkins, of Tuscaloosa, she was born and reared in the Druid City. She attended the Tuscaloosa Schools, and when in her junior year at Tuscaloosa High, she was selected as a member of the Druid Chapter, National Honor Society.

Majoring in public school music, she graduated from the University of Alabama with an A.B. degree. While a student at the University, she taught music in the city schools. After her graduation, she spent three years in Lamar County as a teacher of public school music. In 1943 she went into defense work at Brookley Field. The following year, she came back to Tuscaloosa as supervisor of the music program in the elementary schools and Junior High.

Miss Perkins joined the American Red Cross in -1945, and spent two years in Europe. She was stationed in both Austria and Germany. Since her return to this country, she has continued with the Red Cross. She spent a year at the V.A. Hospital in Jackson, Miss., as assistant field director. In 1948, she became a general field representative and did work in Georgia until a few weeks ago, when she was transferred to Middle Mississippi.

Miss Perkins is a Methodist, and has been active in the work of the Wesleyan Foundation.

TREAT THE LAND RIGHT FOR HIGHEST RETURNS

Much farm land can produce more at a profit and without damage, states S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist.

Land is ready to produce if it is given the right chance," says the specialist. But highest production will not be made unless water is conserved for crop production, productive topsoil is kept in place, fertility is increased and maintained at a high level, soil is kept in good tilth, and crops are planted on land suited to them."

Doughty points out that conservation farming helps increase yields per acre now and keeps land in shape for continued high production.

ADVICE ON REMOVING DIRT FROM FURNITURE

Many homemakers find that if too many heavy applications of wax or polish have been applied to furniture without sufficient rubbing, dirt and dust tend to stick to the surface.

Alice Peavy, API Extension home management specialist, says that dirt on varnished furniture may be removed with a small amount of soap and water or with linseed oil, turpentine, and hot water.

TIPS ON PLANNING THE 1953 POULTRY PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala. — One of the first planning points in egg production should be to start pullets in December, January, or February.

"When this is done," says John Weeks, AI Extension poultry specialist, "a majority of the egg crop can be produced during the last six months of the year, when egg prices are highest."

Pullets that are started within the next few weeks will be mature and laying large eggs by next July. And they will be in their best production durin gthe following six months. This will be time enough for the pullets to make their owner a profit before egg prices drop in the spring.

Weeks adds that pullets started late in March, April, and May will have little chance to lay many eggs during the fall and winter months, and they will be in best production during spring months, when prices are low.

When you are roasting a chicken simmer the giblets and neck in a cup or two of water to which you have added a bay leaf, a few peppercorns, a small onion, a sprig of parsley and a little salt. Use this giblet broth with which to make gravy after the chicken is roasted.

GREETINGS
FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS

"One Year Ago Now" we opened the doors of our store to you, the Public, with an implicit trust and confidence in you as a conservative, yet a "positive, progressive" buying public, all of which you have proven.

We have enjoyed a growth in our business from a standpoint of volume, even beyond our expectancy and at the same time the trust and confidence we started with has waxed into a much larger mound of implicit trust and confidence.

It was our honest conviction in the beginning, and is yet, that no merchant is entitled to more than a normal amount of profit on his merchandise. Also that you are entitled to the privilege of being conservative enough to refuse to pay more than such as is normal.

The tremendous growth that we have made and the strength we have acquired is not only the result of our efforts, but it was made possible by both your conservative buying and progressive custom of spending.

During our very earliest days here "we gave," free of charge, to many of you several baskets of groceries as a token of our appreciation in having you as a friend and patron to our store.

We are again this week, on Friday and Saturday, November 28th and 29th, expressing our appreciation by a repetition of those earliest days in that we are at various intervals, on those days, giving to some of you, who come and register as our patrons a fine basket of groceries FREE of any charge.

Joe Is Six—

Friday, November 21st, was another happy day for 18 of Clanton's younger set, when Joe Askins Hayes celebrated his sixth birthday at a party given by his mother, Mrs. Thomas Hayes, at the home on Lay Dam Road.

On arrival each little guest was given a paper party hat decorated with animals. They assembled in the room where inflated balloons in bright colors dangled from the chandelier as they listened to exciting stories and the "Happy Birthday" song by records.

At this period of the party the children enjoyed delicious refreshments which consisted of sandwiches, cookies and hot chocolate.

Joe's cake was green with circus animals treading around the edge. Six little candles and the inscription "Happy Birthday" completed the cake decorations.

There were games galore with the most flourising feature the "fish pond." Here each angler hooked a surprise from a sea of toys. There were also plenty of party tokens to be taken home, but Bobby Powers, "Doll" Johnson, Tom Bentley, Crawford Young, Jr., and Doris Smith captured the main prizes of the afternoon.

Saturday, November 22, was a red letter day for Cheryl Calloway when her mother, Mrs. Winston Calloway, honored her with a party.

It was a memorable time for the young set of Verbena.

Colorful inflated balloons decorated the door, the hall and other rooms of the home. Games and contests were enjoyed by all, with prizes going to little Benny Frucci, Marilyn Rutland and Gwen Frucci.

The little guests gathered to sing the Happy Birthday song and to watch Cheryl blow out her four pink candles centered on a white cake embossed in pink, green and light yellow.

Cheryl enjoyed opening and showing each gift. Then her mother brought a tray of individual cakes with a candle on each for the other children. They gathered around and sang, "A Very Merry Happy Un-Birthday To You." All blew the candles out.

Favors of hats, fortunes and tiny baskets of candy were given each guest.

Ice cream and the individual cakes were served on Happy Birthday plates to the following: Carol Gibson, Marilyn and Michael Rutland, Charlotte Faye Davis, Laura Lou Champion, Carolyn and Linda Howard, Angie, Gwen and Benny Frucci, Joe and Rebecca Gibson, John Clinton Foshee, Donnie Williams, Ann Calloway and the little honoree.

Some mothers also enjoyed this merry party which several children missed due to illness.

HIGHLAND

Our attendance was fair for services this week end. There are several in our community who are on the sick list. Please remember to pray for them and especially Mrs. Lillie Weldon, Mrs. Willie Hamilton and Mrs. Ira Smith. There are others too who need our prayers and especially those who are unconcerned about the church and God's work. Let's pray that they might realize the importance of being a wide awake Christian and working for God.

Bro. Deason was with us this week end with a good message each service. His text for the morning was on "The Three Parables," and the evening subject was "Watching." Those who missed these messages missed a great spiritual blessing.

The young people had charge of the Training Union and presented their program in the auditorium. It was enjoyed by all present.

Several visitors was with us and we invite them back again soon.

Remember to come to Sunday School at 10 o'clock and Training Union at 6 o'clock. Please come. —Reporter.

TEMPLE CHURCH

We are still increasing in our attendance in Sunday School. We had 151 present Sunday. Since Sunday was National Bible Day, five of our Junior Christ Ambassadors gave a short play. The boys, James Noel Helms and Charles Alvin Wyatt carried small United States Flags and Norma Lou Coggins and Barbara Mims carried Bibles. They gave the pledge of Allegiance to the Bible. Glenda Sue Coggins played the piano and sang, "We Thank Thee Lord." Delores Jones also played the piano and sang.

Our Sunday School lesson was about Ezekiel and the Vision of Dry Bones. The Young People's Class played the record of the song, "Ezekiel and the Dry Bones." I think all the classes opened their doors and listened while it was being played. The song helped bring out the thought of the lesson.

Bro. Ray Shultz, our State C. A. President and his family and mother-in-law, Mrs. Anderson, were with us Sunday night. Bro. Shultz spoke to the C. A. Class and then again in the evangelistic service. We were very happy to have them with us and invite them back any time they can come.

We would like to take this opportunity to announce our State Sunday School and Christ Ambassador's Convention which will be held at the First Assembly of God in Montgomery 25-27. Bro. Victor Trimmier, the National Sunday School Representative will be the guest speaker.

Thursday has been set aside for the young people. Among those taking part Thursday afternoon will be our pastor's wife, Sister Helms, and Bro. and Sister Charles Greenaway. The Greenaways are our own Alabama Missionaries who have recently returned from Africa. A good percentage of our Young People are making plans to attend the convention on Thursday.

We invite the public to attend our services and worship with us at all times.

M. C. Henley Writes About Issues Of Day

Clanton, Alabama,
December 2, 1952.

Editor Chilton County News:

Please permit me space in your paper to express some of my views concerning what seems to me to be some very important issues of the day.

There are many articles appearing in the papers of the country criticizing the unfair and inadequate judicial processes and practices of the courts, and making appeal for a more adequate system of judicial procedure and power.

It has been my conviction for a long time that something should be done along this line, and recent observations has greatly strengthened that conviction.

Crime and lawlessness has become a real problem in our country, and is growing more critical all the time, and it is very obvious that lack of respect for, and faith in, the courts is one of the leading contributions to this deplorable condition.

It goes without saying that the laws of our country cannot attain the ends for which they stand when unfair, partial, and inadequate judicial powers are exercised.

Personally, I feel that the non-jury circuit court is one of the weakest, most unfair, and most inadequate judicial powers that we have, because when a case falls into the hands of a circuit judge and he feels like throwing all the evidence out the window, and wants to play favorites with the lawyers, or if he feels like playing a little hand of politics, or if he wants to handle his victim like a cat playing with a mouse, it is all his game. He can play the game as tyrannical as he pleases without fear of restraint or rebuttal except, of course, when an appeal is made to higher courts, and then the matter is not treated with justice because of the vagueness of it before such a court.

It is my belief that much improvement could be made in this sort of setup by enacting a law that would provide for an appeal from the non-jury court to the grand-jury court, where the case could be reviewed by a grand-jury in the county of the resident defendant.

This would serve two purposes. First, it would eliminate much of the power of an unfair judge to fasten an unjust and unfair decision upon one who could not easily escape such a decision by going to a jury court. Second, it would serve to restore confidence and faith in the decisions of the courts.

I think that there is a missing link between the non-jury court and the grand-jury court in that an appeal cannot be taken from the non-jury to the jury court.

Many people are not aware of the importance of demanding a jury trial until they are caught in the "web," and it is my firm conviction that there are many who suffer unjustly because of unjust and inadequate judicial powers in the non-jury courts.

In the name of decency and honor of judicial process and power, my appeal is that our state representatives offer a bill appropriate to the enactment of law providing for an appeal from non-jury courts to jury courts, to the state congress and legislature.

I shall urge our representative by letter to offer such a bill, and I urge others to write in support of it.

Yours for cleaner government,

M. C. HENLEY.

Committees Appointed For County's Biggest Christmas Chest Drive In It's History

County Counters Contain Collection Cans For Cash

Dave Tingle announces this week that his committee has placed 175 Christmas Chest cans on counters of stores and service stations over Chilton County.

The money collected by the cans will go to make some child's Christmas more enjoyable and will contribute to a bigger and better Christmas Chest for the County.

When you see a Christmas Chest Can drop your loose change into it. It will go far to help out in the current Christmas Chest Drive.

Milk Sales Continue To Increase In Chilton

Chilton County now has two main milk routes and two spur routes operating. Three years ago less than three hundred pounds of milk were being shipped from Chilton County. Today, slightly over ten thousand pounds of milk are being shipped to the processor in Dadeville, Ala., per shipping day. A total of one hundred and twenty-five farm families are now supplementing their farm income by an average of $3.60 per day. The County's farm income is being increased by $450.00 per day during the present low production period. At the present rate of production, annual processing milk sales from Chilton County will exced $100,000.

In addition to the fact that the processing milk route is bringing in substantial cash income, it is an instrument being used by several dairymen to develop grade "A" dairy units. The County's seven Grade "A" dairies fluid milk sales income now exceeds $100,000 annually. Three producers are in the process of converting from processing milk production to grade "A" production.

Recently a number of new communities have been reached by the milk route. Farmers in the Macedonia, Maplesville, Oakmulgee, Adams, and Verbena communities now have an opportunity to sell milk. New producers in the above areas are making the operation of a second main route.

Interest in milk production in Chilton County is increasing. Dairying as a supplemental income earner is right for many Chilton County farmers. Farmers that are interested in developing a milk sales project are encouraged to proceed with all possible speed. It is important that we firm our position as a milk producing county now while processors are wanting additional volume.

Representatives Named For Communities

Members of the Chilton County Chest met Monday night at the Clanton Methodist Church to appoint committees in the biggest Christmas Chest Drive yet organized in the County.

A goal of $2500.00 was set which would increase last year's collections by nearly four hundred dollars. The increase was felt needed because of a greater increase in families who are less fortunate than most and require help from the Chest.

Final collection date for food and clothing was set for December 18th. Last year the Christmas Chest collected $2100.00 and helped a total of 121 families. Of these, 180 were adults and 374 were children. Everyone who has a contribution of food, money, or clothing is asked to give generously when visited by his local representative. All requests for assistance from the Chest must be in before final collection date which is December 18th.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Chilton County does not have a quota in the Christmas Seal Sale this year, but it does have a goal.

This is one drive in which it is up to the citizens to decide what they want to give. However, the goal is $1,086.00.

The goal has an economic basis. It is a conservative figure of what our county is capable of raising in the Christmas Seal Sale. It's a friendly game aimed at giving everybody a chance to have a part in the fight against tuberculosis.

A small contribution now from a lot of people will mean an economic gain for the future. We shall be saving lives of citizens who will be valuable in the growth and progress of our county in years to come.

The local Christmas Seal officers are anxious to meet their goal, but whether you give or not is entirely up to you. No high pressure method will be used to insist on a contribution.

We believe our citizens are conscious of the evils of TB. It's a disease that causes much tragedy and heartbreak needlessly. It can be prevented, and can be eradicated wholly from our county, state and nation.

Won't you please remember that when you take part in the Christmas Seal Sale?

MERCHANTS BACK COUNTY'S WELFARE

The ambition of every merchant in Clanton is to make this town the best along the line.

This may be a selfish object on his part, but the fact remains that he can prosper only if the city thrives, for it is obvious that little money will be passed over his counters by people who have no money to spend.

No Clanton merchant, however, depends on mere wishing to bring prosperity to his town and to make it grow. When he argues for better schools and improved streets, it is not in the expectation that his share is to be mere words while other property owners foot the tax bills.

Every merchant in this town backs up his confidence in this town, in its prosperity and the prosperity of those in it and in its future as a rising member of this splendid commonwealth, by his hard-earned dollars. Before he can obtain a cent of profit, he must offer a big stock of the goods the public want, attractively displayed in a conveniently arranged store of adequate size, with all necessary equipment for handling his goods, and with well paid, courteous sales people whose purpose is to render service to the trade. Not until this investment has been made and his business is set in all its completeness before the people of the town can he hope to get back even so much as one cent of profit.

Once they locate, they become fixtures and nothing short of a considerable term of years suffice to win for them even a fair return for their money. To leave before their business, and the business of the towns are squarely on their feet, would be poor business policy, to leave after prosperity had come would be folly.

Does not such a citizen deserve your co-operation?

No group of citizens are greater boosters for the schools than the merchants. It means greater opportunities for the generation that comes after them. They reap little direct benefit, and they bear the greatest share of the tax burden, because of the larger valuation of their property. Every family benefits, its boys and girls being helped on the road to better citizenship. In the same way do the business men contribute to libraries, churches and other agencies, as well as take a leading part in patriotic celebrations and community activities, lecture courses, concerts for the public and similar movements.

This is the man on whose progressive leadership the future of the community depends. To trade with Chilton County merchants means dollars for you.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Sometimes even a little three-year-old with overalls torn at the knee and dirty fingernails and hair that needs cutting surprises you by having hidden somewhere in his boyish being the soul of a poet.

Late the other afternoon the three-year-old and I stood out in the back yard watching the sunset. It was one of those colorful Fall sunsets when the sky was painted with gold, red, orange and touches of purple. We watched until the sun had gone and the colors had faded. Then as the darkness and the chill of dusk closed in, we turned toward the welcome warmth of the house. He didn't say anything as we walked, just kicked noisily through the dry pecan leaves that covered the ground.

Inside the house, he stood warming his hands before the open fire. Then he said softly:

"Look, some of the sunset is caught in our fire."

With the arrival of December, we've been thinking about Christmas presents around our house. The three-year-old and the five-year-old want to make gifts for their friends, and we've been trying to think of something that they can make without too much help.

The next door neighbor suggested that we try making bright felt mittens. Here's how they're made:

Lay your hands on the piece of felt with the fingers together and the thumb extended, mitten style, and have someone trace around each hand. Then repeat the process. Cut out the outlines and then stitch the mittens together on the right side with conrasting colors of wool yarn. Braid some of the same yarn and weave it in and out around the wrist as a drawstring to tie the mittens on tight.

To personalize this girt, initials of yarn can be embroidered on the back of each mitten, but I'm not sure we'll get around to doing this.

Speaking of initials, one little girl in our neighborhood has bought some plain white stationery at the dime store and is dressing it up for Christmas giving by putting initials in the upper left hand corner with thin strips of colored gummed tape.

Here's another gift idea: Buy a pair of plain black, navy or brown fabric gloves and stitch around all the edges with colorful vari-colored yarn. They'll be perfect for wear with a tailored suit.

The five-year-old is too wise to say so, but I think she is beginning to have some doubts about the truth of the Santa Claus legend.

The three-year-old and the five-year-old enjoy making cookies and cutting them in Christmasy shapes. We've been saving empty oatmeal boxes to hold these cookies for holiday giving. The children will paint the boxes with water colors and will paste chains of paper dolls around them for decoration.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

YOUR LIVER

The liver is one of the vital organs in the human body. Indeed, without it, a person can live only a short time. Situated under the right half of the diaphragm, the liver resembles a chemical factory, and is the largest gland in the body. Actually the liver serves as a filter, for it receives raw materials from the food we eat and changes them into the some thirty different substances that a living and growing body requires. It secretes bile, stores carbohydrates and regulates the amount of the various proteins in the blood.

In certain types of diseases of the liver, jaundice is characteristic. In gallbladder disease, for example, existing gallstones may cause an obstruction which blocks the tube leading from the liver to the intestine.

Another type of liver disease, infectious hepatitus, is caused by a virus or germ, much too small to be seen, even with a microscope. Infectious hepatitus, an inflammatory disease, is usually accompanied by jaundice.

Chemical poisons, one of which is alcohol, are another cause of liver disease. Excessive drinking, however, is not solely at fault but a contributing factor, since heavy alcohol consumers frequently do not eat properly and consequently develop dietary deficiencies.

Generally, nearly all diseases of the liver produce similar symptoms. The victim is wan and lethargic, has poor appetite and even a distaste for food. In addition he is weak, tires easily, loses weight, and is obviously ill. Any amount of activity seems to aggravate the condition.

With proper medical supervision, the majority of patients with liver disease do very well. The aim is to encourage the development of new liver tissue capable of performing normal function. When the damage results in scarring and hardening, little can be done to return the patient to good health.

Dry Cleaning At Home Can Be Dangerous

Auburn, Ala. — Dry cleaning in the home is dangerous, but it can be done out of doors in the shade satisfactorily and economically if proper instructions are carefully followed.

Kathleen Thompson, API Extension clothing specialist, warns that dry cleaning solutions should never be taken inside a home. Even the inconspicious pilot light on the cook stove has been known to set fire to the homemaker doing dry cleaning inside. Therefore, wait until the weather is favorable for outside work, and then clean only a few garments at one time.

Equipment and materials needed include a dry cleaning solution, dry cleaning soap, a brush, hangers, towels or sacks, three large containers, a needle and colored thread. Arrange these supplies and equipment on a table in the shade.

"Next," says Miss Thompson, "mark spots on garments with contrasting colored thread, and sort garments as to color and fabric. Pour at least one gallon of cleaning fluid in each of the three containers. Tey should be large enough to avoid spilling the fluid while cleaning the garments.

"Add dry cleaning soap to the first solution according to directions on the bottle or package. Then carry garments through the solution according to directions on the bottle or package. Then carry garments through the solution containing the soap and rinse them in the other two containers. Brush soiled spots lightly while garments are in the first solution. After garments have been rinsed, roll them in towels or sacks to absorb the fluid, and then hang them in the shade to dry."

Te specialist reminds homemakers that garments should be completely dry before they are pressed.

Robert Popwell And 4-H Club Duties Make Good Match

Robert Popwell and 4-H Club work goes together like bees and honey.

Robert lives in the Poplar Springs community and attends the Thomas Jr. High School on Highway 31 in Chilton County. This is his fifth year as a 4-H Club member and every year he has served as an Officer in his Club as well as two years as a County Council Officer.

He has carried out a variety of 4-H projects such as sweet corn, tomatoes, hogs, hybrid corn, bee and honey production and this year he produced over a bale of cotton per acre. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Popwell, have long been interested in 4-H Club projects. Two of Robert's brothers, Joe and Fred, were outstanding 4-H Club beef calf feeders.

One of Roberts most interesting projects is seven hives of bees and most any conversation with him will soon be diverted to bee production.

Robert won a trip to the State 4-H Club Camp in July and is now doing an excellent job as an older 4-H Club Leader in his community.

Our Sunday School attendance was very well, but we wish to extend a personal invitation from our church for every one to be at Sunday School next Sunday. Let us all study our lesson and Bible more this week than ever before. How can we expect to learn and do God's Will, if we don't study His Word and attend His House of Worship?

Training Union was very well attended and we were happy to have Bro. Cook with us. It being fifth Sunday night. He brought such an inspiring message. His subject being, Why Attend Training Union?

Let us all make every effort possible to be at prayer service each Wednesday night. We can pray and thank God for our many blessings at home, but don't we owe it to our Lord to meet at His House once a week to pray and praise Him together. Let us think more seriously and do what God would have us do about this.

Mrs. N. E. Cook is at home now from the hospital. She is improving. We ask that she be remembered in prayer. That she might soon be well and back in service with us.

Mrs. Thomas had an idea
That we would like the Turnadound.
We got some mothers to take us,
And off we went with a bound.

The Picture Frame Rock was very pretty,
And so was the Alum Rock,
But I got so tired of climbing
That I felt that I could drop.

Some of us got very hungry
While at the Turnaround,
We got our lunches from the cars,
And ate on the picnic ground.

—BONNIE BURDETTE.

THE TALKING WATER AND THE TREES

The water rushing, rushing
Sings a little song.
The trees waving, waving
All the day long—
Tramp, tramp, go the children's feet
Up hill and down!
This is the song
Of the The Turnaround!

Early Alabama settlers depended greatly upon animal skins for clothing and because deer skins were easily tanned, cut, and sewed, these were the most commonly used. Deer skin was soft, yet tough enough to withstand hard wear when made into trousers for hunters or farm laborers.

Centreville, Ala. — Five-year-old James Allen Brewster of Centreville, Alabama, didn't know he had so many friends.

But when folks learned about the sawmill accident that cost the youngster both of his arms, they rallied around from 23 states and several hundred dollars have been put into a trust fund, so James Allen can have some new, artificial arms. He needs them to play with a lot of nice new toys he got after the accident.

And he has the truck drivers on his side. Among the enthusiastic people who want James Allen to have all the things he needs, truck-drivers have placed big gallon-size mustard jars at truck stops all over Alabama.

Picture Is Displayed

The jars have a slit cut in the top. And, they have pictures of James Allen pasted inside.

The idea came to Cecil Sutley, stocky 42-year-old driver for Jack Cole Co., after he had stopped in Centreville and asked about the youngster.

He fixed up the first mustard jar bank right there at the Twix and Tween Cafe.

When contributions began to come in, The Centreville Baptist Church and the Centreville Kiwanis Club, two leading organizations in the campaign to help the child, set up a trust fund. It is known as the James Allen Brewster Trust Fund, Centreville, Ala.

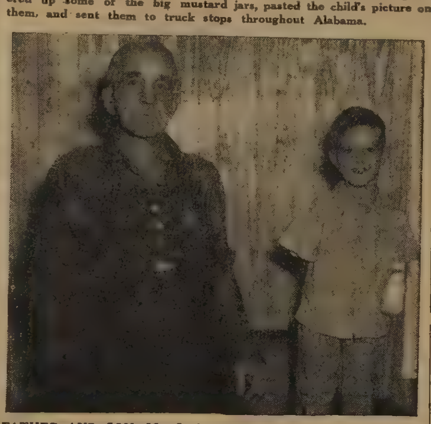
Should Help

Sutley said he felt the mustard jar banks should help out. A driver for 18 years, Sutley is well known to fellow drivers throughout the state.

"We'll never miss the change we drop in those jars," he said. "Maybe it will help make up for some of the things James Allen will miss. The first thing he needs is a pair of artificial hands, se he can play again."

Mr. J. W. Price, Mr. Jamie Meigs and Mr. Robert Jamison have been appointed as Guardians of the James Allen Brewster Trust Fund. Mr. Price is acting as Chairman of the group.

MUSTARD JAR BANK—That's what Cecil Sutley, driver for Jack Cole Company is setting up for little James Allen Brewster, 5, of Centreville, who lost both arms in a sawmill accident a month ago. Sutley, who learned of the case during a stop in Centreville, gathered up some of the big mustard jars, pasted the child's picture on them, and sent them to truck stops throughout Alabama.



FATHER AND SON—Mr. S. A. Brewster and his son James Allen Brewster are pictured above. Mr. Brewster lost one arm in a saw mill accident many years ago, and about six weeks ago his son James Allen Brewster lost both arms in a sawmill accident. Many people over the entire nation have contributed to a trust fund for the education of young Brewster.

DUCK HUNTERS INCREASE

The number of duck stamps sold to Alabama hunters last season ran almost 25 per cent greater than the number issued during the 1950-51 season.

The Speech Club Turnaround Trip

Our science text book has some interesting and informative material on rocks; of what they are composed and how some of them are formed. When the Better Speech Club was engaged in this study, Mrs. Thomas suggested a field trip to The Turnaround as a climax to our work.

We were pleased with the suggestion and happy indeed, Tuesday morning, November 25th, when parents and friends assembled at the front of the Clanton Elemnetary School to take us.

We stopped in front of Mr. Pitts' home and registered in the Guest Book, as is the custom. Then we were given the privilege of passing along the pathways over his lawn and examining the multitude of rock bordering the paths. We listed fourteen different kinds of rock that we found there.

There were doubtless many others that we did not recognize, or know. We did recognize rose, milky, clear, amber and smoky quartz, besides sandstone, iron ore, granite and marble. Mica was to be seen everywhere. Some of the rock were conglomerate, some sedimentary, and many metamorphic. Gneiss was also abundant.

After parking the cars at the picnic area, our entire group entered the park in our regular squads, happy in the realization that we could live up to the high standard that Mr. Pitts told us The Better Speech Club always maintains on visits to his place.

Our visits to all the points of interest inside the park area were conducted in squads. Our first stop was at Look-Out Rock from which we could see far below us Chestnut Creek noisily wending its way around the mountain. What a thrill it gave us to stand and gaze far away from that lofty pnomontory!

When we returned from our side trip to Look-Out, we followed the steps over the backbone of the mountain to remarkable Picture Frame Rock. How cleverly nature carved out this formation! We were rather astonished to find such interesting things and some of us drew pictures of striking views and objects. Others began forming jingles as we stopped to listen to the whispering of the pine trees and the answering murmur of the waters.

From Picture Frame Rock we followed a crooked little path down to Alum Rock, a sort of cave, the over-hanging rock of which is composed, in great part, of sulphur and alum. We were told to taste it. What a surprise! How bitter!

Coming back to the main pathway, we began our greatest ascent and finally arrived at the parting Azalea Trail. The left hand trail we followed right on down to the creek's bank. What majestic rock array met our view on the opposite bank! Keeping an eye on that mighty strata of sedimentary rock, we continued along the creek for some distance. Then the ascent began, and we soon found ourselves right back at the beginning of Azalea Trail. Hurriedly our thirsty group tramped back over the backbone of the mountain. What collections we had made! Many of us were weighted down with our rock treasures.

Delicious refreshments awaited us at the picnic area. Gallons of thirst-quenching lemonade, iced cokes and various picnic edibles. Each step in this outing had seemed best. We listened revenently while Mr. Wood offered thanks for all God's care and goodness.

Lunch being over, we found we still had time to go back into the park and get a last view of some of the most thrilling scenes.

'Twas a tired, happy group that exchanged ideas about the trip a half-hour later, enjoyed sharing our rock collections and viewed some of them through a microscope provided by Mary Jo Sandlin. We immediately pinned notes of thanks to those who furnished cars and began writing our thoughts of the trip for the pleasure of any chance readers. — The Better Speech Club.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Primary Class and their teacher visited Jimmie Willis at his home. Jimmie can't walk, run and play like other boys. They sang and played games and each child was given a candy bar. Everyone carried Jimmie a small gift.

The baskets of fruit given by the Ruth Ford Circle were nice and appreciated by the ones who received them.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith, Jr., of Clanton, with us in our service Sunday night.

B.T.U. begins at 6:00 p.m. and preaching at 7:00 p.m. The house is always comfortable even though it is cold weather. Come be with us.

BECO And Alabama Power Co. Merge

Yesterday (November 25) stockholders of Birmingham Electric Company voted to merge the company with Alabama Power Company in accordance with the orders of Alabama Public Service Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Later in the day, Alabama Power Company stockholders also approved the merger.

The matter was presented to the Judge of the U. S. District Court at Birmingham, The Honorable Seybourn H. Lynne, today for an order approving and enforcing the order of the Securities and Exchange Commission in accordance with the Public Utility Holding Act, and the order was granted.

Thomas W. Martin, chairman of the Board of Alabama Power Company, stated: ""This is a significant event in the history of Alabama Power Company. Starting in 1906 with a nominal capital of only $5,000, men of faith in the future of Alabama enlisted the necessary financial support to enable the Company to create or acquire facilities and bring them together in an integrated system. The system so created during the past quarter-century has gained recognition as an efficiently operated, area-wide electric utility system. In this program our engineers have pioneered many technical advances.

"Birmingham Electric has for twenty-eight years received its entire power supply from Alabama Power Company, even while under other ownership. As the area around Birmingham developed, it became more and more logical that the service areas of the companies be combined and the operations integrated."

With the merger, Birmingham Electric Company becomes a part of Alabama Power Company's Birmingham Division whose area generally is the same as that of Jefferson County which, during the past decade and particularly in the past few years, has been the scene of spectacular growth and diversified industrial development.

C. S. Thorn, who has been president of Alabama Power Company, in charge of the Birmingham Division of Alabama Power Company. Division operations will be under the direction of C. T. Hunter, vice-president and division manager. Mr. Hunter, a former resident of Birmingham, has had many years of experience in electric utility operations and immediately before his transfer to Birmingham was a resident of Eufaula where he occupied te position of Alabama Power Company's Southeast Division vice-president.

The new Birmingham Division will provide service to a larger area and to many more customers than the former Birmingham Electric Company and will thus provide additional opportunities for the advancement of the employees of the Electric Company.

William J. Ruston, president, Protective Life Insurance Company, Birmingham, a member of BECO's Board of Directors, will become a director of Alabama Power Company.

Headquarters for Alabama Power Company's Birmingham Division will for the present be at the location formerly occupied by Birmingham Electric at First Avenue and 21st Street, North.

"The merger makes it increasingly possible," said Mr. Martin, "for us to work diligently with others in the Birmingham area—the Committee of 100, public officials and others—in accelerated efforts to develop the area. In view of the responsibilities which we of Alabama Power Company are thus assuming in the district, we are looking forward to even closer cooperation to accomplish these ends."

Higher Profits Come From High Milk Producers

Auburn, Ala. — Good cows produce milk at a lower feed cost.

John R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, says this statement is based on a study of records on 46,439 individual cows from 27,153 herds in all parts of the U.S.

The survey showed that a cow producing 5,000 pounds of milk returned $134 above feed cost, or less than half the cost of producing milk. On the other hand, a cow producing 11,000 pounds returned $297, and a 17,000-pound producer returned $448. The cow producing 11,000 pounds of milk ate $41 worth of feed more than the cow that gave 5,000 pounds of milk.

Parrish adds that Alabama dairyman have some animals in all levels of production, but few of these cows produce over 9,000 pounds of milk. The 1951 Dairy Herd Improvement Association average was a little less than 5,000 pounds. However, this would have been bigher if there had been favorable weather to produce more pasture and hay.

What 4-H Club Has Meant To One Of Chilton's Members

Chilton County 4-H Club members have been turning in records of project work completed during the past year. A Junior Club member, Joyce Jones, wrote the following story:

"I like 4-H Club work because I am learning to cook and sew. It has taught me how to hang out the wash and how to can. I have learned how to make a clothes pin bag to put the clothes pins in. I have also learned how to make up my bed correctly. We had a demonstration on posture so I have learned how to stand, to walk and to sit in my desk.

We have learned many new songs in 4-H Club, which we all enjoy singing. I went to the County Rally and picnic and enjoyed them very much. This helped me learn how to play with other boys and girls I did not know. 4-H Club has taught me how to be a good sport in any game or contest whether I win or lose. It has taught me to be clean and happy, and not to be sad. I have learned a lot of things that I would not have known if I had not joined the 4-H Club. I like the 4-H Club and enjoy the work I do in it."

Joyce is the eleven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Clifton Jones, Clanton, Route 2. She is in the sixth grade at Thomas Junior School and is an outstanding pupil in her class. For two years she has been a 4-H Club member, and has done some good work on her two projects of cooking and sewing.

Among the food Joyce has prepared are corn bread, cold slaw, butter-beans, peas, oats and chocolate pudding. She hasn't prepared a meal entirely by herself, but she has cooked several dishes for one meal.

Mrs. Jones sews, so Joyce took an interest in sewing at an early age. The first articles she made as her project work were dish towels and doll clothes. Joyce made a cotton skirt last winter and entered it in the skirt review of her local Club, where she won second place. This enabled her to enter the County Contest so she made another skirt which was also very nicely made. In the County Skirt Review she won third place.

Joyce attends 4-H meetings other than in her local club. She attended the County Rally last spring and the Annual Summer Recreational meeting. She also attended all the Neighbor aide meetings her group had during the summer.

This year Joyce has cooking and sewing as her projects again From past records, and her plans for this year, it seems that she will do more good work.

Clerical Workers Moved To New Quarters

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama Prisons Director J. M. McCullough, Jr., says that clerical workers of his staff now in state capital offices are being transferred to new quarters in the Kilby Prison.

McCullough said this will made for more economical and efficient work. The offices which they have been occupying are on the second floor in the nort wing of the Capitol. Director McCullough will retain his office in the statehouse until the close of the next legislative session

Primary cause for the move is to modernize and streamline clerical procedures, doing away with duplication.

Do Christmas Mailing Early

Once more the Christmas season is almost here and it is predicted that Christmas mailings will reach an all-time high. To be sure of your parcels reaching their destinations safely and promptly, wrap well, address plainly, pack well and mail early. Each year the mail terminals become jammed with parcels that are mailed too late and are thus delayed, many times until after Christmas before reaching the addressee.

Christmas cards should be mailed early also as the volume of First and Third Class mail the week before Christmas is often much too large to be handled by the force available. Rural patrons are urged to buy stamps in quantity and have their cards stamped before placing in mail boxes for collection by carrier.

Please address cards to correct Rural Route, House Number or Post Office Box. Parcels may be marked, "Do not open until Christmas," if desired. — R. W. Lowe, Postmaster.

With the elections now in the past, it might be well to pause and look soberly at some of the issues involved now that partisan shouts have subsided. Regardless of the party you favored, here are two basic facts that must be faced by Republicans and Democrats alike.

First of all, the major issues that comfront us must be resolved on the basis of moral principles and sound judgement and not partisan politics. No political party can honestly claim a monopoly on intelligent, consecrated leadership; neither does any party have an exclusive on rascality and corruption. Both parties have their skeletons as well as their saints.

Secondly, we must never let political partisanship divide us as Americans. The problems that we face are not Democratic problems, or Republican problems; they are American problems and must be resolved on that basis. We are all too aware of the fact that if Communism should triumph, both parties would be finished and our way of life would perish from the earth. In view of this painful fact, we should pray and not gloat over success or mourn over defeat. Communist firing squads would not make such a dsitinction but would mow down Democrats and Republicans alike.

God has blessed us with freedom; let us pray that we will be proven worthy of all of His manifold blessings so that Americans will not be weighed in the balances and found wanting. "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit saith the Lord of hosts."—William R. Morgan.

Following refreshments time the gifts were opened by the honoree, and Santa Claus pencils and ring whistles were distributed as favors.

The little people enjoying this jolly affair were Judy Bean, Tommie Lynn Cadle of Calera, Michael Ellis, Margaret and Butch Glasscock, Mary George Jester, Wayne Johnson, Gail Littlejohn, Hugh Thompson Mims, Bobby and Tommy Powers, Joseph Michael Robinson of Thorsby, Janet and Ronnie Rogers, Eufran Smith and Doris Tyndal. Chilton Homes Gain From 4-H'ers Home Improvement Project

A young person's interest in something often brings about changes. That was the result of a 4-H Club member's interest in her project of home improvement. Frances Arlene Brown of the Verbena Senior Club has taken home improvement as a project for the three years she has been a member. She is the twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie F. Brown, Route 1, Mt. Creek.

Arlene was so interested in home improvement that the family soon realized the importance of her project and began to help her with her plans and gave her other ideas. Improvements that have been made as the results of Arlene's project are painting the house inside and outside, building two new rooms, buying new porch furniture, a deep freeze and an electric stove. Arlene and the other members of the family have worked hard on these improvements but now they are enjoying the results.

Other projects she has are cooking, canning, freezing, and sewing. As a result of her home improvement she has been able to do better work in other projects. The family is enjoying fruits and vegetables she has frozen and canned.

Announcement of Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johnson wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Alene Johnson, to Mr. William Roy Jones, of Fort Meyers, Fla. The date of the wedding is to be January 11, 1953. Both are now attending Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Ft. Worth, Texas.

Over Eight Million Dollars Obtained For Disabled Veterans

More than eight and a half million dollars in benefits were obtained for disabled veterans, their widows and dependents by the Disabled American Veterans during its past fiscal year.

The report was made public today by Raymond P. Mims, Commander of the Chilton County Chapter No. 33.

DAV national service officers under the direction of Capt. Cicero F. Hogan, DAV National Director of Claims, reviewed 332,031 Veterans Administration claims files and made 149,504 personal appearances before VA rating boards.

Commander Mims said the DAV obtained for disabled veterans, their dependents and widows during the past year $2,590,728.68 in total monthly increases and $5,960,687.98 in total retroactive payments for an overall total of $8,551,408.66.

The DAV Commander said because government benefits are not automatic, in every instance a claim must be filed and evidence provided to prove entitlement. DAV National Service Officers—who compose the largest national staff of any veterans organization — assist veterans and their families without charge.

"heir slogan is," he said, "Veteran! If in doubt about your rights —see a DAV National Service Officer.

"Our 202 national service officers are men of manifold duties. They're counsellors of the sick and the well. They are employment men as well as qualified advisers in matters concerning vocational training and educational problems. They cover Veterans Administration and Service hospitals on regular schedules."

DAV National Service Officers are augmented by DAV state department and local chapter services offices.

Disabled Veterans in this area are fortunate in that R. L. "Bob" Fullen resides in this County and is assisted by Jesse C. Mims, in care of Service Grocery.

Completing 4-H Projects Is Being Emphasized Here

Completing good projects and keeping good records is important for all 4-H Club members. This is being emphasized more and more to boys and girls in the Chilton County 4-H Clubs.

Mary Carolyn Cox of the Thomas Junior 4-H Club has turned in good records of work she did last year. She has been a member only two years but she shows a great interest in her Club and projects.

Carolyn is the twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cox, Route 2, Clanton. She has one brother, Kenneth, who is a few years older. Mr. and Mrs. Cox and Kenneth takes an active interest in Carolyn's projects and helps her with them. Kenneth is also a 4-H Club member.

Projects Carolyn has carried are cooking, sewing, a pig, and home improvement. She has done good work and has shown improvement in all of these projects. Some of the foods she has cooked are corn bread, vegetable soup, chocolate puddings, cake, apple pies, slaw, hot dogs, oat meal cookies, biscuits and a few vegetables. Carolyn reports that some of her first food did not turn out so well, but with more practice she is becoming a better cook. She usually helps mother with the meals but she has prepared a few meals by herself.

Sewing is another worthwhile project Carolyn enjoys. Articles she has made are a blanket, a shoe bag, curtains, pot holders and dish towels. She made a skirt which won first place in the Skirt Revue of her local Club. She has made a dress since then.

Last year, Carolyn's parents gave her a pig to raise as a 4-H project. She has had fun feeding the pig and caring for him. Recently she sold the pig at the local stock yard. Carolyn had kept a record of expenses of food for the pig so when she deducted the expenses she had thirteen dollars left which she is planning to spend for clothes.

The Coxes are on the Carnation Milk route so Carolyn helps with the milking. She has also helped her mother can many fruits and vegetables.

Carolyn likes to enter contests. Besides entering the Skirt Revue Contest, she also took part with some of the Sports Contests at the County Rally. She was a contestant in the County Dairy Maid Contest held during the County Fair.

This year the girls of Thomas Junior 4-H Club elected Carolyn as teir vice-president so she is also a leader.

MY TRIP TO THE TURNAROUND

When we went to Te Turnaround,
The grass was very, very brown.

And far beneath that loamy ground
Are rocks you cannot weigh by pound.

Along the way were many leaps
So steep that I shall call them steeps.

Compared to usefulness of the creek
The rocks, I count, as very cheap.

When we got back to our town,
I told my friends of Turnaround.

Mary Edna Griffin Is Outstanding 4-H Member

Mary Edna Griffin, ninth grade student of Thorsby Junior High School, is an outstanding 4-H Club member of Chilton County. She has been a 4-H Club member for four years and has shown much leadership ability. For two years she has been President of her local Club. Last year she served as a most capable President of the Chilton County Council of 4-H Clubs. This year the Council elected her Secretary and Treasurer.

Mary Edna is the fourteen year old daughter of Mrs. Edna Griffin Route 4, Clanton. Her main 4-H projects have been cooking and sewing. She enjoys both very much because her mother takes an interest in her project work and helps her with it when ever she needs assistance. Mary Edna is getting good practice and experience in her cooking project by preparing meals for the family. She began by preparing only one dish but now she prepares many of the meals by herself.

Sewing is another worthwhile project that Mary Edna has. Her interest in sewing during her first years as a 4-H Club member were the same as most other girls of her age—making doll clothes, aprons, dish towels and pot holders. Now that she has learned to sew better she enjoys sewing for herself. Of course she still buys some of her clothes ready-made but she has cut the family cloting expenses by making some of her own clothes.

Development of leadership ability is one objective of 4-H Clubs so it seems as if Mary Edna is getting good training along this line. By being a leader in her local Club and County Council she is setting a good example for other 4-H boys and girls. This experience will help her to be a worthwhile citizen and leader as she grows older.

Ordination Services Nov. 2nd, 1952—

The undersigned names of the presbytery met at the Stanton Missionary Baptist Church for the purpose of ordaining to the ministry in the Missionary Baptist Faith, the Rev. Eddie Leon Ruddick. He was duly questioned during the examination previous to the ordination service on the following questions:

1 — As to his conversion.
2 — Of his call to the ministry.
3 — On Articles of the Baptist Faith.
4 — As to Scriptural Baptism.
5 — As to regeneration.
6 — As to the Church Government.

To all of the above questions his answers were satisfactory to the Presbytery. Then the assembled congregation of the Stanton Church voted to proceed with the ordination of the candidate, the said, Eddie Leon Ruddick. The service was beautifully carried out, with the Rev. R. W. Stuckey preaching the ordination sermon. Rev. J. W. Jones giving the charge and Rev. E. C. Hand, the presentation of the Bible.

Signed: Rev. J. R. Robinson, chairman.
Rev. E. C. Hand, secretary.
Rev. Wm. F. Rasberry, Jr.
Rev. J. W. Jones.
Rev. R. W. Stuckey.
Rev. C. P. Haggard.

The minutes of this ordination of Eddie Leon Ruddick was handed to your reporter of the Stanton News by Mrs. Robert H. Davis (Ruby Gregg), a member of the Stanton Baptist Church, and asked that it be put in our county papers, because, we, the people of Stanton Church, Stanton Community and Chilton County, Ala., are very proud of this young man.

When Eddie was just a small boy his grandfather, who was also a Baptist minister and a faithful servant of God, use to call Eddie "His little preacher boy." Rev. Ruddick died in 1931 when Eddie was still a small boy. Little did he realize then that Eddie would follow in his footsteps and make a fine minister of the Gospel. Eddie is studying at the Seminary at New Orleans and is pastor of a half time church (New Cedron), at present. Congratulations, Eddie!

Now Is The Time To Breed Cows For Freshening In Fall

Auburn, Ala. — Cows that freshen in the fall produce more milk than those that calve at other seasons of the year.

"This being true," states Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist, "now is an excellent time to breed cows to insure a constant supply of milk for next fall. Cows bred now will drop a calf early next September. This is the time when most milk will be needed because of the heavy school demand."

Turnham adds that cows bred to top quality bulls will mean extra dairy dollars for the farmer. And through artificial breeding of dairy cows, many dairymen can go a long way toward building a profitable herd. Ask the local county agent for complete details.

Use Safe Lighting On Christmas Trees

There is nothing more beautiful than a brightly lighted Christmas tree—and nothing more dangerous than a poorly lighted one.

William T. Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings, explains that a poorly lighted tree doesn't mean one that has just a few lights but one that has dangerous wiring.

He points out that poor wiring is the cause of most fires during the Christmas season. And one bare place on the wiring of a string of lights may cause a spark that can send a dry tree up in flames and completely destroy a home.

These are reasons Cox urges Christmas tree decorators to inspect strings of lights and repair frayed or worn insulation.

COST OF PRICE SUPPORT

The Department of Agriculture reported a drop of 80 per cent in the cost of price support programs during the 1951-52 fiscal year.

Sliced peaches and creamy tapioca pudding in sherbert glasses make a delicious and attractive dessert.

More Sod Farming Needed In Alabama

The best soils were former under grass sod, and depleted soils are most rapidly rebuilt and best conserved where good sods are maintained, according to S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist.

SOYBEAN PRICE SUPPORT

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the national average price support level for 1953-crop soybeans will be $2.56 a bushel.

Nichols, although not on duty when the accident occurred, was watching a repair operation on the hydraulic lift of the loader when a supporting timber gave way, causing the machine to overturn. Mr. Nichols was struck down by an arm of the lift as it toppled and caught underneath, but by only a fraction of the weight of the nine-ton machine.

The Squeeze Is On

Outlook For Agriculture

THE new year coming up poses a continuation of some of the same problems that farmers have been facing for the past several years. With the economic outlook geared to the national defense program, a summary of defense spending points out some of the difficulties farmers will be facing.

In the past two years, defense expenditure has grown from nine billion to 50 billion dollars. In 1953, the defense expenditure is expected to be between 55 and 60 billion. Defense spending plus civilian production means good business, full employment, high income, and high consumer spending in 1953.

Consumer goods are expected to be adequate next year and buyers will have a choice of most products. The demand for farm products will be strong throughout the year; however, prices of most farm produce are expected to remain unchanged to slightly lower in 1953. Lower prices received for farm products plus increased production costs add up to the farmer's number one problem next year.

The cost of farm production will be up two to three per cent. Efficiency in production will determine the amount of money farmers will make. Production supplies are in balance with demand which will enable farmers to meet the large farm production that is expected of them. But farmers can expect less farm labor and higher wage demands.

Freight rate increases have caused transportation costs to be higher, and the Interstate Commerce Commission is now considering granting another increase. This may cause a real problem in the distribution of farm produce.

Farmers are going to need more money in 1953 to operate their business. They are already in a "tight" situation which makes efficient use of capital very important.

The average meat consumption per person in 1953 will be about the same as in 1952—perhaps an increase from 142 to 144 pounds per capita. The number of beef cattle will increase from 88 million on Jan. 1, 1952, to 93 million on Jan. 1, 1953. Cattle slaughter will increase about 10 to 15 per cent possibly causing a slight decrease in prices of lower grades; however, feeding cattle on home-raised feed will still be profitable.

A four or five per cent decrease in hog numbers will cause some decrease in the number being slaughtered, but this will be offset by more competition from beef. Hog prices are expected to average about the same.

Higher milk production and prices are expected. However, this increase will be offset by higher costs of production, leaving the net profits unchanged.

LOCAL LEADERS HONORED—At the recent Colbert County 4-H leaders' luncheon sponsored by the chain store merchants of the county, state and local 4-H Club leaders received metal signs with which to mark their homes. The signs, presented by bankers of the county, read "A 4-H Club Leader Lives Here." Shown at the meeting are, left to right, Mr. W. M. Goodwin of Fowler, who has been a 4-H leader for 23 years; Mrs. Mary E. Coleman, district home agent, Auburn; Miss Bell Richardson of Pride, who has been a 4-H leader for 27 years, and Miss Billie Joan Davis, Colbert County 4-H Club Council president.

Another Link In The Pig Chain

D. C. Wilder, right, of Cedar Bluff, put another link in Cherokee County's pig chain recently when he gave another gilt to one of the county's leading 4-H Club members. Fred Ellen, who received the gilt, has already completed a brood sow project along with peanuts and dairying. The 13-year-old 4-H'er is now carrying a forestry project.

Just as this is no new project for the 4-H'er, it's also nothing new for Mr. Wilder. The Cherokee livestock-row crop farmer has been giving and lending pigs to 4-H Club boys for the past 20 years. It is estimated that he has helped more than 75 farm boys get started in the hog business by this method. Although hogs are one of Wilder's main interests, he does a variety of farming on his place. Wilder says, "When I go to town, I carry something with me." He believes that the person living on the farm who doesn't do this is not a farmer—he's a consumer.

Good Corn For Poor Year

FAYETTE County 4-H Club boys made some good corn yields this year in spite of the dry weather. According to Assistant County Agent S. L. Davis several boys made exceptionally high yields in comparison with average production in the county.

A. J. Stovall, Jr., of Hubbertville, reported a yield of 96 bushels per acre and Noel Barnes of Kirkland made 82.3 bushels on one acre.

Other Fayette 4-H'ers who reported yields of over 50 bushels per acre are Banks Nelson, Billy Joe Hollingsworth, Jimmy McDonald, James Walton, Donald Webster, Dwain Hubbert, Keith White, Kenneth Dodd, Barney Ray Walton, Wayne Waldrop, Jimmy White, Ralph Watkins, Ray Pinion, George Edward Roberts, Vervil McGraw, Robert Fowler, James Allen Fowler, Roland Whitehead, Dale Johnston, Gene Ray Crowe, Walter Lee Matthews, Hoyt Stough, Marlin Bowens, Johnnie Hocutt, Thomas Hocutt, and Dale Price.

There were 82 high fertilization, thick spacing corn demonstrations carried by 4-H Club boys in Fayette County this year. They averaged 42.5 bushels per acre.

ARTISTS AT WORK—Members of the Wilsonville Home Demonstration Club in Shelby County are balancing their budget by making towels, pillow cases, napkins, and a variety of other objects for sale. Besides sewing the handy items, the club women are also decorating them with textile paint. Some of the club members are shown at right as they stenciled vari-colored designs on articles at a recent club meeting in the home of Mrs. Claude Edwards. In the group are, left to right, Mrs. A. P. Lovitt, Sr., Mrs. W. S. Smith, Mrs. Grady McEwen, Mrs. A. A. Thornburg, Jr., Mrs. W. B. Nichols, Mrs. F. F. Miller, and Mrs. O. P. Ray.

How Much Phosphorus Do Vegetable Crops Use

By L. M. WARE, Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of three articles based on research on the use of phosphorus by vegetable crops. Work on this project was conducted by Mr. Ware at the Main Station, Auburn.)

THERE is a shortage of sulfur in the nations of the free world. A sulfur shortage means a shortage of superphosphate, and the amount of superphosphate available to fertilizer mixers will determine for several years the amount of available mixed fertilizers. Every effort should be exerted to make the most efficient use of all phosphorus fertilizers available.

Long-time studies at Auburn with vegetable crops on use of different rates of phosphorus fertilizers on different soils have shown that a relatively small percentage of the phosphorus added is absorbed. A still smaller percentage is removed from the land by crops. The results also show that when large rates are applied for a number of years, the residual or "carry-over" effects may be considerable. A brief discussion of this study and the results should enable growers to use phosphorus fertilizers more intelligently.

Three soils were used in the study. They were Norfolk sandy loam, Cecil sandy clay, and Eutaw heavy clay. For nine consecutive years, different rates of superphosphate were applied. On the Norfolk soil the annual rates were 0, 40, 80, 120, and 160 pounds of phosphoric acid (P_2O_5) per acre. On the two heavier soils the rates were twice these amounts.

During the nine-year period on the Norfolk sandy loam soil only 35 per cent of the phosphorus applied at the 40-pound rate (P_2O_5) was removed from the land through harvested crops; the amount removed was 30 per cent at the 80-pound rate, 24 per cent at the 120-pound rate, and 18 per cent at the 160-pound rate.

On the Eutaw heavy clay soil only 22 per cent of the phosphorus applied was removed through crops at the 80-pound rate (P_2O_5), 17 per cent at the 160-pound rate, 15 per cent at the 240-pound rate, and 12 per cent at the 320-pound rate. The percentages removed on the Cecil sandy clay for the corresponding rates were 19, 16, 12, and 10 per cent.

These amounts do not include phosphorus used by the crops but returned as plant residues. There were 12 vegetable crops involved in the study.

The data below shows that crops remove only a small amount of the phosphorus applied. This is especially true when large amounts are added. Of the 1,440 pounds of P_2O_5 added over the nine years at the 160-pound rate, there remained 1,178 pounds in the Norfolk soil, 1,209 pounds in the Cecil soil, and 1,193 pounds in the Eutaw soil not removed by crops. These amounts represent approximately three and one-third tons of 18 per cent superphosphate. Since phosphates leach from the soil only to a limited extent, but since they become fixed in the soil, it is of much concern to the grower to know how available this phosphorus is to later crops.

PEANUT STACKING TIME—J. W. McCall, left, and his brother, Robert, are shown here completing one of the peanut stacks on their Southeast Alabama farm. These Bullock County farmers attribute the success they have made during the past 27 years to diversified farming. They started in 1925 with 12 mules and today cultivate their corn, cotton, peanuts, soybeans, and maintain 180 acres of pasture for 65 head of Hereford cattle—all with two tractors. A new home just recently completed by the McCalls also stands as proof of the farmers' success.

A milk cow that gets 70 pounds of green grazing a day will get two pounds of digestible protein. And it requires only 1,31 pounds of digestible protein to supply body needs and produce 20 pounds of four per cent milk a day.

Along the Way

with
P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

LET'S take a look at farming in 1953. Certain facts now with us need consideration. If properly used they'll increase net income from farming next year.

General employment now at a high level is expected to continue in 1953. This means high purchasing power for farm products. But a decline in exports of farm products from the U. S. is expected.

Prices paid to farmers are not expected to be higher. Those who forecast say that the general level will be lower. Prices that farmers pay for their needs for farming and for living are due to be higher.

In brief, therefore, we see what confronts farmers next year. The price squeeze that has been on farmers for sometime will continue. It's due to declining prices to farmers for what they sell and higher prices for what they buy.

For farmers to do as well in 1953, as they did in 1952, they must operate more efficiently. In brief, each must accomplish more per day of labor and produce more on each acre of land used.

Farmers must compete with industry for labor. Most farm people in Alabama can live where they are and work in an industry. Some are now going more than 60 miles daily each way to do this. Unless a man can earn as much farming as he can by working in industry he'll work in industry, provided he can find employment which has been easy for some time.

Irrigation is a subject with big appeal and high importance. This is partly due to the parched fields of corn and other crops which we saw last summer and partly due to the fact that research information is revealing big profits from irrigation.

The API Experiment Station at Auburn conducted an experiment in irrigating cotton in 1952. An irrigated acre with four applications of one and three-tenths inches of water each, produced two bales of cotton. A test acre without irrigation produced half a bale. Irrigation was the only difference. The extra bale and a half was due to irrigation.

Good seed are essential to high yields and lows costs in farm production. It's always a big mistake for a farmer to plant poor seed. But good seed of cotton and corn may be scarce next year due to the severe drouth last summer. Producers who buy seed well in advance will have a much better chance to get good seed. Delay may be a very costly mistake.

For cotton there'll be no marketing quotas or acreage controls in 1953. Each farmer can plant as many acres as he chooses. The exact acreage that a farmer plants will be determined largely by the amount of labor he has for producing and picking. Money and other factors must be considered. Only good cotton land should be planted to cotton.

Cotton still deserves a big place on Alabama farms. It is our number one cash producer and it works well in combination with other crops and with livestock.

The livestock situation has been clouded of late by lower prices; but livestock deserve a bigger place on Alabama farms. But I add that livestock shouldn't be on any farm that isn't ready for them; any farm that doesn't have enough feed for them. Grazing is the top essential in feeding.

A BUSY FARM FAMILY—At center Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace and their children go over plans of work for the coming year on their farm in Sprott. They agree that planning their work and then working the plan is the key to success with their dairying operation in Perry County. Left to right are Marievelyn, Mr. Wallace, Mrs. Wallace, David, Mrs. Maburm Palmer, a daughter of the Wallaces, and Lavonia. The two interested onlookers in front are Mrs. Palmer's children, Zoie and Allen.

GOOD SEED BRING GOOD STANDS—County Agent John Lowrey, right, inspects the seed John Wallace is planting for his dairy herd to graze in fall and winter. The Perry County farmer will have almost two acres of winter grazing for every animal. Crimson clover and ryegrass will furnish most of this grazing for Wallace's 60-cow dairy herd.

Choctaw's Woman Of The Year

MRS. LINDSEY BONEY of Gilbertown has truly earned the title as the outstanding home demonstration club woman of Choctaw County.

The talented lady is serving as president of the county council and is third vice president of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs. In addition to her qualities of leadership, she has many homemaking skills. She is an excellent cook and her flower arrangements are famous throughout the county.

Mrs. Boney has been active in affairs of the school, church, and community. She is a past matron of the Eastern Star and at one time served as grand marshall of the Grand Chapter O.E.S. of Alabama.

Mrs. Boney was presented a trophy in honor of her achievement at the recent Farm and Home Day program in Butler.

At least 50 agricultural crops are dependent upon honeybees for pollination—or yield more abundantly when bees are plentiful.

FOUR-H PARTNERSHIP PAYS OFF—Jimmy and Thompson Sisco, two Madison County 4-H'ers, are roud of the joint cotton project they recently comleted. They made two bales on their three acres. The Monrovia 4-H Club members, who live at Jeff, re now getting their Hereford beef calf ready for the ounty and district shows next spring. When this is ompleted, they plan to have even more joint projects. hown above are Assistant County Agent Fred Glaze, eft, and Jimmy as they admire some samples of the oungsters' 4-H Club work.

Bountiful Benefits

Teamwork Means Good Living For Wallace Family

WORK together and play together—and you'll be happy together.

These are the simple words the John Wallace family of Sprott live by.

But the Wallaces also agree that it hasn't always been as simple as the words indicate. "Many hardships have accompanied the happy days we have spent together," is the way Mrs. Wallace puts it.

"Making a living today is a hard mission to accomplish," the Perry County farmer adds. But he also agrees that a little "down to earth" thinking and plenty of elbow grease puts most jobs—including farming—over the top.

And John Wallace should know what he is talking about. He, his wife, and three children are making a huge success by smart management and hard work.

The Wallaces make their living with livestock. There are a few head of beef cattle on the Wallace farm, but dairying furnishes the main income. On the farm there are 60 head of grade dairy cows, crosses between Jersey and Holsteins. This gives both quality and quantity, the two essentials in the dairy business.

"But the main factor in determining whether a dairyman can make a living is his pasture program," says Wallace. And he takes no chances here. This winter and next spring the dairyman will provide almost two acres of crimson clover and ryegrass for each animal on the place. Then later in the year 245 acres of white Dutch, kudzu, sericea, common lespedeza, and native grasses will supply plenty of grazing.

With this pasture program, one can well understand why Wallace would say, "If you can't take care of the cow that's making your living, get rid of her."

Wallace doesn't carry the whole farming load—his wife and three children complete this efficient farming operation. And they carry their share of the responsibility. For instance, Mrs. Wallace has refinished seven pieces of furniture, built several kitchen cabinets, made the living room draperies, and still she has time to serve as president of the Perry County Home Demonstration Council and rural youth chairman in her local Sprott Home Demonstration Club.

The farm lady has been an active home demonstration club member for more than 15 years, serving as an officer for each year. When a community leader is needed, Mrs. Mary Ellen Haynes, home agent, calls on Mrs. Wallace.

Just as the home demonstration club has helped Mrs. Wallace with her problems at home, the 4-H Club is doing the same for the three children. The oldest daughter, Marievelyn, has been a 4-H'er for eight years. The 15-year-old youngster has completed almost every 4-H project one can think of. She is most interested in beef, and one entire wall of her room is almost covered with ribbons won by her animals.

Other projects Marievelyn has completed are dairying, sewing, room improvement, food preservation, food preparation, personal grooming, and canning.

Marievelyn isn't the only active 4-H'er in the family. Her younger brother, David, is getting his beef calf ready for the shows next year. He also entered a dairy animal in the recent county show.

And there is still another member of the family who is in the 4-H Club. Lavonia, who is seven years old, is following in the 4-H footsteps of her sister. The youngster is always out around the dairy barn helping her father. Or if there's nothing going on there, she is in the house watching and trying to help her mother.

The Wallaces, from oldest to youngest, have worked together, played together—and today, as always, they are happy together.

Butterfat In The Calf's Diet

BUTTERFAT cannot be replaced by vegetable fat in diets fed calves, according to Dr. T. W. Gullickson of the National Dairy Council.

He used 100 calves in his experiment, and all of them fed vegetable oil died by the time they were three months old. Calves whose diets were switched to butterfat before they were three months old lived.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, believes that new products sold to replace butterfat may be cheaper, but they may not be healthful, too. Taste alone is not a test for food products, he adds.

Precious Crop Of Grain

GRAIN sorghum made the difference in having and not having feed for livestock for many farmers this year and Will Smith Prickett of Jacksonville, Rt. 1, is no exception. Mr. Prickett is shown at left above in a 12-acre field of grain sorghum which he planted on a field that had been in crimson clover. This grain will be used to take the place of a corn crop that failed to mature. The Calhoun County farmer had 14 acres of hybrid corn and was hoping to make at least 1,000 bushels. He gathered only 200 bushels. The sorghum will be fed to hogs and beef cattle. At right Prickett is shown with his young son, Will, Jr., looking at a group of market hogs on the farm. Had rainfall been anything like normal, these hogs would be getting plenty of their feed in the form of green grazing—clover and oats.

Winter Tractor Storage Cuts Spring Repair Bills

By J. T. GAILLARD
API Extension Farm Mechanization Specialist

WINTER neglect can cost you cold cash. Better prepare your field equipment now for hibernation and avoid painful repair bills next spring.

For example, take your tractor. It's vital to your livelihood; so don't climb down as the frost bites deep and forget it. That kind of neglect can mean lost days in the spring when hours mean dollars and cents.

To get your tractor ready for winter storage, start off by washing it. Dust, grime or mud may hide cracks that need welding, tire breaks, or an important bolt minus a nut. Rust, which can eat away at your pocketbook as well as metal, also breeds under dirt.

Do a thorough cleaning job. Use soap and warm water to wash away corrosive barnyard acids. A kerosene-soaked brush will remove stubborn grease. Then inspect around chassis and engine for loose nuts and broken or worn parts that need repairing or replacing.

If major repairs are indicated, act now. If you wait until spring, your garage or tractor station may be jammed with work and the rush for parts may result in delivery bottlenecks and loss of time.

Although your tractor may stand idle for months, go over the ignition system now. When the buds start bursting it's a fine feeling to have an engine kick right off. Faulty ignition can spell hard starting plus loss of power and wasted fuel.

Start with the breaker points. If pitted, install new ones. Next, wipe down ignition cables with a rag moistened with solvent—dry cleaner will do. Check cables carefully for cracks or worn spots.

Now the spark plugs. You can do only one of two things: have them serviced or replaced. They need cleaning, adjusting and checking every 100 hours of tractor operation. New or freshly-cleaned plugs aren't needed for a tractor in storage but it's wise to have them handy when you're ready to roll next spring. As a matter of fact, smart operators keep an extra set or two on hand.

With the ignition in shape place the tractor in a sheltered storage spot. Block up all wheels to take weight off the tires. Don't bother to deflate them—it isn't necessary.

Next, drain and flush out the cooling system. If there's a lot of sediment try a hot soda solution or a commercial cleaner for a good cleaning job. And don't forget to remove straw and other debris from the radiator core.

While the engine is warm and the oil fluid, drain the crankcase.

To eliminate rust formation inside the engine, the following suggestions should be followed:

Remove spark plugs and pour about a quarter of a pint of light oil (SAE 10 or 20) into each cylinder. If you have anti-rust oil handy, so much the better. Then put plugs back, turn over engine a dozen revolutions to work oil around rings and over cylinder walls to discourage corrosion. Stuff a rag into the end of exhaust pipe to keep out moisture.

The fuel system needs extra care. Drain every drop of fuel from tank, carburetor, filter and lines to prevent formation of gum that can clog jets and small passages. Wipe exposed parts with solvent-soaked rag.

Next, unhook the battery, clean it thoroughly, have it serviced if necessary, store it where it won't freeze—and your tractor storage chores are finished. That is, unless you've really got in the groove and decided to get out the paint brush. A nice fresh coat of paint really will give your tractor a new lease on life.

Scale insects that attack all kinds of fruit trees do not stop feeding in winter. Trees that are heavily infested should be sprayed just as soon as possible after the leaves drop. A good oil emulsion when properly diluted with water makes an effective spray for the control of scale insects. Read directions on the container. Care must be taken not to spray fruit trees with oil just prior to a hard freeze.

This Month on the Farm

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

NOW is the time to make plans for a good cotton crop in 1953. As soon as possible farmers should decide on the number of acres to be planted and what fields will be planted to this crop. Plan to use a minimum of 600 pounds per acre of a good cotton fertilizer. Many farmers can profitably use more. Use one bushel of reginned and treated seed or 16 pounds of acid delinted seed per acre. It is not too early to make plans for controlling insects on next year's cotton crop.

CAN you bring more land into use by clearing up bottoms that are not now in use and making them into permanent pastures? Clearing up bottomland is a mighty good way to invest time in December. Many farmers can add to the acreage they are using by clearing up the creek and branch bottoms which are usually suited to permanent pastures.

IT is a paying practice to cut your cotton and corn stalks as soon after harvest as practicable. If they have not already been cut, this should be done in December. If the stalks are cut and left on the surface of the soil, they will help control erosion, decay faster, and make good organic matter.

DECEMBER is the time to start making arrangements for fertilizers for 1953. You will need fertilizer in January and February for permanent pastures, sericea, kudzu, and oats. Then, there will be only a short time until you will need it for row crops.

FRUIT trees may be pruned at any time during the dormant season. It is a good idea to get this job done early. Pruning is necessary to stimulate growth of new fruit-bearing wood. It is most important on young trees to develop good strong framework limbs and the proper shaped trees.

BULLS that have been kept away from cow herds should be put back with cows if calves are desired in September. If October calves are wanted, the bulls should be brought back Janaury 1. Results of the Black Belt Substation show fall calves to be much more profitable than spring and summer calves. For the past three years on August 13 fall calves weighed 519 pounds, while on October 17, spring calves weighed only 448 pounds. Fifty-one per cent of the fall calves graded choice and only 17 per cent of the spring calves were in this category.

GAS, kerosene, and gasoline, used for cooking or emergency heating, give off products of combustion which add moisture to the air in rooms. All stationary room heaters should be connected to chimneys. Hoods over cooking stoves using oil or gas should be connected to an unused chimney flue or special vent and if portable oil heaters are used, ventilation should be provided in the room.

TO qualify for P.M.A. payment, terraces must empty onto well protected outlets and waterways. Existing terraces should be plowed out, weak places repaired, and outlets put in good condition before winter rains set in.

HERE'S THE REASON—Harris Moates shucks back a "nubbin" of corn in a burned up field on the Moates' farm in Coffee County. He says this is why they had to move fast in growing grain sorghum for feed.

New Style Cotton Harvest

Wiregrass Farmers Switch From Picking To Pulling Their Crop

COTTON picking, a task dreaded by many farmers, has been skipped on some farms in the Wiregrass area this fall.

Lots of farmers have found that they can get along without picking the crop at all—they just pull it instead.

The big difference in pulling and picking is that in pulling cotton the farmer simply takes the entire boll from the stalk, not worrying about separating lint from bur. This makes the harvesting job easier and faster.

There was a time when gins could not separate the lint from burs, but today's gins seem to do the job very well. That being the case, several growers in Houston County have almost abandoned the practice of picking. An exception to this is at the first of the harvest season when bolls are green, hard to pull, and difficult for the gins to handle.

Farmer H. W. Roney of Webb, Rt. 1, who had 40 acres of cotton this year, says he used the pulling method for several reasons. "First of all, it was faster and you can get more cotton into shelter or to the gin during good, sunny days," he explained. "In the next place, my family couldn't possibly have harvested the crop alone, and hired workers would pass up my place for a neighbor who did not insist on picking. Finally, I can tell very little difference in the quality and grade of cotton where it is pulled—that is, if the ginner does a good job."

From the ginner's side, W. C. Wells of the Ashford Gin and Power Co., says the bur separator at his plant cost him $10,000. He was forced to buy it because farmers stopped picking and wanted a gin equipped to handle pulled cotton.

Wells says if pulled cotton is dry when it comes to the gin, it takes very little more time for processing than did the old method. He adds, however, that a pulled bale usually brings one to two cents less per pound than a top quality picked bale.

Milton Trawick of Ashford, Rt. 2, points out pulling cotton is not cheaper for the farmer. While he pays the puller less per pound for harvesting the crop, the worker sometimes gets three times as many pounds in a day.

Assistant Agent J. N. White sums up the situation by saying this is just another way the grower has found to make up for labor that is leaving the farm for industries. At the same time, cotton pulling gives the farmer more time for fall planting and other jobs needing his attention.

From "Bust" To Bounty

Sorghum Saved The Day For The Moates Family

HARRIS MOATES and his father, Ab Moates, took a good look around their farm near Enterprise in early July and decided that the corn crop was a "bust" for sure. And since they have always had some of the best corn in Coffee County, they were pretty sure their neighbors wouldn't have any grain to sell them this fall and winter either.

What the Moates' farm and thousands of others in Alabama needed was some feed for livestock. And they knew they had only a few weeks left in which to produce it. But they came up with the right answer.

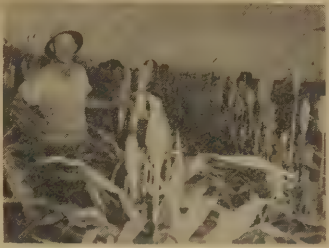
Harris said they had been growing grain sorghum for years on their place, and had harvested some for feed. But mostly they had planted sorghum for a seed crop. They knew the crop pretty well, however, and they knew it would make grain when planted late. So they got busy trying to get a crop into the ground. One 20-acre field was planted to grain sorghum on July 20, and other patches were planted soon afterward.

These new grain crops on the Moates' farm were fertilized with 200 pounds of 4-10-7 commercial fertilizer at the time of planting and were later side-dressed with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. Old stand-by varieties were used, mostly Martin's Combine, the seed of which came from storage bins on the farm.

"This is not the best grain sorghum we've grown on the farm," said Harris, standing shoulder deep in big red heads of the grain this fall, "but it is some we're as proud of as any we ever harvested. This year it means the difference between having grain for feed and buying or doing without it."

Both Harris and County Agent J. R. Speed estimated that the grain harvested on the 20-acre field will run at least 1,500 pounds per acre. The crop was combined when ready for storage and—corn or no corn—there'll be 30,000 pounds of dry feed for livestock on the farm.

Speed says it was making the best of a bad situation and moving fast to catch up the slack that meant the difference between profit and loss on many farms. The Moates family just moved fast enough to overcome what looked like a sure grain failure.



HERE'S THE ANSWER—Grain sorghum was planted on the Moates' farm on July 15. And by late September this is what it looked like. Harris Moates and County Agent J. R. Speed estimated the prospective yield at 1500 pounds of grain per acre.

Protect Cattle From Lice

WITH cold weather here, it's a sure thing that lice are multiplying rapidly on all cattle.

W. A. Ruffin, API Extension entomologist, points out that lice seriously damage beef and dairy cattle during the winter months. Also, they will reduce milk production and gains made by beef animals.

These pests can be controlled by spraying or dusting animals with DDT or rotenone, says Ruffin. Lice on beef cattle can be killed with a spray mixture containing five to eight pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT in 100 gallons of water. Dairy animals should be treated with eight pounds of 50 per cent wettable methoxychlor in 100 gallons of water.

If only a few animals are to be treated, it may be easier to control lice by dusting them. A dust that contains five per cent DDT should be used for treating beef animals. Dairy cattle can be treated with a dust that contains one per cent rotenone.

Treatments should be made twice at about 15-day intervals.

THIS COTTON WAS PULLED, NOT PICKED—Milton Trawick, Ashford, Rt. 2, says he is in favor of pulling cotton, rather than picking it, even though it does not save him money. Pulling is much faster than picking, and the Houston County farmer likes to get the harvest finished while the weather is still warm and favorable.

Three-Way Shot At Success

Steady Income From Diversified Farming

RANDOLPH County farmer Joe Frank Tennant counts on broilers, milk, and pork to get a diversified income on his farm.

Tennant believes he uses his time better and has a steadier income by keeping money coming from several enterprises, rather than just one or two. Proof that he is right is found on his farm.

Broilers bring Tennant a "quarterly" income. He built a 32 by 120-foot house last December; now he has his fourth batch of birds nearing market weight. Besides using daily an odd hour or so of otherwise idle time, the project supplies a large amount of poultry compost each year. The compost is put on small grain fields and pasture used by the dairy herd.

Tennant is milking three cows at present, has two more that will freshen soon, and plans to gradually increase the herd to 10 cows. The milk is sold for manufacturing purposes.

Randolph County Agent Sam Jones says Tennant is on the right track with his dairy program. Artificial breeding is being used to increase the quality of his cattle and pasture acreage is rising each year to take care of the expanding herd. Five of the animals in Tennant's herd of nine cows and calves were artificially sired. Two of these are now in production.

Pasture crops on the farm include 15 acres of sericea, 10 acres of kudzu, two acres of alfalfa for hay, and a good bit of permanent pasture and winter grazing crops. More fencing and additional pasture crops are scheduled for next year.

Hogs supply another part of Tennant's income. He keeps a good registered Hampshire boar and sells a couple of litters of crossbred hogs each year.

Several acres of cotton and a small planting of peppers round out the farmer's income The peppers are sold to a canning plant in Georgia.

Tennant says that keeping so many projects going gives him plenty to do throughout the year. Furthermore, when a bad year hits one of his crops, like it did his corn crop last summer, he has something else to tide him over until another crop season.

PART-TIME JOB—One of the several part-time jobs that add up to full-time employment for Joe Frank Tennant on his farm out from Wedowee is the task of keeping feed handy for 4,000 broilers. These six-week-old birds will go to market when eight or nine weeks old. The house, 32 by 120 feet, is kept warm with heat ray lamps. Kerosene brooders are also available for extremely cold weather.

HELP FOR THE HERD—This springing heifer soon will be adding dollars to Joe Frank Tennant's bimonthly milk checks. She will be the third artificially bred heifer in production in the Randolph County farmer's herd.

Pen Feathers

RECORDS of successful poultrymen and experiment stations show that laying flocks started in December, January, and early February make more profit than chicks hatched later in the year. Such flocks start laying by July and are in their peak of production during the last six months of the year when egg prices are best. They are laying large eggs by September and October when prices are near their peak.

Pullets hatched in March and April start laying in September, and eggs are small in size through a large part of the best egg price period.

Now is the time to plan the 1953 egg flock. Place your order with a reliable hatcheryman for some high quality chicks to be delivered before the end of January. Select a strain bred for high egg production.

Plan your brooding program. Arrange to brood your chicks at least 100 feet from any other poultry. This is very important in preventing leucosis. It is also important that no one carry a disease to the chicks from the old hens on their shoes. This can be prevented by keeping a pair of rubber shoes at the brooder house door and slipping them on when entering the door.

Follow a growing program as outlined in Extension Circular 421, "Grow Good Pullets." This circular is available from your county and home demonstration agent.

More Eggs This Winter

The number of eggs laid by the commercial egg flock during the next few weeks will greatly affect the amount of money made during the year. For this reason it is very important to keep the hens laying at a high rate.

The hen's natural laying period is in the spring when days are long and the weather is warm. In winter, when weather is cold and days are short, she is not very enthusiastic about laying. To get top production we must use artificial light to give the hens as much light as they get in the spring. Feed hens enough to keep them warm plus some extra for eggs. We must also be sure that the birds have plenty of ice-free water. Feeding pellets at noon will encourage them to eat more. Feed what the birds will clean up in about 15 minutes. Some growers start feeding three to four pounds per day per 100 hens and gradually increase the amount.

Keep the birds comfortable by providing a dry house free of drafts. Keep house closed on three sides but provide plenty of ventilation from the fourth side. If the house has too little ventilation, dampness, wet litter, and colds are likely to result. Keep a deep litter on the floor of the house.

On extremely cold days an infrared heat lamp suspended over the automatic water fountain will encourage hens to drink more water.

Reports indicate that wildfowl hunters may expect fair to good shooting on the TVA lakes and in the Mobile Delta area this coming season. Also, farmers with good marshes in the western part of the state may enjoy roasted wild ducks.

Cage Laying System Works Fine For Geneva County Poultryman

STAND UP JOB—There is no stooping and bending involved in gathering eggs when you use a cage laying system like the one shown here. W. E. Ward, left of Geneva, Rt. 1, says that eggs produced with the cage system are unusually clean. High quality is maintained also because the eggs cool rapidly in the wire tray which extends out from the cage. Shown with Ward is County Agent M. M. Woodham.

SHIPPING between 450 and 500 eggs per day is a pleasing job for W. E. Ward of Geneva, Rt. 1.

Originally in the broiler business, Ward changed over to layers last January when he installed 600 individual cages in his broiler house and started growing a group of Leghorn pullets to fill them. The birds began laying in late June, and are now producing at a rate that would please any poultryman.

Ward says that keeping up with the production of each hen is simple because of the individual cage system. He keeps a calendar attached to each cage and puts a black mark on the record each day a hen fails to lay. If she fails to lay seven eggs during each 14 day period, she loses her cage—and also her head. A replacement pullet then takes over the empty cage.

The Geneva County poultryman starts 100 chicks each month to keep his cages filled to capacity with high producing birds. Hens culled because of low production are sold locally.

Caring for the flock takes very little time, according to Mr. Ward. He says that he feeds the birds their all-mash ration each morning while his wife cooks breakfast. This usually takes about 20 minutes. Water is supplied by automatic fountains.

Eggs are collected and cooled in wire baskets and are graded according to size. They are sold to a grocery store chain and Ward receives top prices because of the high quality of the eggs.

Easy Ways To Roast Poultry

FEAST day or any day, chicken, turkey, duck, and goose are favorites.

Choose from many cherished dishes—golden roast turkey, chicken fried to a crispy turn, stewed chicken with dumplings—or be very modern with the new turkey steaks.

How to cook any kind of poultry depends on the bird's age, weight, quality, and fatness. In general, plump young birds are best for broiling, frying, or roasting. Older birds or lean young ones are best braised, stewed, or steamed.

Cooking Rules

Whether poultry is freshly drawn or frozen, two good rules are: 1. Cook at low to moderate temperatures. 2. Don't overcook.

In frying or roasting, birds should not be covered. The meat is more juicy and there is less shrinkage with this method.

Keep frozen birds frozen until time to thaw for cooking. To cook without thawing, allow one-and-a-half times the usual cooking period.

After cleaning bird, sprinkle inside with salt. Stuff body and neck cavities loosely. Remember that birds swell during cooking. Brush skin of chicken or turkey with soft fat. Ducks and geese do not need added fat. Place bird on rack in shallow pan and roast uncovered without adding water. If desired, start bird breast down and turn two or three times during cooking.

Baste a chicken or turkey several times with melted fat or drippings. Since ducks and geese are fat, they do not need basting. In fact, when roasting a goose, prick the skin from time to time to let fat run out. Always roast a goose breast up.

While bird roasts, simmer the giblets and neck until tender. Use enough salted water to cover. Cool, chop fine, and add to gravy or save to use in creamed dish with left-over meat from the roast bird.

Cooking Chart

Always Cook at Approximately 325°F.

Duck	5 - 7 lbs.	4 - 5½ lbs.	2 -3 hrs.
Goose	10 -12 lbs.	8 -10 lbs.	3½-4½ hrs.
Turkey	6 -10 lbs.	5 - 8½ lbs.	2½-3 hrs.

Bibb Farmer's Success Story

Timber Management Pays Profitable Dividends

HOW much is my farm forest worth? Can it bring me more dollars? What should I do to make it grow better trees faster?

Such are the questions hundreds of Bibb County farmers are asking County Agent J. C. Odom these days.

And the woodland owners have good reasons for their queries. Since more than three-fourths of this county is covered with trees, farmers are becoming more conscious of using timber as a bigger income maker. And better methods of timber management, they know, is the key to getting more from their trees.

Ovid Merchant is no exception to those who have been firing forestry questions. He didn't wait until the other day to start either. His starting point was 14 years ago when he bought about 200 acres of timber land in the Randolph community. Since then he has followed a good timber management program and kept close records.

These records stand as proof that timber managed correctly will pay the farmer—or anyone else. Out on his farm, Merchant turned through the pages of his record book and found he had sold timber off the place almost every year since 1938. It was no surprise to him to find he had averaged marketing more than $500 worth in each of the 14 years.

But the cash income has been just a part of what came off the farm. Merchant has one of the largest hay and cattle barns in Bibb County—made from lumber harvested from this same plot of timber.

Merchant has never overlooked the importance of having a watchful eye on his woods to keep fires and insects from damaging his timber stand. Furthermore, each year he carefully selects the trees to be cut.

Where needed, seedlings are planted to maintain the stand. As Merchant said, "You can't cut a tree where there is a vacancy."

The Bibb County farmer has never hired any labor to help him market his timber. Besides making the operation cheaper, this also does away with labor problems, he explained.

Looking Ahead To Farm Family Living In 1953

By STELLA L. MITCHELL

API Extension Economist In Home Management

AS farm families raise their standard of living, they will continue to spend more and this may have more effect on their living costs than the course of consumer prices.

The general outlook for food supplies next year is quite good, with fairly substantial stocks of most foods on hand. Food prices are expected to maintain present levels due to the supply and demand situation. Food expenditures will probably maintain a level near the present average. However, current domestic production is the determining force in the year's food supply situation.

Groups of foods will vary in price in 1953. Turkeys, eggs, butter, bread, cereal, dry beans, peas, and canned vegetables will average a little higher in price during the coming year. Beef, veal (particularly lower grades), perhaps lamb and mutton, chicken, fish, frozen fruit juices, and fresh vegetables will average lower in price because of the expected supply situations for these commodities. Prices of other foods are most likely to be not much different from 1952.

In looking ahead we expect some increase in the per person consumption of beef, veal, frozen fruits and vegetables, chicken, fruit juices, other vegetables, sweet potatoes, and margarine. Lower rates of consumption of turkey, pork, eggs, and butter are expected.

Milk production may increase slightly. Consumer demand for milk should continue strong with prices averaging a little higher.

The supply of apparel and household textiles, cotton, and rayon is ample and will continue under any conditions except all-out war. Wool supplies are sufficient for an indefinite time, depending upon imports. Clothing in general will be down in price. There will be an adequate supply of leather goods, including shoes—prices will be down.

Housing activity will continue strong, with building materials in fairly good supply. It is expected that between 900,000 and 1,000,000 units will be built in 1953—a decline of about 10 per cent from the 1952 level. Adequate supplies of lumber and most building materials will be available at perhaps a little higher price.

The good demand for household furnishings and equipment is expected to continue. At present, the supply is ample with prices remaining about the same as 1952.

Facts that will affect farm family living during 1953 are:

1. The continuing trend of farm families to want more of the goods and services that make a better living.
2. Consumer purchasing power likely to be maintained at a high level.
3. Expenditures for goods can be affected by increased expenditures for durable goods or by increases in the rate of savings.
4. The defense emergency is still with us; however, defense spending is expected to taper off the latter part of 1953.
5. Good schools, hospitals and community services mean higher taxes and these services are likely to be demanded by farm families.

Cut Hog Losses By Removing Parasites

CORN-HOG growers in Alabama suffered a several million dollar loss this year as a result of the near corn crop failure from drouth and heat.

Marketings of live hogs, which amounted to approximately $49,000,000 last year, will certainly be several millions below expected levels when 1952 records are in. Many farmers lack corn to finish their shotes to market tops; many others sold their feeder pigs and even some of their brood stock at reduced prices.

In addition to the enormous loss already suffered, the state's farmers stand to lose another half-million worth of precious feed during the coming year. Corn crib rogues will rook the farmers of $500,000 if they don't watch out.

Here's how the farmers will be robbed. The rogues are internal parasites of swine.

About 1,000,000 hogs will be marketed and about half of these will harbor parasites; probably an average of 25 per animal.

Each worm requires about one pound of feed. Figuring feed at four cents per pound, these thieves will steal feed valued at $1 per animal infested for a total of $500,000.

Raising pigs on clean green ground and treating infested pigs with sodium fluoride at 10 to 12 weeks of age would save practically all this loss. County agents have been recommending this method of prevention and treatment for several years and they will gladly give full details on request.

Broiler production is expected to increase slightly. The turkey population will decrease from the 59 million birds raised in 1952 causing a slight increase in turkey prices. Egg production will be down slightly due to a two to four per cent decrease in the hen population. This decrease will cause egg prices to increase early in the spring and remain favorable throughout the year.

A small increase is expected in vegetable production, but the demand will be strong and prices high.

The 17.2 million bale cotton supply will be down slightly from 1952. The expected domestic consumption of 9.5 million bales plus 4.5 million bales of export cotton will cause little improvement in the carry-over for Aug. 1, 1953. The carry-over will be around 3.2 million bales.

REMODELED ANTIQUES—Mrs. John Vinson of Clayton is justly proud of the old-fashioned bed she is shown "straightening up" above. This antique, along with matching dresser, washstand and chair has been in Mrs. Vinson's family for 65 years and all of the pieces look like new. The Floyd Home Demonstration Club member has completely reworked each of the pieces and has also remodeled and wired seven oil lamps. Mrs. Vinson says she got started in the remodeling business by repairing one of the lamps and eventually turned her talent loose on the furniture.

Research Results

EXPERIMENT STATION

LIME INCREASED THE YIELD of forage an average of 63 per cent on white clover pastures fertilized with recommended rates of phosphate and potash at all 11 locations throughout Alabama. Increases ranged from three-fourths ton to over one and one-half tons of dry forage per acre on most of these Alabama soils except the lime soils of the Black Belt. These increases were obtained by applying the following rates of lime per acre: two to three tons on heavy textured acid soils, one to two tons on flood plain soils, and one and one-half tons on sandy soils.

VEGETABLES RESPOND TO LIME. Of 27 vegetables used in tests on Norfolk, Eutaw, and Cecil soils at Auburn, lettuce, beets chard, onions, and spinach showed marked response and English peas, tomatoes, okra, and sweetpotatoes showed medium response to lime applications. All treatments consisted of 1,000 pounds of complete fertilizer per acre. Lime was applied the first year of the test at the rate of one and one-half tons per acre to Norfolk and Cecil and three tons to Eutaw soil.

STANDS OF WHITE CLOVER are often affected by diseases when grown alone or in mixtures with grasses such as Dallis, tall fescue, and Coastal Bermuda. Preliminary results show that stolon rots rank as the chief disease problem of white clover, followed closely by leaf-spotting and stem-rotting diseases. Resistance to specific diseases has occurred among the clover plants. Ladino white clover has shown more resistance to diseases than has intermediate white clover.

SOIL ACIDITY is affected very little by mulching vegetable crops. Over a period of seven years, repeated applications of various mulching materials used both as surface mulches and as incorporated material showed only a limited effect on soil acidity. Materials used included pine straw, oat straw, sericea straw, peanut hulls, sawdust, corn stalks, crotalaria stalks, and soybean vines.

CHRISTMAS TREES can be harvested from Arizona cypress plantations at the end of the third growing season. If the plantation has been cultivated to keep down competition from weeds and grass, a number of trees will be large enough to crop off after three years of growth. Slower growing trees may be cut at the end of the fourth and fifth growing seasons. Research results at Auburn show that of the two most desirable species grown in Alabama redcedar grows slower than Arizona cypress. It takes four years or longer for redcedar to grow to Christmas tree size.

THE RELATIONSHIP between locally-produced supplies of fluid milk and sales of bottled milk products varies widely within the state. About two-fifths of the Alabama-produced supplies originate in the Black Belt, which ships large quantities of milk to Birmingham, Mobile, Tuscaloosa, and other markets. The only other specified market area in which locally-produced supplies consistently exceed local sales of bottled milk and cream is in east central Alabama; a considerable share of this area's production is sold to plants in Columbus, Georgia.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Claud Craig calls attention to his ad elsewhere in this issue of our favorite newspaper. Welcomes your visit to his store and promises many bargains in Christmas pretties.

We made an awful blunder the other week when we announced that the Rev. Marvin Vickers would be County Chairman of the March of Dimes. But that is the way it was given to us. Marvin will be Local Chairman and Rev. Fred Lowery will be County Chairman. If the Mother's Chairman has been announced they have not let us in on it.

Helen Parrish, who has turned her afternoon radio program over to the Christmas Chest, told us this week that anyone having toys and the like could call the station during her broadcast and donate their toys and she would announce their name on the air. Here's your big chance to break into radio.

The Clanton Shrine Club made H. T. Pipes a life member on his 84th birthday. Although 84 years young "Mr. H. T." still makes his morning visits to the courthouse, city hall and local stores passing the time of day with his old friends. Funny thing, by the time we come to work, Mr. H. T. has already made his rounds and some mornings is on his way home. Few people in Chilton County are better known or better loved than is Mr. Pipes. We congratulate him heartily on his recognition by the Shrine Club.

Joe Jackson, Clanton Drive-In, received a letter from a Mrs. Carl R. Reid, of Bessemer, Tuesday, asking him about his Manger scene that he has at his home near the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. She had been driving by and saw the display and liked it so much she wanted to get one just like it. She complimented Joe highly on his Drive-In Theatre and his Christmas display.

While the preacher berated all kinds of sin, Aunt Lucy punctuated his remarks with "Amen. . praise the Lawd." She echoed his disapproval of lying, card playing, dice, and drinking. When the preacher turned his denunciation upon petty gossip, Aunt Lucy eased back into the pew and muttered: "Now he's done quit preaching and started meddling."

Just in case you are wondering why Ben Studdard is wearing that big smile and going around with his chest stuck out he went deer hunting last week. He not only went deer hunting, but he killed the only deer that was killed on the hunt and there were some fifty men participated. Now Ben ain't speaking to little fellows like me who ain't never killed anything bigger than a rabbit—and we caught him sitting.

Curley (Q) Huntley was back in town visiting Wednesday of this week. You know Curley took a position as announcer with a radio station at Alexander City. Curley says, to tell his friends he likes it fine and thinks the people over there will like him. Curley has a way of making friends with people.

Amon Jones suggests practical gifts for Christmas. Amon is featuring gifts for the home in his ad this week found elsewhere in this issue.

A CHRISTMAS TREE CAN CAUSE A HOME TO BURN

Auburn, Ala. — Few people realize that a beautiful Christmas tree is one of the most easily burned holiday decorations.

Elta Majors, API Extension family life specialist, points out that a Christmas tree is filled with pitch and resin — materials which burn readily. In fact, the average tree takes less than two minutes to burn completely.

"For safe trimming of trees," says Miss Majors, "don't set up the tree until a few days before Christmas. Place the tree in the coolest part of the house so it won't dry out and create a fire hazard. If necessary, turn off heat nearest the tree. Never use cotton that has not been treated and made non-inflammable or paper for decorations on or around the tree. And make certain that all lighting is turned off before retiring or leaving the house."

Dip a measuring cup or spoon into very hot water before using it for lard, butter, etc., and the fat will slip out easily.

Citizens Fighting Proposed Gas Rate Hike With Great Vitality

The City of Clanton's governing body wishes to express its sincere gratitude for your whole-hearted cooperation in contacting your Congressmen and Senators in regard to the hearing on December 1, 1952.

We will not know the outcome of this hearing until about February or March, 1953, but whatever the decision will be, we know everything has been done to prevent any increase in gas rates.

Again we want to thank you for your interest in this matter and, as soon as we know the decision, we will immediately inform you.—

Work To Start On State Office Building Soon

Montgomery, Ala. — Work is scheduled to start around January 1, 1953, on Alabama's new eight-floor state office building in Mont-

A low bid of $2,682,812 has been submitted by Ray M. Lee Company of Atlanta.

State Finance Director D. W. Hodo, a member of the Alabama Building Corporation, responsible for the job, says the low bidding firm proposes to complete the building in 600 days.

Gov. Gordon Persons says that eight bids were received and all were within the $3,250,000 top authorized by the 1951 legislature. The new building will be across Dexter Avenue from the Highway Department Building, and will be of the same architectural design. The new structure was made the responsibility of the State Building Corporation by the 1951 legislature. The corporation includes the governor, the director of the Industrial Relations Department, the State Finance Director, and the State Attorney General.

Also according to the law setting up the corporation, priority on space in the new building is granted the Industrial relations Department, Agriculture and Industries, Conservation, Education, Health. Public Service Commission, and Commerce Departments.

Financing of the construction of the office building will be through a $3,250,000 bond sale by the corporation. Bids on the bonds were to be opened December 10.

IRISH POTATO YIELD

The 1952 average Irish potato yield is estimated at 120 bushels per acre, compared with 1441 bushels in 1951 and a 10-year average of 126 bushels.

The houses of the more important families of the Indian tribe were grouped around the chief's home. But these houses were on lower ground than the chief's. The least important members of the tribe lived the greatest distance from the chief.

Baptists To Send Christmas Gifts To Children's Home

The Baptist people in this area will join others this season in bringing Christmas cheer to their 300 wards in their Children's Home at Troy.

With many it will be a cash offering.

A total goal of $140,000 has been set by the Alabama Baptist Convention for the holiday contributions this year. It was explained this will actually be used for running expenses at the home for an entire year.

Previously, various groups had sent carloads of farm provisions to the youngsters. Still others "adopt" a certain child and provide clothes and various personal needs throughout the year.

Superintendent of the home, E. E. Cox, said the churches would use any one of the Sundays in December to receive the special offering.

Recent reports showed a farm operated by the orphanage now boasts 100 cattle, 40 hogs and 450 laying hens, with other regular farm products.

Some 50 children are cared for through a "mother's aid" program, Cox explained, while an average of 265 are provided with living quarters in the several cottages on the campus.

GIVE YOUNG PEACH TREES RIGHT CARE

Auburn, Ala. — Many young peach trees don't produce satisfactory fruit, and some of them die before they bear their first crop.

John Bagby, API Extension horticulturist, explains that San Jose scale and leaf curl are the two chief causes of this trouble. However, both of them can be controlled by applying a spray during the dormant season.

"A good oil emulsion spray controls scab but not leaf curl," says the specialist. "Concentrated liquid lime-sulphur will control both."

Local farm supply stores in most towns sell these materials in small containers for the home orchard. The containers usually have printed directions for diluting and applying the sprays.

"To obtain satisfactory control of these pests, it is important that all parts of the tree from tips of branches all the way to the ground be thoroughly covered," adds Bagby.

In early days, the Indian's cabin was made of bark or of the skins of animals stretched over poles. A small opening, which had an animal skin hung over it, served as a door. Some of the cabins were lined with clay for greater protection from the weather.

at best...

Tuberculosis is still extremely serious, but not necessarily fatal—thanks to early diagnosis, hospital treatment, surgical advances, and new drugs.

Yet the problems created by TB are still enormous for the patient who recovers—vocational, social, emotional, and economic problems. For example, recovery almost always means a prolonged absence from both job and family.

Since 1907 your Christmas Seal dollars have helped fight tuberculosis on all fronts, from research to rehabilitation. That great emphasis is now on rehabilitation is both proof of wonderful progress in lives saved . . . and need of your continued help. Send your contribution today, please.

Population Survey To Be Made Here

Special questions on farm employment will be asked this month in the Current Population Survey which will be taken in this area during the week of December 15, it was announced today by District Supervisor Mary L. Griffin of the Census Bureau. Approximately 200 local families will be covered in the sample survey.

The questions are designed to furnish information on the size and characteristics of the hired farm working force, Supervisor Griffin said. Information will be collected also as to the extent that migratory workers are employed on farms.

Supervisor Griffin pointed out that information on the farm labor force is particularly important this year as a means of measuring the effect of the defense program on the labor supply available on farms and as a guide in developing plans that will help meet high food production goals.

In addition to the farm labor questions, there will be the usual questions on employment and unemployment Supervisor Griffin said.

A DEPARTING NOTE TO THE FRIENDS OF CURLEY Q. HUNTLEY

CURLEY Q. HUNTLEY

I want to take this opportunity to defend myself against some of the rumors that are going around, which seem to be intended to mar my character. I will appreciate you, my friends, ignoring these rumors.

I was released at WKLF when the studios were moved to the Broadcasting Station and some of the positions were combined. That is the reason for my leaving WKLF, and the reason that Mr. Bob Taber gave, and I accepted.

However, since that time I have heard ugly rumors going the rounds that my work was unsatisfactory. This is not true and I want all of my friends and customers to know that it is not true. I spent two years at WKLF building up friendships that I would not lose for anything in the world, and I want my friends to know that I value them highly.

I have enjoyed every minute of my work at WKLF and among the good people of this section. For those who like to follow me in my work I will be heard over WRFS AM & FM at Alexander City, starting Monday of this week. WRFS is located at 1090 on your radio dial.

I especially want to thank the advertisers with whom I worked while in Clanton. It was a pleasure and I tried my level best to give them the best that was in me on every program.

My wish to each and every one of you is a very merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Curley Q. Huntley.

County Hospital Board Hopes To Begin Constructing Building Near Middle Of Coming Year

It has been the policy of your Chilton County Hospital Board from the time it was organized, to report to the people of Chilton County periodically in order that they might be kept informed as to the progress and developments of the Hospital program.

Your board met Tuesday, December 9th, at which time we reviewed what has been done up to the present and to make plans for the incoming year. For your information, the Board consisting of nine members, appointed by your Board of Revenue and Control, are men from the County at large, serving with out pay. Normally their terms run for six years, but in the original appointment at the time of organization, three were appointed for a period of two years, three for a period of four years, and three for a period of six years. The merits of this system of staggering appointments each two years is obvious. Your attention is called to the fact that openings for three appointments will become effective this coming February 1st, 1953. Your Hospital Board is anxious that you are made aware of these openings for appointments from time to time and we feel sure your constructive criticism with regard to the filling of these vacancies will be appreciated by the Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control, which is the body authorized to make such appointments.

In again discussing the financing of the proposed hospital, it is the unanimous opinion of the Hospital Board that the people of Chilton County is desirous of waiting until we are able to obtain funds by Federal grant under the popularly known Hill-Burton Act by which so many hospitals over the country being built are obtaining financial assistance. To refresh your mind as to how this program works, approved projects are eligible for grants by the Federal Government covering two-thirds of the cost of the Hospital. These grants of course are contingent upon funds being available, which are appropriated annually by the Congress. To be eligible, your Hospital Board has complied with every requirement made of us and we are now ready and waiting. The awarding of these grants are made through your State Department of Public Health under the regulations as provided for in the Hill-Burton Act. Among these regulations, appropriations are granted to projects based upon time of filing of application for assistance and the degree of need for such a project in the community. According to Mr. Clay H. Dean, Director of the Hospital Planning Division of the State Department of Health, we are now in Class "A" Priority group, also we are eligible for consideration under the next appropriation, based upon the timing of our application for aid. Your attention, we feel, should be called to the fact that quite a number of applications were filed previous to ours as many other counties organized their Hospital Associations some time ahead of us. Hence, we have had to wait our turn.

Based on a total cost of constructing and equipping our Hospital at a figure of $600,000.00, we are eligible for a grant of $400,000.00 from the Government. We are also eligible for a grant from the State for $60,000.00. This would leave a balance of $140,000.00 to be paid by the people of Chilton County. To pay this, we are paying a 4 mill tax on our property, which was passed by a referendum in November, 1950. This tax yields approximately $50,000.00 each year. We have not completed the receipts of this tax yet for the second year, but have approximately $40,000.00 on hand at this time. Principal amounts which have been paid out by your Board were for purchase of land for the site, and for Architects fees incurred to provide plans and specification for our Hospital. Your attention is called to the fact that the provisions of this tax issue require at least one fourth be used for maintenance and operation of the Hospital. This would make available approximately $37,500.00 per year to apply as payment on our participating part for construction. It can be seen by this, that we will be able to amortize our part of the cost, including principal and interest in a little over five years. Thus, it is possible that this tax be reduced three years from the present tax year.

Reviewing all information available to us, we feel definitely optimistic over the possibilities of getting Federal money this coming June, 1953, and since we are completely ready here on our part, construction of our new Hospital should get under way shortly after the middle of next year. We are anxious at all times that anyone desiring information relatives to your Hospital project be completely informed. Feel free at any time to submit us your questions and every effort will be made to answer them to your full satisfaction.

F. LEO THOMPSON,
Chairman, Chilton County Hospital Board.

Jemison High Plays Auburn Frosh 12th

Tomorrow night, Friday, December 12th, the Jemison High School basketeers hoop up with a strong freshmen team from Auburn.

Ordinarily a college team is considered by all averages, a favorite to win over a high school team, and this is no exception, but the J.H.S. boys will be out there with the fond expectations of giving the Auburn Frosh a genuine tussle.

With only three regular starters returning from last year's team, Wayne Guin, J. W. Langston and Coack Cobb, are having to rely sharply on several of the players moving up from the B-team. Brothers, Donald and Pete Gothard, Donnie Bean, James Maddox, Lamar Barrett have been making a rather impressive showing in practice sessions thus far.

The Jemison Pathers have won their first two games of the current season by upsetting Thompson High from Siluria 33 to 15; and trimming Calera High 33 to 26.

The Jemison Bees have also been banging away at their opponents, winning over Thompson Bees 47 to 12, and stinging the Calera Juniors 35 to 17.

Remember tomorrow night at 7:30 Jemison High versus Auburn Freshmen at J.H.S. gymnasium. — R. B. Johnson, Sports Reporter.

RETAILS SALES DECREASE

Retails sales in Chilton County have decreased 20 percent within the past year, according to the University of Alabama Retail Trade Report.

The biggest decrease was in hardware which showed a 11 percent drop in sales followed by general merchandise which dropped five percent. Automobile sales was the only other commodity listed that showed a decrease in sales.

Food, clothing, furniture, service stations, lumber, cafes, drug stores and miscellaneous businesses all showed an increase in sales over the past year. The greatest increase in sales was shown by service stations.

Even though Hardware, general merchandise and automobiles have shown a decided decrease in the past year, in recent months—since September—there has been a big increase in sales in these three catagories.

Perchance before January 1st, 1953, what with the heavy Christmas buying the retail business in Chilton County will be just about what it was for 1951.

ARE WE LIVING TOO LONG?

(By Mrs. O. C. Oakley)

Recently in Montgomery a man died at the age of 97 years of age. He passed away in a Welfare Rest Home, where he had been for 16 months, suffering from the painful disease, arthritis, once called, rheumatism. The reason his passing impressed us, not because he had reached the ripe age, mentioned above, but because he died a pauper, not so much that he was a pauper, which is not an uncommon thing. Jesus said, "The poor you have with you always," but the way he became a pauper was what inspired us to write this article.

He was at one time a rich Planter of Montgomery County, he was a millionaire, he had no idea he would live to be almost a centurian, so, when he started traveling down the "Western Slope of Life," he commenced to take what he considered his Last Fling. When he arrived at the ripe age of 80, he was going to have his last Fling, and it was going to be a big one. Being no cheap skate, he bought an airplane and flew to Mexico, and other countries. This Fling lasted three years, and then he came back home to Montgomery. While this Fling had reduced his bank account, where a fourth grade student would have no trouble in reading the figures, still he wasn't broke, and he continued to take Last Flings, until he had nothing left to Fling with, he had indeed taken his last fling. Sixteen months before his passing he was admitted to a Welfare Rest Home. All because Father Time refused to "Cut him Down." He never thought he would live to be so old. He thought his bank roll was made of rubber and could stretch out through the years. He said he wasn't sorry he had spent his money, the only trouble, was he just lived too long.

Some might ask, where were his relatives and friends, that let him spend his last days on Charity. When he became poor, the friends that knew him once, knew him no more. There may be exceptions, but when you lose your money, friends disappear like snow before the sunshine. Many of them may have helped him take a Last Fling.

This sad case, should be a lesson to all of us, regardless of sex, or race, it has been said, "In Time Of Peace Prepare For War," and we might add, "In Time Of Youth Prepare For Old Age," for it is a proven fact, if you live long enough, you sure will get old. Some start saving for a Rainy Day, but at the first sign of a "sprinkle, they start spending their "nest egg" and when the "Storm" hits, they have no refuge, but "Sweet Charity," which becomes a bitter dose, to those who have been able to stand upon their own feet.

Some might say, why should I save for old age, my children will take care of me. How do you know they will be able to take care of themselves, and if they are financially able, may not be agreeable to have "Pa" and "Ma" in their home. Parents should stay in their own home and own their home, if possible. But if you don't save for a Rainy Day, you may have to seek shelter in a Rest Home, and eat the Bread of Charity.

Too many old people have lived together longer than they expected, and their money, which they thought sufficient for a ripe old age, has gone, and they spend their last days in the home of relatives, and exist on Old Age Pensions, which in many instances, the family have spent it, before the ink is dry on the endorsed Pension Check.

Old age should be a happy time, the reaping of the rich harvest of many years, but how can the old be happy if they haven't enough to eat, or are shivering with the cold? Prepare for old age, don't depend on your children, or charity, but by saving up for Old Age, while you are still young, will enable you to take care of yourselves, when your hair is gray, your eyes are dim, and your step faltering, but your steps will lead you to your own steps. Science has increased the span of life, until the percentage is now, out of every six persons, one is 65 or over.

I want to add, that there is nothing personal in this article, that my children and grandchildren and all in-laws, are glad to have me with them, and the children laugh when I come and cry when I leave, and may it never be reversed. — Centreville Press.

IMPETIGO

One of the mostly unsightly and contagious conditions that affect the skin is impetigo contagioso. Because of its frequent occurrence in children and because of its great contagious character, parents should be alert to the appearance of crust-like scabs or pimples.

The condition commences as a small blister; or it may begin with a cluster of blisters, varying in color from yellow to dark red. Since the causative agents are pus-forming germs, a purulent discharge may be associated with the condition; or the crust may form with little or no discharge.

Once a child is infected, the condition can assume epidemic proportions because it is so contagious. For this reason, an affected child, or adult, should be excluded from contact with others. The sores usually appear within a few days or a week after the germs enter the skin through a cut or a scratch.

It is spread from person to person, either by direct contact such as handling or through the use of towels or wash cloths. Good hygiene is always a factor in prevention of disease, and parents and children alike should be taught the need for using their own toilet articles.

Scratching should be avoided since the purulent material can lodge beneath the fingernails or on the fingers, yielding another source for transmission of the causative germs. Fingernails should be kept short and cleaned thoroughly. Pillowslips should be changed frequently and laundered apart from other linen. Underclothing or clothing which is in contact with the skin should also be handled with great care.

Since the prevention of disease is everyone's aim, wise is the parent who teaches the child early habits of good hygiene. One case of impetigo contagioso can cause an outbreak in an entire family or a school. Be suspicious of that innocent blister.

The women frequently went with the men to such affairs and helped in preparing the meals. They also found the gatherings offered a good opportunity to visit.

Shopping By Impulse To Get Poor Returns

Shopping by impulse is an ideal way to get poor returns for the money, time, and effort spent at the grocery store. Mrs. Sam Cox, Jr., vocational homemaking teacher at Verbena High School, reminds homemakers. The impulse shopper goes to market without planning menus and shopping list ahead, and when there, tries to remember what she needs or decide what she wants. The results is likely to be forgotten items and thus return trips to market, mistakes like buying too little or too much; and especially purchasing extras which may not be used at high-cost luxuries which bulge the budget. The impulse shopper buys what appeals to her at the moment rather than what her family needs and what fits her pocketbook.

A little pencil and paper work at home can save money, time and effort especially at this busy holiday season. A market list in hand rather than in the head makes for efficient and easy shopping. Make a general plan for menus for a few days ahead, depending on the storage space in the kitchen. Check menus for a with the basic seven foods guide to be sure all essentials for good nutrition are included, and then calculate cost to fit the budget. From these menus write out a list of both kind and quantity of foods needed. And other thrifty details, such as grade and size of items.

Most women find that a market list written in ink on a small card is easiest to read and carry. For shopping in a self-service store, save walking back and forth by listing foods in order of their arrangement in the market.

Plan to shop when stores are least crowded and when your usually stocks its fresh supplies. Very often the best time is after breakfast. Shoppers who are tired often do not use their best judgment in buying, and those who are hungry nay buy too much or too expensive foods.

It is often necessary to adjust the market list to what markets offer. Staples like flour or sugar can be listed definitely, but meats, fish, or poultry for the main dish, and vegetables and fruits often need to be chosen according to supplies and prices. In buying vegetables and fruits compare price per serving of fresh, frozen, canned, or dried before making a selection. In buying meat, eggs, and canned goods take advantage of cheaper grades where possible for budget meals. These offer as much nutritive value as higher grades and often are just as good for many cooking purposes or for mixed dishes.

THE STUDY CLUB OBSERVES ALABAMA DAY

Whimsicality keynoted the December meeting of the Study Club, when in observance of Alabama Day an imaginary tour of the State was made. Mrs. T. C. McSwain's home was the scene of this unique program. An enjoyable illusion of traveling was cleverly created. Each member was provided with a state highway map on which they traced the tour as it progressed under the artful delineations of Mesdames Joe Mullins, John Higgins, Charles Patterson, Joe Earle Gowan, Omar Reynolds and Robert Powers. A comprehensive depiction of historic and modern Alabama was presented in this entertaining travelogue.

During the business session it was voted to send a Care Package to Korea.

Other members present were: Mesdames Erle Ellis, N. S. Johnson, M. F. Jones, J. Watts Moore, Joe Moore, Norman Roberts, Frank Scott, and L. C. Warr.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

The three-year-old and the five-year-old have new decorations for their overalls, big shining buttons which proclaim proudly Tonsils out.

They went through the ordeal together one afternoon recently, and, to tell the truth, they suffered less than their parents did. The operations were successful, and the young patients got along fine except for having very sore throats afterwards.

The next morning when the nurse brought in their breakfast trays to their high hospital beds, the three-year-old looked at his cream of wheat and scrambled eggs and said:

"My stomach wants me to swallow, but my throat doesn't."

During the days following their operations when they had to play quietly inside the house, the three-year-old and the five-year-old busied themselves making Christmas cards for their friends.

Cookie cutters in assorted shapes for them to trace around, crayons, blount scissors, paste and colored paper kept them busy and happy for hours. Maybe the finished products aren't as artistic or as neat as those bought in stores and maybe some of them don't look too much like Christmas cards (some look like Valentines), but there is love in every smudge and scrawl.

Our neighbor around the corner has a Christmas decoration on her living room table that delights all the young children in the neighborhood.

In the bottom of a big fish bowl she has anchored a small figure of Santa Claus and around the good saint a realistic snow storm swirls.

To create the snow, the bowl was filled with a quart of water to which was added a tablespoon of citric acid (bought at the drug store), a tablespoon of baking soda and a handful of moth flakes. The acid and the soda make the flakes move around just like real snow. When the snow stops falling, the addition of more soda makes the storm start all over again.

Our next door neighbor says no gifts are ever more welcome than those which come from the kitchens of her friends. Always popular are gifts of marmalade or preserves. Here's how one of our neighbors makes peach ginger marmalade:

Bring 2½ cups of water, ½ cup sugar and ½ cup light corn syrup to boil in a saucepan. Wash 1 pound of dried peaches in hot water, drain, run through meat chopper (medium blade) with ½ cup candied orange peel and ½ cup candied ginger. Add to syrup and boil briskly about 12 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into jelly glasses and seal with paraffin immediately.

And here's a recipe for apricot-pineapple conserve that's a favorite around our house:

Mix 6 cups chopped apricots (dried), 1¼ cups crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon orange juice in enamel saucepan. Cook until apricots are tender, being careful to prevent scorching. Add 3½ cups sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cook until mixture is clear and thick, about ten minutes. Just before removing from heat, add ½ cup blanched, chopped almonds. Pour into jelly glasses or half-pint jars and seal.

There were social occasions when young and old crowded into a small cabin to sing and dance. Perhaps someone with a squeaky fiddle could be found to furnish musci. Weddings were also festive occasions, if a preacher or some kind of official could be found to perform the ceremony. More often it was necessary for the couple to travel many miles to find a person to marry them.

Baptist Church Notes—

The services at the Baptist Church were well attended last Sunday. The pastor spoke Sunday morning on "Financing a New Testament Church." In this message he pointed out some of the unscriptural methods used by some churches, then he gave the plan taught in the Bible. He stressed the fact that the only scriptural plan for financing a New Testament Church is tithing.

This month covenant cards will be mailed to all the church members so they may sign them and return them. A record of the individual's offerings through the year will be kept on these cards and at the end of the year will be mailed to the individual in a sealed envelope. Each member will also receive a package of offering envelopes which will contain an offering envelope for each Sunday in the year.

January Bible Study will be observed the week of January 5-9. The text book this year will be "Studies in Philippians." We are planning for a large attendance for this week of Bible Study.

The Baptist Church extends a very cordial welcome to all to attend all of the services.

Farm labor and fertilizer costs lead the list of items that probably will increase farming costs in 1953.

FEEDING DAIRY CATTLE DURING WINTER MONTHS

Auburn, Ala. — A good job of feeding dairy cattle can be done by Alabama farmers this winter if they follow a few simple feeding suggestions.

"One way good feeding can be accomplished is to feed green leafy hay, made up mostly of legumes," advises Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist. "The hay should be free from mold and weeds. Cows will produce best if they are fed all of this high quality hay they will eat."

GLASS "FREEZER JARS" FOR THE HOME FREEZER

Here are some of the advantages and disadvantages of the new "freezer jars."

According to Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, the jars are moisture-vapor-proof, can be re-used, need no heat-sealing as paper containers do, and, though food must be thawed somewhat for removal, there is no leakage from the container in thawing.

"Another advantage of the 'freezer jars,' " says Miss Curtis, "is that they are more convenient than ordinary glass jars because the sides are straight so that food slips out easily after slight defrosting."

Of course the jars are breakable and slippery to handle.

WINTER-TIME JOB FOR MANY FARMERS

One of the most profitable ways a farmer can use the next couple of months is to clear grown-up bottomland to be used for improved pasture later, believes Lawrence Ennis, API Extension specialist in soil engineering.

He says that Alabama farmers have already cleared and put into profitable pastures many thousands of idle acres. They are now contributing greatly to Alabama's beef and cattle programs.

Getting Around with Mac Brown

Things usually are pretty quiet in our neighborhood but last week-end it was different. The family next door married off their daughter. The wedding was at church. but there was a reception at home, and that was the cause of most of the fuss.

Saturday they had a big house-cleaning over there. They even had the maid come out and wash down the front porch and steps with the hose. Seeing all that being done to pretty up the place made me feel guilty, so I finally raked up the leaves in our front yard I didn't want the guests to think the bride lived next to a bunch of bums My work had a pay-off, though, because there was so much cake and nuts and punch left that a lot of it wound up in our refrigerator. It was mighty good.

While all the getting-ready was going on Saturday, the mother and four year old sister were all over the place with their hair up in curlers. The little sister was thrilled through and through with her flower girl role.

All day Saturday deliveries were being made at the house: flowers from the florist, the cake from the bakery, and so on. Everything was delivered by truck, and I took satisfaction in seeing again what a big part trucks play in all the events of our lives. You can't even get married and do it up right without using the services of trucks.

PEOPLE OF THE NORTH country hated Corp. Steve Brandt. They hated him because he was hard and cruel and severe, because he abided by the law to the letter, because he was relentless and ruthless and blind to all else but the accomplishment of his duty. And none was more aware of this hatred than Corp. Brandt himself.

He thought of it now as he swung his dog team down the embankment and onto the frozen bed of the river. The river stretched ahead of him for endless miles, a broad and crazily winding highway penetrating the bleak and frozen fastnesses of the Northland. Somewhere in that remote and desolate wilderness a man was fleeing from the law. And the fact that Corp. Brandt was the cause of the man's being there was the one great regret of his life; the fact that he was now in search of him was joyful compensation. Strange? Yes, but there are odd circumstances surrounding this situation. A man had been killed at MacDougal's post, and one Enoch Vaughn was accused of the crime. Steve Brandt had come upon Vaughn bending over the corpse and holding a bloody knife in his hand. The policeman had accused him, and Vaughn, frightened, had fled. It was not until two hours later that the note had been found, signed by the murdered man, which stated he had taken his own life.

The people at MacDougal's had cursed Brandt for his hasty reasoning. And Brandt had set out after the fleeing Vaughn. Not because he was afraid of the people's wrath, but because he felt it his duty. Never had he failed in his duty, and now that he had committed the first gross error of his career, he was still conscientious about fulfilling this new assignment.

Driving his dogs over the river's frozen surface at top speed, the officer knew a certain curious feeling of exultation. For the first time in his life he was on an errand of mercy. Strangely, it was uplifting. The bitterness that had lain for long in his soul as a result of the hatred of the people he served was suddenly banished. This, he told himself, would right the wrong, would establish him once and for all in their good graces; win their amity.

There was a certain desperation in Corporal Brandt's eyes as he lashed out at the dogs, a disturbing fear in his heart, for if he failed to overtake the fugitive the wrong he had done would ever burden his conscience.

Ten miles farther north, Brandt left the river bed and began a zigzag course across country. An hour later he picked up the single snowshoe tracks of a man. A great sense of relief stole over him. There was no doubt that the imprints had been made by Vaughn. The owner of them was traveling light and fast, heading as an arrow for the wild, broken country north of Bascom's ledge. Vaughn's brother had a cabin somewhere up there.

Brandt whipped his dogs into a fast pace, yet, despite the speed with which they covered the ground, darkness settled down and the fugitive was still far ahead. Reluctantly Brandt made camp. It would be impossible to follow the tracks in the darkness, and he knew that Vaughn would keep going all night.

He was up at the crack of dawn and on the trail. Before noon he found evidence that the fleeing man had stopped to rest, and the snowshoe prints showed that he was tiring, that his pace was slower.

The policeman pushed on. By mid-afternoon the light of anticipation glowed in his eyes. Vaughn could not be more than a mile ahead now. It occurred to the officer as being strange that the fugitive had slowed his pace so great a degree. But the thought only flashed into his mind and was instantly gone.

His advance became more cautious now, for he remembered that Vaughn thought himself to be a hunted man, and was therefore desperate. Instead of following the snowshoe imprints, he cut off to the right, swung north again and went ahead on a parallel course. The dogs were close to exhaustion but Brandt drove them ahead without mercy.

An hour before darkness he cut back to the left, slowed his pace and presently came again upon the tracks of the fugitive. Ten feet away he saw signs that told how Vaughn had fallen and lay for some time without rising. Brandt puckered his brow, spoke softly to the dogs. They went ahead and the policeman followed at some distance, senses attuned to catch the first unnatural sight or sound.

Abruptly the dogs stopped. Brandt stepped quickly behind a tree and waited. After a moment he appeared around its base, and what he saw sent him out into the open without fear or caution.

A dozen feet ahead of the panting dogs a figure lay huddled and crumpled in the snow. Brandt stooped over it, lifted its head and looked down into its face. And then a terrible fear clutched at his heart. The figure was that of Enoch Vaughn. But Enoch Vaughn was dead.

Brandt stood like a stone image. He understood now why the fugitive had slowed his pace so noticeably. His escape from MacDougal's had necessitated speed. There had been no time to equip himself with food or extra clothing. He had fled in a panic of fear. And the cruel northern climate had claimed him for its victim. Without food he had weakened fast. Not daring to stop and kindle a fire and rest he had pushed ahead in the bare hope of reaching his brother's cabin.

Corp. Brandt turned away. This was the result of his one deed of mercy, the one opportunity to break down the barrier of hatred that had embittered his heart. In his mind's eye he could see the people at MacDougal's, hear their voices. This, for him, was also the end.

Science Quiz

Q: What are "rare earths"?

A: Chemical elements of numbers 57 to 71 in the list of elements. They are not very rare, but because of chemical similarity it is difficult to separate them. As a result, their production and study is rather limited.

Q: How does a sextant work?

A: A sextant has a pair of mirrors, one fixed and the other movable. As the user looks through a small telescope, he adjusts the movable mirror until the image of a heavenly body is apparently brought into contact with the horizon. Then he can read from a graduated scale, the height of the object above the horizon in degrees of arc. With the aid of special tables and the exact time, he determines latitude and longitude after finding the heights of certain heavenly bodies.

Q: How do eyeglasses correct defects of the eye?

A: When lens of the eye is farsighted, which means that it cannot be curved enough to focus nearby objects clearly, a convex (magnifying) lens gives the effect of additional curvature. Near-sightedness requires a concave (reducing) lens, for the curvature of the lens of the eye is then too much. In astigmatism the eye lens cannot focus vertical and horizontal lines sharply at the same time. This is corrected by a "cylindrical" lens, which is curved more along one diameter than along another.

Q: Is it true that the prehistoric dinosaurs had very small brains?

A: Yes. The bigger an animal the smaller usually is the weight of the brain expressed in ratio with the total weight. In a 75-pound sheep the 3.5-ounce brain is about a third of a per cent of the total, but the ten-pound brain of a six-ton elephant is only a tenth of a per cent. The dinosaurs did not even do as well as this. The one called Stegosaurus weighed as much as an elephant, yet had a brain as big as that of a small kitten. His brain was only a slight swelling at one end of his spinal cord.

Good Year Is Foreseen For Local Grassland Farming

It looks like another big year for grassland farming in 1952 for cooperators of the North Central Soil Conservation District. Development of improved pastures has continued to hold a high place in the long list of conservation practices. During the first eleven months of 1952 the farmers cooperating with the District treated 1772 acres of grazing and hay land, bringing the total of improved pastures to 13,259 acres.

Probably the greatest lesson learned during the extremely dry year was the importance of having an adequate acreage of drought resistant perennials such as Sericea, kudzu, bermuda, fescue and bahia grass. On the following farms these were the only crops that provided grazing or hay during the prolonged dry weather: C. R. Childress, Cleve Mims, Dewey Collins, Charlie Patterson, R. O. Williams, W. A. Williams, Lloyd Mims, Charles Robinson, C. C. Fiquette, Leon Mims, Joe Smith, S. D. Posey, Joe Gibson, B. F. Rasberry, R. P. Shelton, Sam Johnson, Tom Childress, Hunter Rasco and a number of others. As a result, the acreage of these crops are expected to be greatly increased during 1953.

Thirty-three farmers have made application for 1895 bushels of Coastal Bermuda. All the Sericea seed that were worth harvesting are harvested. Over 200 pounds of kudzu seed have been ordered (enough to plant 65 acres), and in addition, the acreage of kudzu to be set by crowns will be greatly increased. Several farmers have stated that they plan to plant Common Bermuda seed and overseed with a reseeding legume. Two hundred and eighty-three acres of fescue and white clover have been seeded in natural draws and on low-land to insure grazing from frost until the annual crops are up large enough to graze.

The small grain acreage has increased and will be used as a hay and grain to stretch the low corn yield caused by last summer's drought. There is no doubt that the acres of applied conservation in 1953 will exceed all previous years, providing the planting materials are available.

Chilton County farmers have a large conservation job ahead in applying the needed conservation of putting each acre of land within it's capabilities, and treating that acre according to it's needs for protection and improvement.

Once the smooth land is in a good rotation, the rough, rolling or unsuited cropland is sodded and good cattle to graze these acreages; the timberland with a stand of desirable trees protected from fire and excessive cutting, Chilton County farmers will enjoy a yield several times larger than the largest ever recorded.

Conservation is the informed, conscientious management of resources. It is development as well as protection. It is use as well as saving.

As sane and responsible people, we should subscribe to the creed of a Nigerian Chieftain who said: "I conceive that the land belongs to a vast family, of which many are dead, few are living, and countless numbers are still unborn"—The Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter.

FARMERS MARKET
1952 PECAN CROP

Movement of this year's pecan crop is nearing its peak, reports A. W. Jones, API Extensino marketing specialist.

Records show that the national crop of about 126 million pounds is nearly one-fifth below last year's crop, but it is slightly above average.

Jones explained that the dry weather last summer reduced the size of the crop but helped control insects and diseases. As a result, smaller but good quality pecans are going to market.

Prices to growers so far this year have ranged from 23 cents to 28 cents per pound for Stewarts and other improved varieties.

Poplar Springs

If you wasn't at Sunday School Sunday you missed a good service. Start making plans today to be present next Sunday for Sunday School and worship service. Also next Sunday we will draw names for Christmas.

Our Training Union program was real good as will be the one next Sunday night. So be sure to come.

We didn't have a large crowd at prayer service last Wednesday night, but I'm sure each one who came received a great blessing.

There were eight ladies present for our Week of Prayer program at Mrs. Esther Childress' home last Wednesday. All enjoyed the program, and I trust that each one's heart will be burdened and will do more praying and helping in every way that the missionaries in each of these countries might have power to do more for our Master and win the lost to Christ. We can't all go as missionaries, but we can stand by the ones who can go with our prayers and money.

Remember all the sick of our community and elsewhere in your prayers. Also pray for all the boys in service. We are so happy to hear they are looking for Sgt. James Wells home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerrell Miller and children visited Mrs. Miller's mother and family in Maple Springs community Sunday.

Misses Martha Sue and Elaine Miller spent Sunday with Dorothy Ann and Wylene Hill.

We are looking for each of you at church Sunday and at all our services.

Let's find and fill our places each time the church doors are opened — Reporter.

All-Night Singing At Maplesville

The Maplesville High School is going to bring one of Loy McCormick's most popular groups of gospel singers to this city Thursday night, December 18th, for a big all-night singing.

The talent will include the Homeland Harmony Quartet, led by Connor B. Hall, the popular tenor singer whose group records for Bibletone records of New York.

The Homeland is a popular group of singers from Atlanta, Ga., who broadcast daily over some of the nation's largest radio stations and are heard regularly on programs promoted by Mr. McCormick.

Proceeds from the tickets to the concert will be used by the class for projects they have in mind during the year. Tickets may be obtained by contacting any member of the Maplesville senior class.

HIGHLAND

Attendance for Sunday School and Training Union was about average this week. Those who missed Training Union really missed a wonderful lesson. As we enter the Christmas season we think of "Peace on Earth" and our lesson was dealing with peace. We can realize more fully the way to have this peace on earth is for each one of us to turn to God and fine peace within our own hearts and then we will surely have this "Peace on Earth."

Let's continue to pray for our sick ones, especially Mrs. Weldon and Mr. Coody who are still in the hospital and there are others too who are not able to attend church.

Prayer service will be held Thursday night (tonight) at 7 o'clock. Please come.

The W.M.U. will meet at the church on Wednesday afternoon, December 17th, at 1:30 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend.

Plans for our Christmas program are progressing nicely. We ask each one who has a part to please cooperate and come to practice at the announced times. We plan to have our program Christmas Eve night. Definite time will be announced later.

Everyone make a special effort to attend Sunday School and Training Union next Sunday and Sunday night. Our pastor, Bro. Deason, will be with us for worship service following Sunday School and T. U. You will always find a hearty welcome to worship with us.

Milk Production Good Cash Income

This year, total milk production in the United States is down at least one percent below last year's production, and there are fewer cows than at any time since 1928.

While milk production and dairy cow numbers have dropped for two years, our population has been steadily going up. Our national milk supply per person is now much less than it was ten years ago. Compared to the pre-war years of 1935-1939, milk production has increased only eleven percent. During the same period, farmers produced one hundred and four percent more poultry products, eighty-one percent more food grains, forty-eight percent more meat animals and thirty-three percent more cotton.

With only an eleven percent increase in milk production, there are twenty percent more people to feed. This should indicate that milk is in a very secure position as compared to other food products.

It seems that farmers have a real opportunity to choose a farm enterprize that will be sound and dependable for the years ahead. There is no reason to doubt that a farm family who is willing to produce home grown feed and milk "better than ordinary" cows can do better than just "make a living."

Temple Church

Our services Sunday morning and Sunday night were really good. Bro. Helms brought two wonderful messages. Three sisters were saved Sunday night. We invite all our friends to attend our services whenever possible.

Next Sunday night our District superintendent, Bro. T. H. Spence, will be with us. We give everyone a cordial invitation to come and hear him. I am sure his message will bless your hearts.

A group of the W.M.C.S. attended a meeting at the Faith Tabernacle in Montgomery Tuesday. Sister E. G. McNight, the State President, was the speaker.

The chili supper which was given by the Young Women's Council Monday night was a big success. There were about 40 there and every one enjoyed it.

Don't forget that the December C.A. Rally will be held at the Faith Tabernacle in Montgomery. These sectional rallies are held the third Friday night in each month. Our C.A. class got the sectional banner at the last rally so let's work hard and keep it. — Reporter.

Winners of 4-H Crop Awards

RNATIONAL HARVESTER

National winners of the 1952 4-H Field Crops program, of which International Harvester Company is the donor of awards, hear John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester, explain the importance of harvesting machine progress.

Inspecting a miniature replica of an 1878 McCormick hand-binding harvester, left to right, are: Jeff M. Beasley, 18, Gadsden, Ala.; John M. Sparks, 17, Phoenix, Ariz.; James L. Mosser, 20, Fortuna, N. D.; Roger D. Hagan, 18, Statesboro, Ga.; Mr. McCaffrey; Ronald L. Kouplen, 18, Beggs, Okla.; and Stanley H. Warner, 21, Great Falls, Mont.

These six young men each won an all-expense trip to the 31st national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago and a $300 International Harvester scholarship, acceptable at any accredited agricultural college.

The purpose of the Field Crops awards program is to encourage 4-H members to achieve the following:

1. To acquire a better knowledge and develop skills in good farming practices relating to field crop production.
2. To assist in increasing the economic per acre production of food, feed and fiber crops.
3. To demonstrate improved practices, particularly those relating to use and maintenance of farm machinery used in field crops production.
4. To increase supplies of certified seed, both for use on the home farm and for sale in the community.
5. To practice efficient methods of field crops production by: Careful selection of seed; use of better crop production methods; and most proficient use of available farm machinery.

Jeff Beasley has specialized in growing corn, legumes and cotton. John Sparks grows hegari on irrigated land. James Mosser's crops are wheat, oats, barley and flax. Roger Hagan grows cotton, peanuts, corn and tobacco. Ronald Kouplen's crops are corn, oats and cotton, while Stanley Warner has concentrated on growing wheat.

Commenting on their accomplishments, Mr. McCaffrey said: "One of the reasons we at Harvester so much enjoy being with you is that you young folks here have already demonstrated outstanding ability and determination and are now looking ahead to new aspirations and new objectives. In addition, you represent more than 2,000,000 4-H'ers back home who will also go on to bigger things and larger responsibilities.

"I fervently trust—and am confident it will be so—that many of you in 4-H who continue on the farm in adult life will also continue active in 4-H as adult leaders in your community. That is the effective way to carry on the good work — the way many of your parents are doing it, parents who were themselves members of 4-H."

Mulberry Church—

We had a fair crowd of our people at church on Wednesday night for Family Night. We would like for others to join us in our organizations. The Young People will have a Christmas social in the church basement on Wednesday, December 17th, immediately after prayer service. Each person will bring a small gift. All our young people are invited to be with us. You may bring some fruit, nuts or candy to serve as refreshments. Come and all enjoy a good social together. The gifts will be given to the community chest in Clanton.

The Bazaar was a success last Saturday in Maplesville. We want to take this opportunity to thank each one who had a part in making it successful.

The Young People will have a Christmas Program at the church on Sunday, December 21st, at 6:00 p.m. An offering will be given for the Orphanage at Troy.

Bro. Jones is bringing us some wonderful messages on Sunday morning on the series. He is using the names of Jesus as his text taken from the ninth chapter of Isaiah.

Sunday night his sermon was very inspirational. He used as his text, "Our Militant Foe."

We want you to enjoy reading good books. We have them in our library. Check them out and read them.

The ones who missed service on Wednesday night before Thanksgiving, missed a treat. The service was good and the Thanksgiving decorations in the church were beautiful and carried out the idea of a good Thanksgiving.

Isabella Church—

Sunday School was about as usual Sunday. Next Sunday will be the regular preaching day, with the pastor, Rev. G. B. Golden, doing the preaching.

The Jr. Class was sorry their teacher, Mrs. Jessie Summers, and Janice Ratliff were absent Sunday. Mrs. Robert Latham taught the class. A Christmas program was planned. Names were drawn to exchange Christmas gifts, probably at a social on Saturday night, December 20. The class sang, "Silent Night" and repeated Bible verses after the lesson was taught.

Personals—

Mr. McPherson, former teacher of Isabella, visited in our community Sunday. He attended service at Mulberry Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Erskin Summers of Birmingham were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Summers, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morris and children of Birmingham were week end guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. Emma Manning, and Uncle T. L. Lecroy.

Mrs. J. H. Eady of Bibb County, Mr. Malcolm Eady and Miss Helen Howard, of Bessemer, and Mr. and Mrs. Coy Rasberry, of Macedonia Community, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jones.

This is good for one of our young men. We learned that Sonny Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Summers, did not lose a single day working in a year. He works seven days a week carrying mail from the depots in Maplesville to the Post Office. He is going on his second year. We hope he can keep this record.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lecroy and children and Mrs. Roebuck, Mrs. Lecroy's mother, all of Savannah, Ga., were week end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lecroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Manning of Pates Chapel Community were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. White and Mitchell.

Mrs. Maggie Summers was Sunday guest of the Middlebrooks.

Mr. Denson Conway is ill with erysepelas in his face. He is in Central Alabama Hospital. He is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Williams of Tallahassee, Fla., visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ratliff, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jones and children of Birmingham were week end guests of their parents here Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Veasey, Randall and Kenneth, spent Saturday night and Sunday with friends, Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel, in Birmingham.

Although there was considerable loneliness on the Alabama frontier, there were also bright spots in the pioneer's life. A house-raising, corn-husking, or log-rolling gave opportunity for men and boys to develop their skill, compete with one another, and enjoy companionship.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

—By Bee

Hearty congratulations to those our fine young men from Verbena High School who placed on the All State Post-Herald Football Team. Ray Wingard and Homer Robinson made the First Team and Pierce and Burkhalter were named on the Second Team. All members of the Verbena team are to be congratulated on their fine record hrough the past three years of play. Too, those coaches are due lot of praise for a job well done.

Gov. Persons has appointed T. W. Bryan ex-officio Justice of the Peace in Beat 4, Chilton County. Mr. Bryan is maintaining his office t his home on Route 2, Clanton.

Christmas programs at all the hurches next Sunday night. If you ad time to visit all the churches hat are presenting their Christmas rograms on that day we are sure ou would get a pretty good idea f the vast talent ,that we have our little city.

By a story printed today in our avorite newspaper we get the idea hat the Christmas Chest needs hat the old saw always says about he political party. "Now is the me for all good men to come to e aid of their Christmas Chest." f course a lot of money has been ollected that has not been turned to the treasurer yet. The names ublished are just the ones who ave donated and their names reorted.

Looks like Representative Armiead Selden is getting off on the ght foot in Washington so far as hilton County is concerned. He ppeared before a committee hearg on the gas rate increase the st week and reports are that he d us some good. That will make e boy a lot of friends hereabout.

Very sorry to learn of the hostalization of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. uss. Both have been missed a t already and we surely hope that th are able to be up and back circulation before too many days.

Comes a most appreciated note om Mrs. Delos Culp who asked us wish all the many friends of the elos Culps a Merry Christmas for em. Delos has been in Washingn, D.C., where he has been atnding a committee meeting of the merican Association of School Adinistrators. We are sure friends the Culps wish for them also the ry best of everything throughout coming year.

Leo Thompson is always thinking new ways to take you to the aners. Well now he has installed new system whereby your suit ways has that just bought look. In t, the system is called the "Sta-" process. No matter how old ur suit is when it is returned m the Clanton Laundry & Clean- Company it still looks and feels t like new. Now in a case like t, one doesn't mine being taken the cleaners, does one?

A fellow was charged with being nk the other day. When a wit- s was asked how he knew the soner was drunk, he answered: ou know that clock up over the r at Peoples Savings Bank? ell, he was standing on the curb front of the bank and dropped a ny in the parking meter there l looked up at the clock and uted: 'My gosh, I've lost fifn pounds.' "

We think Mr. and Mrs. W. D. cutt out at Hocutt's Electric re, and dozens and dozens of er good people, are due a vote gratitude from the parents of county for the wonderful serv- contributed by these fine people the children of our county. Each ek-day except Saturday their ces of business are over-run with ool children awaiting school es to carry them to school and good store keepers offer them uge from the cold and the rain. ey wait on them, clean up after m, humor them, and are always ng out of their way to please m. We think they contribute a nkless service and are to be comnded for their interest in our ldren.

Representative-Elect Appears Before FPC In Regard To The Proposed 35% Gas Rate Hike

Armistead I. Selden, Jr., new United States Congressman from the Sixth District, voiced a stirring protest in Washington, D.C., last week against raising the rates on natural gas in Clanton.

Rep.-Elect Selden appeared before the Federal Power Commission to state Clanton's opposition to a proposed 35% gas rate increase which the Transcontinental Pipe Line Corporation has asked permission to put into effect.

"The City of Clanton, Alabama," Selden told the Commission, "will be vitally and seriously affected by this proposed increase in gas rates. As Congressman of the Sixth Congressional District, I would like to take this opportunity to appear in person at this hearing to protest the rate increase proposed by the Transcontinental Pipe Line Corporation."

Rep.-Elect Selden went on to explain how Clanton has converted its heating system to natural gas, financing it by a bond issue based on the present gas rate.

"An increase of 35%," he said, "would seriously affect the people, the industries and the financial structure of that city."

"The gas rate of the city of Clanton is at the resent time much higher than the rate of numerous cities of similar size in the State of Alabama. An additional increase would, in my opinion, be extremely unfair, and it is my sincere hope that the request of the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation for this increase will be refused."

Shortly after Rep.-Elect Selden's testimony, the Federal Power Commission concluded the gas rate hearings for that day. Further hearings are scheduled for a later date.

ARMISTEAD I. SELDEN, JR.

FALL BREEDING IS ONE KEY TO GOOD DAIRYING

Auburn, Ala.—Efficient milk production is every dairy farmer's [illegible] in Alabama. And efficient production means more money in the bank.

Pete Turnham, API Extension dairyman, says one good way to increase dairy income is to breed dairy cows so they will freshen in the fall. He points out that fall freshening cows produce more milk.

Cows that drop a calf in the spring are bothered by flies and other insects. Also, these cows will be at the peak of milk production when pastures start getting dry and unpalatable. On the other hand, fall freshening cows will be near the end of their production period at this time, and adverse heat won't bother them.

Clean alfalfa seed will be in abundant supply for 1953 plantings, according to current estimates of the crop.

KINGS AND QUEENS OF THOMAS JUNIOR

Contributions Are Lagging In County Christmas Chest Drive

Contributors had better be up and on the ball if they want the 1952 Chilton County Christmas Chest to "Go Over The Top," as it has done for the past several years since it's organization.

To date only $282.00 has been reported in by the collecting committees although it is upon good authority that much more has been collected but unreported until the territory allotted the various committees has been worked out.

Regardless, only one day is left to get your contribution in and it is more needed this year than ever before. Some five-hundred adult and children were made happy last year by the Chilton County Chest and even more are looking forward to your contribution this year to help them enjoy Christmas.

FARMING ABILITY PAYS OFF FOR MAPLESVILLE YOUTH RECENTLY

Thomas Chapman's farming and leadership abilities in the Maplesville FFA chapter recently paid off in a purebred Hereford heifer calf Thomas received the calf from Russ Shelton, head of the Shelton Truck & Tractor Company of Clanton, for being the outstanding member of his chapter. The award was made at the Chilton County Livestock Show

Currently a senior II student at Maplesville High School, Thomas was winner of his chapter's public speaking contest last year. He is presently an FFA officer, senior class president, Beta Club Officer and a member of the varsity football squad.

The first offspring of the calf that Thomas has received will be returned to the Chilton County FFA Association for placement with another FFA member. Mr. Shelton, who presented the award, plans to contribute a calf each year for the next four years.

Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Chapman of Lawley

DOES YOUR SCHOOL NEED SOMETHING?

If you feel that your school is lacking in some of the facilities it needs, you are probably right. You can be consoled over the fact that many others share this feeling with you. Let's take a brief look at some of the needs in Chilton County at the present moment. This list is based on requests and recommendations made by people in the various communities; none of the requests and recommendations have been unreasonable in view of the needs. Following is a part of the needs TODAY in Chilton County Schools:

24 Classrooms
1 auditorium
8 auditorium-gymnasium combinations
3 gymnasiums
22 sets sanitary toilets

If you are interested in the kind of money needs reresent, you might do some figuring with the following estimated costs:

Classrooms — $6,000 each
Auditoriums — from $50,000 to $90,000 each
Aud.-gym. combinations $50,000 each.
Gymnasiums — $40,000 each.
Sanitary toilets — average $5,000 per set, depending on sewage and water conditions.

Along with these individual school building needs we must remember an immediate need for replacing 31 school buses at approximately $3,000 each.

A sad part of the story is that there is no definite, systematic provision for taking care of these needs.

POPULATION INCREASE

There will be an additional 50 million persons to feed in the U.S. by 1975, present population trends indicate.

EDUCATION IS YOUR BUSINESS

Sentiment is a wonderful thing and vets can get as nostalgic as the next guy about the little red school house of their youth. But it takes more than Dad's fond memories to give Junior the schooling he needs. If our modern youngsters are to have a modern education, we've got to look forward instead of backward.

For one thing, the little red school house is bulging at the seams. We've had a bumper crop of youngsters in the past ten years, ready or almost ready for school. But what with one national emergency after another we're far behind on new construction, and even on the maintenance and repair of existing school facilities.

Right now, according to the U. S. Office of Education, we're lagging to the tune of some 315,000 new classrooms and 150.000 new teachers. Meanwhile. this year, alone, more than 1,700,000 more children are knocking at the school doors.

But that's not all. Just when it's so important for our youngsters to get ENOUGH of the right KIND of schooling, some shortsighted folks are bearing down on school budgets — trying to cut out the most valuable parts of the modern program.

They make it sound pretty enough. They cry, "Go back to the 3R's!" In other words, our schools should teach only reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. But do you veterans with your wide travelling, your interest in peoples in foreign lands, in new sciences and international politics think that's enough for today's boys and girls? Not by a long shot.

Now the 3R's are essential, of course. A youngster certainly can't get anywhere without them. But the truth is, he can't go very far today, if that's ALL he knows. In this fast-moving, closely-knit world, at least three new "R's" must be taught: Rights, responsibilities and human relations. Our young citizens must learn to exercise and defend their democratic rights; to accept community responsibilities; to understand and appreciate folks of other races, creeds, and nations — to work with them to build a future secure for everyone.

That kind of training takes place only in the best of schools—with up-to-date facilities, top-notch teachers and a full, modern program of education. Pinching pennies on school budgets won't fill this bill.

Giving our children the kind of education they need and deserve is not a problem for parents alone — or teachers alone — or school boards alone. It's a national problem. And it can be solved only by nationwide citizen action. — The Alabama Legionnaire.

FOULING THE NEST

Some Alabamians are putting tags on their automobiles reading "Alabama—A Tax Happy State." The inference, of course, is that taxes are higher in Alabama than elsewhere, which is completely erroneous.

Alabama citizens are "tax-happy" in the same sense that a befuddled prize fighter is "slap-happy"—not because of our state taxes but because of our federal taxes. The federal government now gets 87 per cent of the total tax take. From the remaining 13 per cent, our state and local governments have to operate our schools, furnish police and fire protection, provide most of our highways funds, finance most of our courts—in fact, provide the vast majority of government services that we require in our daily life. True, the federal government returns a small percentage of what they collect to the states in the form of grants but . . . what we get back in proportion to what we put in is a mere trifle.

It would be bad enough for these Alabamians to put such tags on their automobiles if the automobiles never left the state. When they do leave the state, or when they are seen by visitors, these tags tend to discourage new business enterprises from coming here and helping us develop Alabama. A person who puts one of these tags on his automobile and then travels, reminds me of a bird which carelessly and unnecessarily fouls his own nest. — The Avondale Sun.

Protect Heating Lamps From Breakage

Auburn, Ala. — Infrared heat lamps are coming into wide use on Alabama farms for brooding chicks, pigs, and turkeys.

William T. Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings, warns that these lamps can be dangerous if they are not properly protected against breakage.

The 250 watt R40 lamp is the one most commonly used on farms. These lamps can be obtained in either hard glass or regular glass. The hard glass lamp will not break as easily as the regular lamp, but it costs about three times as much.

Cox states that the higher cost of the hard glass lamps has limited their use, but they are safer.

Board Of Directors Alabama Press Meets

Talladega, Ala. — Members of the board of directors of the Alabama Press Association Saturday adopted recommendations to make to the association's membership for the guidance of the APA's legislative program and to establish a contest plan for the members.

Included in the meeting was a review of the past year's work of the APA and discussion of plans for the association's annual convention January 22, 23, and 24 in Birmingham. Steps were taken by the board towards building a great and better School of Journalism at the Uiversity of Alabama.

The legislative policy recommendations adopted by the board of directors, to be submitted to the members in their annual convention, would put the association on record as opposing any restrictive measures on freedom of the press or freedom of information, as favoring the enactment of legislation to insure more complete and accurate knowledge of public information, as opposing restrictions on appropriate advertising of materials or services legally offered for sale or hire and refraining from supporting legislation which would give special privilege or gain to the newspapers of Alabama without rendering a distinct and beneficial public service.

The contest plan approved by the directors, to be reviewed by the APA members in convention, would establish classes of competition to reward weekly newspapers doing outstanding work in specific fields.

Following the acceptance of a report by the APA's committee on journalism instructions, the directors pledged the organization to work with the University of Alabama in bringing about improvements in the journalism training now offered at the University.

Cecil Hornady, president of the APA, presided at the meeting. The APA directors and their wives concluded their meeting with a banquet at the Purefoy hotel.

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

MORE ABOUT COLDS

Going to bed for a day early in the course of a cold, to permit recuperation, may prevent many of the serious complications of the common cold. So says Dr. Noah D. Fabricant, ear, nose and throat specialist of Chicago, in a recent issue of TODAY'S HEALTH.

The common cold is the most infectious of all communicable diseases, and yet it is often ignored because of the widespread belief that nothing much can be done about it. "While colds are rarely a direct cause of death, they may precede or incite such serious infections as bacterial pneumonia, meningitis and sub-acute bacterial endocarditis (a serious heart disease)". Other more common complications of colds include sinusitis, middle ear infection, tonsillitis, paryngitis, laryngitis, tracheitis and bronchitis.

Infections of the respiratory tract cause more lost time from industry than all other diseases combined. Colds, alone, represent an annual collective economic loss of two billion dollars. The article stated that doctors believe many head colds are first caused by a virus, with bacteria producing the more unpleasant familiar symptoms that appear as the infection progresses.

The use of antibiotics and sulfonamides in the treatment of the complications of colds has proved successful, the article reported. It was stressed, however, that many well-controlled studies at leading medical centers have proved conclusively that antihistaminic drugs do not prevent, shorten or cure the common cold. Claims to prevent colds by means of oral or other vaccines rest on foundations just as shaky as those of the anti-histaminic drugs.

Predisposing causes of colds include chilling, exposure to pronounced changes in weather, lack of sleep, physical fatigue, worry and anxiety, irritating dusts and gases, overindulgence in food or drink, dietary indiscretions, allergies and physical excesses.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

This has been a busy week around our house. Besides the bustle of getting ready for Christmas (I've hardly gotten beyond the making-out-a-list stage), we've had a birthday; the five-year-old is now a big girl of six.

Six is a mighty grown-up, important age, and birthday parties, even small ones with just the children in the block as guests, are exciting, but no birthday can possibly compare with the thrill of Christmas.

The six-year-old made up her mind weeks ago that she wanted a Toni doll and skates (the big girl kind that have clamps, not the baby kind with straps across the toes) for Christmas. But the three-year-old's requests are something else again. Here's the note he dictated to Santa Claus:

"What I really want is you and your reindeer, but if I can't have that, just bring me a spider or a mouse."

Heaven forbid!

Our Christmas presents are usually wrapped hurriedly at the last minute in whatever kind of covering is at hand, and they look it too, but our next door neighbor always turns out gift wrappings that are pure works of art. She could take some old rusty razor blades and wrap them up so pretty you'd be glad to get them.

We could never hope to copy her elaborate wrappings, but she uses some simple tricks which we plan to borrow.

For instance, she used empty soup cans to hold the good sugared nuts she gave friends in the neighborhood. After she had soaked off the labels, she decorated the cans with Christmas seals or stickers. Then she put each can in the center of a square of cellophane, pulled the corners of the paper above the top of the can and tied them with a festive bow.

She saved the colored comic sections from the Sunday papers and used them to wrap the gifts for the youngsters on her list. She stuck lollipops into the bows of some of the packages and decorated others with "corsages" of bubble gum.

She had another good gift idea when she wrapped shakers of garlic salt, celery salt and onion salt in tissue paper and then tied them all in a red bandanna handerchief, hobo type, with a stick of peppermint candy thrust through the knot.

Our neighbor down the street used a big bottle to make a tree to use as the centerpiece on her dining table, and quite a fine tree it made too.

She covered the bottle with modeling clay about a quarter of an inch deep and stuck twigs of evergreen into the clay before it hardened. By using the longest twigs at the bottom of the bottle and decreasing the size as she worked toward the top, she turned out a perfectly shaped tree.

For decorations she used bows tied from pieces of ribbons saved from last Christmas.

If you've made sugar cookies, put a batch of them into a gold paper cone and hang it on your front door against a pine bough. Callers will enjoy munching a cookie while they wait for you to open the door for them.

Lutheran Church News—

The Service 11:00; Sunday School 10:00. Visitors welcome.

What does Christmas mean to you? If you were to answer that question honestly, what would your answer be? Would it be in terms of Santa Claus, toys, fruit cake, etc.? Unfortunately that seems to be all that Christmas means to multitudes of people today. Children know all about a fictitious Santa Claus but practically nothing about the Babe of Bethlehem. Toys and Christmas dinner seem to blot out all reverence and devotion on that day.

There should be a change in our thinking and our conduct about this most Holy Occasion. There should be far less commercialism and more prayer and worship on Christmas. With so many of our youth on the bleak hillsides of Korea, we have no time for frivolities.

Let the Christmas Child come into your hearts and lives. Accept Him as your personal Saviour so that this Christmas will be the most meaningful day in your life.

Christmas Eve service will be held at the church at 11 o'clock on the evening of December 24th, and will end at midnight. The public is cordially invited.

There will be some special Christmas music on next Sunday morning and guest soloist will be Mrs. Thos. G. Rogers. You are invited to attend this pre-Christmas service.

You are especially invited to attend the Christmas Eve service which will start at 11:00 p.m. and will last until the stroke of midnight. This service will be largely Christmas music, and Pastor Morgan will also deliver the Christmas message. Special music will be enjoyed and will be furnished by Mrs. Erle Ellis of Clanton, Miss Sue Bratton of Jemison and others. Miss Naemi Turnquist will be at the console of the organ.

Mrs. N. C. Petersen and Shirley, Miss Alma Lefstead, Mrs. Marie Reagan and Miss Naemi Turnquist attended a concert at Palmer Hall in Montevallo on last Saturday night, when the college chorus and chorale presented Handel's Messiah. It was indeed an enjoyable event. Our Miss Sue Bratton of Jemison sang in the chorus.

Mr. James Nelson returned from the hospital Sunday afternoon. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nelson. James has been in the hospital about three weeks undergoing treatments, and we hope that he is well on his way to recovery.

Girl Scouts—

The Girl Scouts met at 3:00 p.m. at the fellowship room of the Congregational Church. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Betty Sue Vines. The minutes were read and approved, and the roll was called by Mrs. C. J. Turner.

The hike had to be postponed because of the weather was too cold. We decided to have the hike Monday at 1:30 p.m., if the weather is suitable. We sang some songs. The Boy Scouts came and wanted a donation on the Chilton County Christmas Chest and we decided to give them $1.00. Then we went to our patrols and paid our weekly dues. Then some went to pass some of their tenderfoot requirements. We had our sandwiches and cocoa and ten formed a circle and said our promise. — Lamerle Glass, Scribe.

It's Christmas Time—

What a wonderful feeling to share the Christmas spirit with those we love! To again experience the jolliness and merriment of Christmas! To think of the wonderful things of life that never change, the age-old promise of Christmas, the great love of God for mankind. Our thought should ever turn to God for the great gift of His Son to free the world of sin, a gift of love, a song of peace. "Fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people," a song the angels sang in the long ago. The message of Christmas tells of the promise of peace that shall be brought about when service and sacrifice, justice and love are supreme in the hearts of men—the high note in the songs of the angels was "Peace on Earth."

May the spirit of Christmas live and bring to the world kindness and understanding, laughter and peace to men. May all have the gladness of Christmas, which is hope, the Spirit of Christmas, which is peace, the heart of Christmas which is love.

Poole-Foshee Vows Said At Candlelight Ceremony

On Friday evening, November 28, at six o'clock, the marriage of Miss Peggy Ann Poole to Edgar E. Foshee was performed at a candlelight ceremony, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ruby Lockhart, of Clanton.

Mr. J. P. Poole of Mobile is Miss Poole's father. Mrs. Irene Foshee Garrett, of Taylorville, N. C., formerly of Clanton, is Mr. Foshee's mother.

Rev. R. E. Wilkins officiated at the ceremony which was performed before an altar of southern smilax, palms and burning white tapers in seven branched candelabra, tied with large bows of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. C. Delle Cobb presented a program of nuptial music.

Miss Poole was lovely in a grey suit, with navy accessories. She carried a white Bible, topped with a shower arrangements of pink camelias, and was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Billy Jean Poole, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor. She wore a blue suit with white carnations.

Mrs. June Estes, step-sister of the bride, was candle lighter.

Serving as best man for the groom was his brother, Mr. Luther Foshee, of Taylorville, N. C.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the home.

The table was covered with a cloth of fine lace and was centered with the bride's two-tiered white embossed wedding cake, encircled in maline puffs. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked by burning white tapers, also adorned with maline puffs and white satin ribbon runners, splashed with gladioli blossoms. On each corner of the table burning tapers held in white gladiolius blossoms, caught with satin ribbon runners sprinkled with gladioli blossoms, with the runners extending to the floor.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Jewel Vickery, and Mrs. J. P. Poole, who served punch of pastel green from a crystal bowl from a side table.

Mrs. Erskin Wyatt kept the bride's book.

Guests at the reception were members of the wedding party and members of the two families.

Mr. and Mrs. Foshee are at home in Taylorville, N. C., after a short wedding trip.

STORING CRANBERRIES IN HOME FREEZER

Families with home freezers may want to store some fresh cranberries for future use.

Cranberries freeze successfully, either dry-packed, sirup-packed, or as puree, explains Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist. Dry-packing is easy. Pick out berries that are soft or imperfect, wash the remainder, drain and place in moisture-vapor-resistant containers, seal and freeze. Leave one-half inch headspace in pint containers for expansion in freezing.

Everyone is invited to attend.

After a brief business meeting, the Garden Club of Clanton entertained with its annual Christmas tea.

Guests were received at the door by the hostess, Mrs. W. B. Eiland, the president, Mrs. John Higgins, and the secretary, Mrs. L. H. Bodden. They were invited into the living room to see the various Christmas arrangements. These gay and fastive arrangements were made by each of the club members and they were used in such places as doors, small tables, coffee table, mantel and television.

Guests were then asked into the dining room for refreshments. The table was beautiful in a bright red cloth with an effective candle arrangement for the centerpiece. Mrs. Ralph Morrison presided at the coffee table. Delicious cakes, sandwiches, nuts and mints were served.

TURN GARDEN NOW; EASIER WORK LATER

It's a good idea to plow the garden spot now and turn under all grass, weeds, and old plant refuse.

John Bagby, API Extension horticulturist, says this will give such material a chance to start decaying and make the soil much easier to prepare for crops next springs.

Do not burn off the plant growth before plowing," advises the specialist. Most soils in Alabama need the organic matter, which will be added if crop residues are turned under. If the grass is too tall to turn under with a plow, it may be disked or cut before plowing."

GOOD LAND USE MEANS LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION

On many Alabama farms there are areas of open land where row crops cannot be grown continuously without serious erosion damage.

'Many such areas have already eroded to the point where they are no longer fit for cultivation," declares S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist.

He adds that now is a good time to get such land ready for planting sericea, kudzu, and other sod crops to be grazed by livestock. When lipestock graze these soil-saving crops, meat is produced for sale but most of the plant food is returned to the soil.

Montgomery To Get Elephant

Montgomery, Ala. — The Montgomery State Highway Patrol District has received the white elephant which goes to the district with the most number of traffic deaths during the preceding month.

Meanwhile, the state's highway toll has mounted to 551 for the year, with the addition of 70 traffic deaths last month.

Although the November fatality score was short of the unprecedented 84 lives taken in June of this year, it was bloodier than the same month in 1951 and 61 were killed.

In addition to the 70 killed, a preliminary report from the State Highway Patrol listed 401 persons injured in the 825 accidents investigated by the patrol. The report doesn't include fatalities inside city limits, nor will it be complete while the condition of some injured remains in doubt.

However, the 551 highway deaths so far this year, and the 4,183 injuries were a drop over the score for the first 11 months of last year. Accidents took 639 lives over that period.

The symbolic white elephant was transferred to Montgomery from Decatur, where it had rested last month. It means Montgomery had the highest accident record, percentage-wise, of any of the patrol's four districts in November. The unwanted recognition is a toy white elephant mounted on a stand. It will stay here until some other district goes ahead of Montgomery for the month.

A more welcome award has gone to the Birmingham district. For having the safest record last month, that post will have an extra patrol car available throughout December. The Evergreen district had the car last month.

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT IS A FLAVOR TREAT

Auburn, Ala. — Broiling gives grapefruit a surprisingly mellow flavor.

Mary Hulsey, API Extension nutritionist, says it's easily prepared, too. Just sprinkle half a grapefruit with sugar and a dash of spice—cinnamon, mace, or nutmeg. Then dot with bits of table fat and broil 10 to 15 minutes with direct heat. The grapefruit should be placed on a broiler rack set three to four inches from the heat. When the grapefruit is just slightly browned and heated through, it is ready to serve.

Miss Hulsey reminds homemakers that honey is good with grapefruit also. Cut out the white center of the grapefruit, and fill the hole with straiend honey. Set the sweetened fruit in the refrigerator for a few hours so the honey can penetrate all parts of the fruit.

"Grapefruit, like other citrus fruits, is a source of vitamin C," adds the nutritionist. "And as in other citrus, it offers the most vitamin C when the pulp, as well as the juice, is eaten."

When slicing hard-boiled eggs, the yolks can be prevented from crumbling by wetting the knife before each cut.

Tax Collections Will Continue Upward

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama Tax collections continued upward in November, although some of the major revenue producers dropped.

State Revenue Commissioner Joe M. Edwards says total receipts paid into the department amounted to $10,263,415. This is an increase of $459,385 over November 1951, Edwards said.

Sales and gasoline taxes showed November gains, but income and tobacco tax receipts dropped. So did the state's share of automobile tax revenue, which totaled $936,190 last month, compared with $3,494,831 in November last year. This is explained in part by the reduction of passenger car tags to a flat $3, starting October 1, of this year.

But Edwards said the predominant factor in the big decline was a new law which gives probate judges until December 1 to report tag sales in their counties instead of the previous deadline of November 20.

Consequently, Edwards explained, October's heavy sales weren't reported in full for November. Last month the sales tax produced $4,768,725, an increase of $350,146 over the $4,418,579 it brought during the same month last year.

The use tax produced $216,928 last month, compared to $195,155 in December, 1951, an increase of $20,773.

Other major revenue producers: Gasoline tax — $3,536.025, compared to $3,510,661 a year ago, an increase of $24,364.

Income tax — $184,907 compared to $258,991 a year ago, $74,084 drop.

VARIED RESULTS OF A GREAT DISCOURSE

"And when they heard — some mocked. Howbeit certain men believed, among whom was Dionysius the Areopagite." — Acts 17:32-34.

For more than four centuries the ancient Greeks had boasted that Athens, their capital city, was the center of learning of all the then known world. Had not those classic halls echoed to the voices of Zeno, Socrates, Plato, and a galaxy of other notable scholars too numerous to mention?

The time came, however, when the mental serenity of the highbrow Athenians suffered a disturbance. This was caused by the arrival of a stranger, a non-Greek, a Hebrew scholar, an oriental from Asia Minor, a convert from Judaism to Christianity. The name of this disconcerting newcomer was Paul, recognized even today as the most strikingly dynamic preacher who ever lived.

With the consent of the Athenian court Paul was permitted to present his cause to the Mars Hill assembly, which represented the ripest scholarship of Greece. The varied reactions to that argumentative discourse are given in the sentence quoted here. It is little wonder that a sensation ensued, the like of which had never been seen in the City of the Wise; for this stranger had introduced to them the idea of an unseen God, as compared to the sculptured idols, to the worship of which even the intelligentsia of prideful Athens had been given. By the process of unanswerable logic he had proved that one God, Jehovah, is the creator and upholder of the universe; that God is the Judge who holds every man accountable for his transgressions; that He forgives the sins of the penitent and guarantees to them eternal life, which promise is sealed by the death and resurrection of His own son, Jesus Christ. He would have the wisest people on earth to understand that the world by wisdom knows not God; that the only fruitful wisdom is that that is revealed; that in the acceptance of the Gospel of Salvation is humanity's only hope.

Some mocked and called Paul a mere babbler. Some still mock. Others believed, Dionysius, a learned Areopagite in the number. All of which means that human wisdom is powerless in life's real extremity—that the ripest scholarship within the attainment of man bows to the superior wisdom revealed in the Eternal Word.

Getting Around with Mac Brown

You are supposed to believe that you can tell which places along the highways serve good food by watching where the truckers stop. We truck drivers are supposed to know which cafes have food like mother used to cook.

I'm not going to say it is so, or that it isn't. I have my favorite places, but when all's said and done, I'm always glad when the trips are ended and I'm back home to put away those real good meals the wife fixes.

She had a salad last week with some sliced fresh tomatoes in it, and they tasted almost as if they had just been picked from the garden. When I was a boy, we never had tomatoes, or any vegetables, out of season, unless they were canned ones But now look, you can have most anything, any time of the year.

I checked up on those tomatoes and I found a truck in the picture! They were trucked in from the Rio Grande valley in Texas, where there's a year-round growing season.

That's just part o. the story. Trucks haul fresh fruits up from Florida fresh seafood from the gulf, etc. Figures prove that practically every last bite of food you eat has been moved by truck. Those trucks sure make things different from just a few years ago. That's one of those things which make it nice to be living now.

MACEDONIA

Attendance was off Sunday due to sickness and such cold weather, but Bro. Finnley brought some wonderful messages to the ones who were present.

The Christmas program will be given Saturday night, December 20, at 7 o'clock. The title of this play is "The Promised Saviour." Everyone has an invitation to come.

We had as our special visitors Sunday night the F.F.A. Quartet of Jemison. I am sure everyone got a blessing from hearing these boys. Along with them was Mr. Archie Ogburn. We were glad to have him and invite him back.

Rev. and Mrs. Finnley were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cofer Sunday.

The Home Demonstration Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. Veazey. There were 12 present. Xmas gifts were exchanged. Miss Johnnie Martin gave the demonstration. Those present were Wesdames Coy Rasberry, F. C. Gibson, Winston Langston, Ezra Moore, Jimmie Ward, Roy Rasberry, Proctor Davenport, Woodie Rasberry, Marvin Oates, Briggs Gibson, Miss Johnnie Martin and the hostess. We are sorry to report that Little Peggy Thacker is in the Clanton Hospital. We had special prayer for her Sunday. We truly hope she will soon be well again and be back with us at church. We miss her lots.

We all enjoyed our visit to Union Springs Church recently. The people were really nice to us. We hope our B.T.U. program was a blessing to them.

Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Ward of Fairfield spent Sunday with Mr. Joe Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Ward.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We had 90 present to enjoy the good Sunday School lesson and worship service. Our pastor really did bring a good inspiring message. His subject, "Why Attend Sunday School?"

How we wish that the many people of our church and community that wasn't at church could have heard this message. So true from the Word of God. We do hope and pray that each one that heard the message will let it sink deep in their heart, and be more faithful to attend church services.

Many of our people were absent from Training Union and missed the good lesson and worship service Sunday night. Be sure to be present next Sunday night.

Don't forget to come to prayer service each Wednesday night at 6:30. Come praying that every heart will be blessed and that we may do more for our Saviour Who died for us.

We all rejoice wit the Ben Wells family to know their son, 1st Lt. James Wells arrived home safely Sunday afternoon from Korea. And we thank God that even though the boys have to go to the awful war and suffer. That His big arm of love and reach out and take care of them.

We are sorry to know Mrs. Cora Griffin had to have an operation last week. But glad to know she is recovering nicely. We hope and pray she will soon be feeling good again and that all the others who are sick will soon be well.

We were so glad to have our pastor's wife back at church Sunday and Sunday night. We have missed her and the other who have been absent for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Thornton and boys have moved away to Phenix City. We really ave lost good church workers. Our prayers go with them, and that they may be as faithful in God's service there. We are just hoping they will be coming back to live as our neighbors before too long.

Guard Against Christmas Fires

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Division of Forestry joined the Natioal Board of Fire Underwriters today in an appeal to home owners to keep Christmas merry by guarding against Christmas tree fires.

Every year at the yuletide season hundreds of Americans die of burns suffered in fires started by flaming Christmas decorations.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters lists the following suggestions for holiday safety:

1. Do not leave tree lights burning when no one is home.
2. Choose a small tree. It's less dangerous than a large one.
3. Don't set it up until a few days before Christmas. Until then keep it outdoors.
4. Place it in the coolest part of the house, away from fireplaces or radiators. And don't let it block an exit.
5. Stand it in water, or use a live tree planted in a tub of earth.
6. Never use cotton or paper for decoration on or around the tree.
7. Do not put electric trains under the tree.
8. Use only electric lights, never candles, and see that the wires are not frayed. Be sure the lighting sets you choose are marked as having been inspected by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.
9. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off. Don't plug or unplug them beneath the tree.

Musical Star Featured With Birch, Magician

MABEL SPERRY

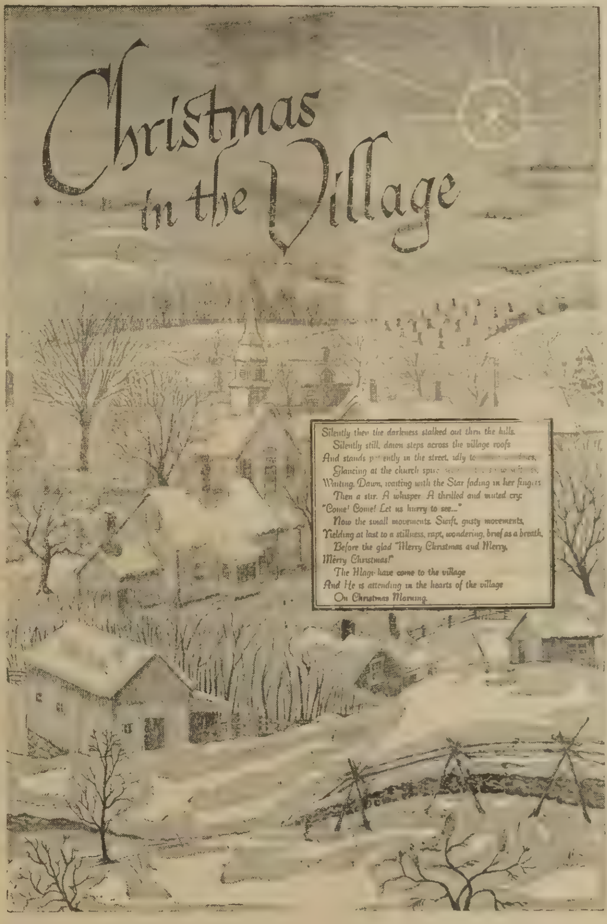
When Birch, Master Magician, apears at the City Hall at 8:00 p.m., January 9, he will present not only startling feats of spectacular magic, but also brings a sparkling program of beauty and color.

Heading the Birch staff of assisting artists is Mabel Sperry, brilliant young musical star. This charming young lady was featured as xylophone soloist with the 100-piece Marimba band at the Century of Progress, Chicago. She is well known in the concert and radio world as an artist of unusual ability, and critics hail her as the world's greatest girl xylophonist.

Her specially built Marimba-Xylophone, which was planned by an expert designer, is without question the most beautiful of its kind ever produced. It is not only a triumph of tone and tuning, but an artistic achievement as well.

Don't fail to hear this talented musician and her "Marvelous Melodies" at the Birch magical performance on January 9th, sponsored by Clanton Lions Club.

"I've never known a jealous moment since I married. You see, I trust my husband simplicity."



Silently then the darkness stalked out thru the hills
Silently still, dawn steps across the village roofs
And stands patiently in the street, idly [illegible]
Glancing at the church spire [illegible]
Waiting. Dawn, waiting with the Star fading in her fingers
Then a stir. A whisper A thrilled and muted cry:
"Come! Come! Let us hurry to see..."
Now the small movements. Swift, gusty movements,
Yielding at last to a stillness, rapt, wondering, brief as a breath,
Before the glad "Merry Christmas and Merry,
Merry Christmas!"
The Magi have come to the village
And He is attending in the hearts of the village
On Christmas Morning.

Harvey Davis age 44 was killed Friday night when he was hit by an automobile driven by Albert Gramatas. Davis was walking along the highway just north of Jemison. The accident was declared to be unavoidable. Lights from oncoming cars blinded Gramatas and he did not know that he had struck Davis until his son told him that he had struck something. He stopped and went back and found Davis critically injured.

He was rushed to Central Alabama Hospital in a Martin ambulance where he died thirty minutes after arriving.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO TO EVERYBODY

We want to take this means to wish all our friends of Chilton County and Clanton, Alabama, a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. May God bless every one who is making the Chilton County Christmas Chest a success this year. I know that many will be made happy because of the kindness of the Clanton and Chilton County people.

We both are well, and doing fine; and hope to see the friends there before too long.—Rev. and Mrs. A. T. Hickman, Georgetown, S. C.

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Health Department says 55 deaths from motor vehicle accidents were reported in Alabama during September, compared to 31 deaths due to accidents occurring in the home.

Motor vehicles also were more fatal the previous month, when there were only 38 home deaths, as compared with 54 motor vehicle accidents.

The State Health Department also reported that fire in and around Alabama homes accounted for seven deaths during September. There had been only five deaths from this cause the previous month.

TEMPLE CHURCH

Our attendance in Sunday School was good for which we are thankful. The services were equally good. In the morning service Gloria Sue Coggins played the piano and sang, "Star of the East." The evening service was extra good. One person was saved and three united with the church. All of these are in the C. A. age. We are very happy that our young people are stepping out for God and giving Him their lives, as well as their hearts.

We were glad to have Kenneth Smith who is home on furlough from the Navy at church with us. Also in the services with us were Sister Helms' sister and daughter. They are here for the holidays. Betty Troy Helms and Ross Smith who are attending Bible School in Lakeland, Fla. are home too. They were at church and Betty sang some special songs which everyone enjoyed. Ross and Kenneth spoke to the C. A. Class and their talk was a blessing to us.

Remember Sunday School each Sunday at 10:00, morning worship at 11:00, C.A. Class 6:00, and evangelistic service at 7:00. The public is cordially invited to attend all our services. — Reporter

WHY NOT FIX THE TRAFFIC LIGHTS?

If something is not done about our two-light traffic system someone is going to be killed.

We know it is not possible to keep the lights in perfect order all the time, but for the past several days now, the lights have been both red and green at the same time. That is dangerous business.

Surely there is some electrician in a place as large as Clanton that could be depended upon to keep our traffic lights in perfect working order. Above all things when the traffic lights go on the blink the one responsible should drop everything else until they are fixed.

Your life and the life of countless others depend on those lights for protection and the powers that be should see that necessary steps are taken that never again the lights would stay out of order over an extended period as they have for the past few days.

KEEP MONEY IN CIRCULATION HERE

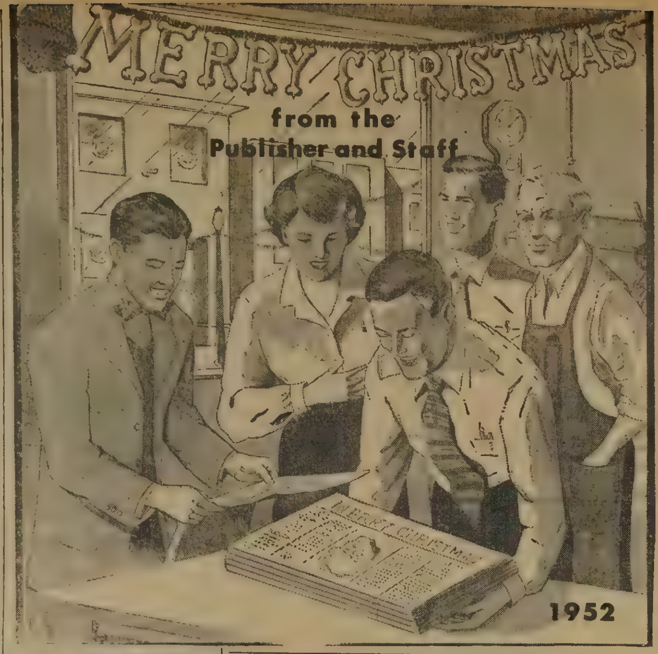
This is an age of competition, an age where the things that survive in the business world are the things that must prove their merit. Anything that is useless or inefficient soon loses out in the strenuous race for supremacy. So when you view your successful business establishments in your home community you are viewing those who have proven their merit and a right to your patronage and consideration.

The business field in the small towns especially, is not exclusive to anybody. The game is open to anybody who desires to enter and cares to risk the necessary capital. Nobody faces fiercer competition on every hand than the country merchant. A dissatisfied customer does not have to trade with him and he knows it. There are the competing stores across the street or next door. Or, if those do not suit there are usually towns within a very short distance that invite his patronage. So the country merchant must find a way to meet these conditions, and he can only meet them by giving the service, the goods and prices that do satisfy the customers.

Most people expect and receive accommodation from the home merchant which they would never receive in a thousand years from the mail order concern. Just this feature of accommodation should be a strong point in favor of the home merchant, but that is not all. There are the churches, the schools, the various public activities that are only possible because the home merchant and business man is doing a successful business. All of these things are inseparable and if anybody would trade out of town, the town would decay and public activities would soon cease. There is no way that a prosperous town can be maintained and at the same time have a large part of the business of the town sent elsewhere.

Many people do not realize what it means to send money out of the town. Of course a few would not matter, but when it begins to mount up to thousands of dollars per month then one can see the vast damage to the town caused by the loss of this liquid capital. The banks find their business curtailed, the merchants cannot carry the stock they should, money becomes "tight" and everybody finds it scarce because it has been sent away to the everlasting benefit of some big, overgrown metropolis.

On another page of the Chilton County News will be found the advertisements of business institutions that are particularly interested in getting their side of this question before the public. They have selected the newspapers as their medium of expression. Take note of their advertising. They have their capital invested in their various enterprises and wish to show you by service rendered that they deserve your patronage.



Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

We were making Christmas cookies the other night, cutting them like trees and bells and decorating them with colored sugar, when the six-year-old said:

"I'd like to write a birthday note to the Baby Jesus."

"That would be a nice thing to do," I answered and I wondered what she had in mind.

"But I can't write," she continued. She wasn't old enough to go to school this year, and her writing consists of scraggly block letters copied from the edge of her plate. "I don't know how to write anything except Thank You and I Love You. That's not enough to write, is it?"

How can you make a six-year-old understand that no lengthy paragraphs, no flowery phrases could say more, could be more pleasing to the Christ Child than those simple words, Thank You and I Love You?

The final days have been marked off on the big calendar on the kitchen door, the one we use to keep track of, "How many more days until Christmas now?" The eyes of the six-year-old and the three-year-old are shining as brightly as the lights on the tree they helped to trim as they move about in the lear, enchanted world of childood. Even the new baby seems to have caught some of the excitement; she laughs and gurgles and tries to reach out toward the lights on the tree.

Watching the children, you find yourself remembering other Christmases. The candles burning on the tree in their metal holders. The delicate spun glass ornaments. The new dime wrapped in tissue paper down in the toe of the stocking. The doll with a smudge on her nose, a sure sigh that Santa really did bring er down the chimney. And getting all trembly inside reading the Christmas Story at the pageant at the church.

Then picking out pecans for the fruit cake and maybe eating more than went into the cup. And helping stick branches of holly behind all the pictures in the living room. Then bundling up on Christmas Eve to go around with the neighbors and sing carols. And the inevitable search for a nail to hang the stocking from the mantel scarred with nail holes from other Christmases.

Remember trying hard not to go to sleep on Christmas Eve, trying to stay awake long enough to hear Santa's reindeer on the roof? And then waking up while it was still dark and lying in bed for a moment trying to remember why you felt so deliciously happy. Then bounding from bed, racing across the cold floor to snatch down the stocking and snuggling back into the welcome warmth of the bed to explore all the mysterious bumps and bulges.

Then when the big fire in the living room had taken some of the isiness out of the air, you went in to claim the treasures under the tree. Whatever was there was wonderful. And you'd be so filled with excitement there wasn't any room for breakfast, only room for more of the hard candy out of the stocking.

Thinking back on those other Christmases you know that the frantic shopping and the juggling of the budget and the frenzied rush of the season aren't important, that Christmas holds out the opportunity to recapture the happiness and the faith of childhood and the hope that we may cling to them through the days to come.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

DRUGS — USE CAREFULLY

The indiscriminate use of drugs can be costly, not only from an economic standpoint but in the value of lives lost or damaged. With the unfortunate emphasis today on sleep inducing agents called barbiturates, the antihistamines and the antibiotics as "cure-alls," it is no wonder that the public is confused.

Properly handled under competent medical supervision, these drugs have a useful place in alleviating pain and curing disease. Antihistaminic drugs are producing good results in some conditions related to allergy, but they are also causing severe reactions in certain individuals.

Because so many antihistaminic drugs are now marketed does not mean that they are safe or that they are the answer to the mystery of the common cold which is characterized by symptoms similar to forms of allergy, such as itching and swelling of the nasal membranes, tearing of the eyes, and like.

Taken indiscriminately, the tihistaminic drugs can kill. Th can also be the means of causi death and injury; for example, th produce side-effects in certain p sons that make it unsafe for person to drive a car. These si effects include nausea, vomiti headaches, poor coordination drowsiness.

Antibiotic drugs are another gr which must be handled carefu They too produce different reactio necessitating the watchful super sion of a physician.

Indiscriminate use of drugs undo the good that is being complished. Self-medication is the answer to the product of me cal research, for it brings ill and unhappiness instead. Don't ten to the flamboyant advertis on drugs. Be suspicious of thing that is presented as a "cu all." Be cautious. You don't k how one taken blindly may af you.

Select Toys to Fit Child's Age Level

A child's Christmas toys should be chosen with as much care as you would buy his clothes—to "fit" his age level.

If the child is just learning to walk and climb, give him play materials to stimulate these activities. He needs his first picture book when he begins to talk, housekeeping toys at about three when he begins to want to help mother, and crayons and scissors when he can begin to handle them.

Parents, aunts, uncles and cousins should consider what the child is ready for as regards physical growth and mental and social development in selecting toys.

If toys are selected with some relation to the child's growth and needs, they will be toys which stimulate self-reliance.

Most children, it is believed, can fare better with fewer but carefully selected toys. And when buying a toy, the parents should consider its probably "life."

God Bless Christmas

"There are many things from which I might have derived good, by which I have not profited, I dare say," returned the nephew. "Christmas among the rest. But I am sure I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come around, as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; and, therefore, uncle, though it had never put a scrap of gold or silver in my pocket, I say, God bless it!"—Charles Dickens, "A Christmas Carol."

As Alabama's population increased, settlers along the Tombigbee River began to agitate for separation from the Natchez settlements. They wanted a territorial government of their own, as it was inconvenient to send representatives to the territorial legislature at Natchez, and Alabama delegates usually were out-voted by the Mississippi Representatives.

INSULATE TO REDUCE THE COST OF HEATING

One of the important considerations in reducing housing costs for farm families is insulation of new houses—and old ones where possible.

Stella Mitchell, API Extension home management specialist, points out that insulation adds very little in comparison to the original cost of the house, but it reduces heating costs considerably. In fact, U. S. Bureau of Mines engineers estimate that one-third to one-half of the heat paid for escapes through walls and roof of an uninsulated house.

Retail Sales In Alabama Rise In August Over July

University, Ala. — Retail sales in Alabama rose 4 per cent in August over July for all concerns, according to an 88 per cent sample of firms reporting to the State Department of Revenue.

"Retail Trade Report" a monthly publication of the University of Alabama Bureau of Business Research states that general merchandise stores showed the largest rise—18 per cent—with gains of 12 to 14 per cent, recorded by clothing stores, secondhand stores, and miscellaneous concerns.

The only group listing a drop in sales were automobile, lumber and building material, and tabulating equipment concerns, the Trade Report said.

Although almost two thirds of the state's 67 counties reported all retail sales below August 1951, the change from July 1952 to August 1952 for Chilton County was a 1.6 per cent increase.

Food sales which account for 17 per cent of the retail sales in the state were up 5 per cent in August over the preceeding month. Drug store sales were also up slightly—3 per cent—over July and clothing sales which account for 3.45 percent of the state's total sales were up 12.2 per cent over July and 12.6 per cent over August 1951.

In 1817, the U. S. Congress divided the Mississippi Territory into two parts. The eastern part was set up as the Alabama Territory and President James Monroe appointed Dr. William Wyatt Bibb, of Georgia, Governor of the Alabama Territory.

During the period of rapid growth which followed the Creek War, Alabama was a part of the Mississippi Territory. The Territory was a large area extending from the Chattahoochee River on the east to the Mississippi River on the west.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

For years I've been saving box tops and writing statements of twenty-five words or less on why I like various products. I've written statements rife with originality and sincerity on everything from the merits of bird seed to innerspring mattresses. And I've been such a faithful contestant that the Reuben M. Donnelly Co., in whose Chands lie the decisions, must feel that no contest is official until my entries arrive.

Each time I enter a contest, I have bright visions of winning a trip to Europe or $10,000 in cash (tax free) or a new car or a complete home laundry or at least one of the "500 tenth prizes" the ads describe. Know what I've won so far? Nothing.

I haven't even gotten polite printed notes saying, "We appreciate your interest in our contest, but—." Magazines send out such notices of rejection. (I've received my share) but apparently the Reuben M. Donnelly Co., doesn't believe in giving unsuccessful contestants any recognition.

Well, with all this experience in contests, I couldn't help smiling secretly when the Head of the House announced that he was composing a twenty-five word statement. I nearly laughed out loud when he inquired whether the product he was about to praise was a new detergent or a brand of cooking oil. His statement, I told myself, might lack sincerity, but it was likely to be highly original.

The expressman stopped at our house yesterday. He had a big package containing an electric, automatic deep fat frier, the prize the Head of the House won in the contest. The prize-winner didn't share my amazement at his winning in the contest. In fact, he seemed unable to understand why his statement hadn't won first or second prize.

Anyhow, I've gone out of the contest business. All my box tops, and I had quite a collection, have been turned over to the Head of the House.

Naturally I could hardly wait to try out the new frier. I was slicing some potatoes to French fry when the next door neighbor dropped in. After she had admired the prize, she gave me a helpful suggestion.

"Always keep a roll of adhesive tape in the kitchen," she said. "When you're cutting or peeling with a sharp knife, put a piece of tape on your thumb so it won't get those unsightly and uncomfortable cuts on it."

The three-year-old commented when he came in from play, "The baby must be asleep. I hear her not crying."

The mother down the street, the one with the big family, saves all her family's old sports socks and uses the colored threads from them to mend torn places in wool shirts, sweaters and slacks. She has very little trouble matching colors with so many shades to choose from, and the yarn makes an inconspicious darn.

Here's how to make a quick coffee cake for your pastry loving family: Grease a loaf pan and drop soft biscuit dough in by spoonfuls. Sprinkle cinnamon, sugar and chopped nuts on top. Add another layer of biscuit dough and another layer of goodies, making several layers. Bake in a moderate oven until done.

The Indian tribes of early Alabama lived in towns or villages scattered from one end of the present State boundary to the other. All the villages were laid out in about the same way. On the highest ground within the village stood the house of the chief. Sometimes a mound would be built in the center of the town and the chief's house would then be erected on this mound. Near the chief's house were the houses of his attendants, those who took care of his wants and needs.

FEWER WELFARE CASES THIS YEAR

Montgomery, Ala. — The annual report of the Alabama Welfare Department says that it finished the fiscal year 1951-52 with a much lighter caseload than it started with.

It says there were 9,553 fewer persons on the welfare roll at the close of the year. New restrictions, particularly one making certain close relatives responsible for their dependents, caused the decrease. The department said that without the restrictions, it is unlikely that the caseload could have been reduced at all.

Dr. Bill Dorrough says that during the 12 month period, 27,951 cases were closed, while only 18,240 were opened.

However, Dorrough says that increased demands in November were due to poor farm conditions brought on by the drought.

The Welfare Department paid out $2,964,503 to 99,245 individuals last month, an average of $28.85 per case.

FIRST WOMAN CAST ELECTORIAL VOTE

Montgomery, Ala. — For the first time in Alabama history, a woman has cast her vote as a presidential elector for the state.

She is Mrs. Kate Simmons, who has served six governors as confidential secretary, since she went to the capitol in 1928—Bibb Graves, B. M. Miller, Frank Dixon, Chauncey Sparks, James E. Folsom and now with Gov. Gordon Persons.

Mrs. Simmons became one of the electors when one of the 11 elected Democratic electors was absent on December 15 as members of the group met here to cast their official vote. Members of the body have authority to fill vacancies by vote. The first attempt to fill the vacancy failed and the electors suggested that a woman be named.

Mrs. Simmons was then chosen to cast her vote with the other electors for Adlai Stevenson and John Sparkman.

The average husband doesn't tell his wife everything. He realizes that what she doesn't know won't hurt him.

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Health Department says that 12 Alabamians lost their lives in work-connected accidents during September.

According to the Department, three of them were agricultural workers, and two were engaged in mining and allied fields. The August figure was 13.

At the same time, the Health Department disclosed that more than twice as many measles deaths were reported in Alabama last year than in 1950. However, last year's total was substantially under the annual average for the five-year period from 1945 to 1959, inclusive.

Up until 1800, Gov. Winthrop Sargent, governor of the Mississippi Territory, attempted to administer the huge area from Natchez, the capital of Mississippi. That year, however, Sargeant created Washington County, which was to include the entire Alabama country. McIntosh Bluff, on the Tombigbee River, was made the county seat. Soon other counties were carved from the very large one. Still more counties were to be created in the region to the north, which was ceded by Georgia in 1802.

Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas!

The spirit conveyed by these words is the same in all countries, but words themselves sometimes fall harshly on American ears.

"Merry Christmas" in French has a soft and musical sound. It is Joyeux Noel."

In Spain the greeting is "Feliz Pascuas", and in Italy, "Buon Natale". Sweden it is "God Jul" and Norway, "Gladig Jul".

In Germany and Holland the greeting is a tongue-twister that will ump the average America. The Germans say "Froehliche Weihnach-" and the Dutch, "Pleizierig Kerstfeest".

But whatever the language, the spirit behind this greeting is the same herever there are men of good-will

Early Yuletide Thought Pagan By Christians

CHRISTMAS, like any other blessed institution, has had to fight its battles. The first great enemy of Christmas was the Roman empire whose pagan emperors determined to blot out all kinds of Christian rites.

Then when Roman Emperor Constantine Christianized the empire other enemies of Christmas arose. One course of contention was: Is December 25 really Christmas? Some said Christ was born on January 6; others held for March 29 Some set April 21 as His birthday Nobody knew with complete confidence just when to celebrate Christmas. At last, in the fourth century, Pope Julius I settled the matter in favor of our present date. His decision was universally accepted

From the first there had been among Christians a certain hostility toward the Christmas festival. The celebration of birthdays in general was considered heathenish and something taken over from the pagans. Nor did the enemies of

Far-Off Lands Come to Life In Yule Toys

GEOGRAPHY comes down th chimney on Christmas Eve

In the flood of toys soon to spi' out into the nation's living room will be the touch of many differen lands. Beside a teddy bear, replic of Australia's marsupial furre koalas, perhaps will stand a carve wooden farm scene from Germar Bavaria, a South American gauch doll, or a miniature pagoda made i Japan.

Similarly, the United States, now the world's leading toy maker, sends abroad its wild west costumes, it shiny playtime trucks and cars and earth-moving equipment, its small-scale railroads and sky scrapers to delight children all over the globe

Toy industries in Germany and Japan are on the upswing again Germany was among the first nations in the world to make tin horses on wheels, engines that ran animals that walked, birds that sang. Now U.S. buyers go back to cities such as Nurnberg for the output of ingenious middle-aged inventors

New toys that startle the world often come from Europe. One such is a German duck which, when se on an incline, proudly walks down the slope. Another is a recent gadget from Denmark called a "lipp top," a wobbly sphere about the size of a small apple that suddenl flips upside down and continue spinning on its stem.

Winston Churchill was intrigued by the top when he first saw it. In Stockholm, the King of Sweden, a cabinet minister and an atom physicist, a Nobel Prize winner, got down on their hands and knees at a banquet to study the mysterious flip flop action.

As a mirror of mankind's culture toys reflect the progress of civilization. Yet an amazing similarity ca sometimes be seen between the toy of long-forgotten eras and the play things of today.

Christmas 'Open House' Was Early Saxon Custom

AT CHRISTMASTIDE, the grea hall of the Saxon lord wa thrown open to peasant and nobl alike—all mingling democraticall and exchanging gifts and heart cheer during a great feast and festivities composed of dance and song With a tremendous burst of shouting, the Yule Log was dragged into the hall and placed upon the open fire pit. These democratic Christmas festivities lasted until the last dying embers of the log.

In our south, prior to the Civil War, the slaves, following this Saxon custom, would soak a log in the cypress swamps to extend the length of their Christmas freedom.

This unrestrained friendship between the Saxon lord and his serf at Christmas time has come down to us in the form of the hospitable "Open House"

The Natchez group opposed a division of the Mississippi Territory. Since the territorial delegate to the U. S. Congress was always from the Natchez region, he too opposed the separation motion in Washington.

XXXMAS KISSES

Mistletoe Bestows Good Fortune

VERY few people don't know what a sprig of mistletoe means at Christmas time—especially when there's a pretty girl standing beneath it! But few people realize that this very pleasant custom has its root in age-old superstitions

The lore of primitive days contains many references to mistletoe

According to an ancient Norse legend, the sun god was slain by an arrow fashioned from the mistletoe plant. He was resurrected by his mother's tears, which falling upon the plant, were crystallized into pearly berries Because of this magical healing, it was ordained that mistletoe should grow neither on heaven nor earth, but suspended between That is the reason, runs the legend, that mistletoe is found growing on trees.

Mistletoe was of special significance to the Druids, ancient pagan priests of England, who cut it off trees with a golden knife used only for that purpose. They believed it possessed wonderful powers of healing and acted as a protection from witchcraft. During the December religious rites, it was bestowed upon individuals as a special mark of honor

Because of its supposed salutary properties, mistletoe was often hung over the doors of primitive houses as a sign of good-will. Belief in magic has disappeared, but this custom still remains. And a kiss under the mistletoe still has beneficent effects. Try it and see for yourself!

Corduroy Has Place In School Wardrobe

Auburn, Ala. — When care is used, corduroy is a fabric that washes beautifully.

"However," warns Kathleen Thompson, API Extension clothing specialist, "don't wait too long to wash dark colored garments. Brush well before laundering. And do be sure to wash separately — not only because the color may run just a little, but because lint clings to corduroy, and it is very difficult to get off if it dries on after laundering."

Miss Thompson further states that all pockets should be emptied and brushed since even a piece of cleansing tissue can spoil all cleaning efforts

Another thing many women discover is that corduroy is bulky when wet and will probably need to be washed in a second fresh suds for best results Always use the same lukewarm water, towel and shade drying treatment given wool. Also, corduroy needs a bit of brushing while it dries. This will bring up its velvety nap.

The Auditions cover four classifications, piano, violin, voice, and string quartet, and carry an impressive array of awards in addition to the traditional award offered by the Federation in each classification, the option of $1,000 in cash or a debut recital at Town Hall, New York, or some comparable auditorium elsewhere in the United States.

Newest of the awards for the 1953 Auditions is a guaranteed audition at the Metropolitan Opera House for the voice winner, with General Manager Ridolph Bing in attendance. Coupled with this are three possible additional awards, dependent upon the outcome of this audition: A six-week scholarship in the Kathryn Long Opera Course, an appearance on the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, and an apprentice contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Additional awards renewed this year are a guaranteed managerial contract for at least one of the winners with the National Concert and Artists Corporation, one of the country's major managements, and an appearance with orchestra on the NBC network for at least one winner in the piano, violin or voice classification, with the possibility of an extension of this award to all three winners.

A contract with the National Concert and Artists Corporation was offered to the Federation for the first time in 1951, and the winner, Claudette Sorel, pianist, will appear under NCAC management throughout the country in the concert season of 1952-1953.

Repertoire for the 1953 Auditions has been chosen by internationally known artist advisers.

Age limits for the Young Artists Auditions in the piano and violin classifications are 20 to 30 years: for string quartet 20 to 25 years; and for voice 23 to 35 years.

State and District Auditions in the Young Artists event will precede the National Auditions. Alabama will be held between February 15 and March 1, 1953, and the District Auditions not later than March 15, 1953.

District winners will go to New York City for National Semi-finals and Finals which will be held during a National Convention scheduled for April 8 to 18, 1953, in that city.

Marine Corps Major Carl L. Sitter, winner of the Medal of Honor urges Americans everywhere to give Defense Bonds for Christmas gifts this year. Major Sitter, who is now an instructor at the Marine Corps School in Quantico, Virginia, can spend this Christmas with his wife, Ellen, and their 3½ year old son, Michael. Last year he was fighting in the bitter cold of Korea and knows what it means to have the support of the folks back home.

Noel Preparations Started in Norway In Middle of Year

CHRISTMAS just couldn't help being the event of events in Norway when grandmother was a girl.

Without exaggeration, preparation for Christmas actually began six months before December 24. Everything which was used—food, clothing, household furnishings—was prepared in the home. Even the leather for shoes was tanned from hides raised on the homestead.

The cloth for apparel, from the skin out, was woven on hand looms. Cobblers came to the house and made the shoes; dressmakers and tailors came. Everyone in the household had to have a new wardrobe for Christmas and, since tailors and cobblers and dressmakers could not be at all places at once, it was necessary to get an early start.

When the butchering was finished —in October or November—the suet was melted and the candles were made. The children always had a hand in making the little ones for use on the Christmas tree. And they usually made one which had three prongs which, placed at the very top of the tree, represented the three wise men.

Santa's Little Helper Was Scandinavian Elf

Where did Santa's Little Helper come from?

In the Viking age in Scandinavia, long before Leif Eriksen discovered America, the little North Children believed that a little elf with long white whiskers—Jul Tomten—lived in the stable. He saw that the earth was abundant with good food and that the animals and birds were taken care of. After the pagan Vikings became Christianized, little Jul Tomten became the giver of presents—like our Santa Claus today. The children left a bowl of porridge on the kitchen table for which Jul Tomten would exchange gifts for the good boys and girls. Travelers brought back the legend of Tomten and he has come down to us as the busy jolly, good little elf who works in Santa's workshop.

Good Quail Hunting Season

Auburn, Ala. — Prospects for a successful quail hunting season are assured according to Arnold O. Haugen, Leader of the Alabama Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at Auburn.

Biologist Frank Fitch, Jr., at the Research Unit, has found that 78 per cent of the quail shot during the first two days of the season were young of the year. Their age was determined from the wing feathers which differ in old birds and young of the year. The feathers also revealed that 57 per cent of the young were hatched before July 15. This indicates that a good hatch was obtained from the first nesting.

Haugen reports that Alabama sportsmen have been very helpful in the study by sending to the Research Unit the wings of birds shot in various parts of the State. Also that members of the Alabama Wildlife Federation assisted considerably.

Sportsmen who are interested in the future of quail hunting are invited to help in this important quail research. For information on how you too can help, write to the Research Unit, Wildlife Building, Auburn, and offer your cooperation.

The Research Unit is jointly sponsored by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Alabama Department of Conservation, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Wildlife Management Institute.

Highway Death Rate Lowered

Montgomery, Ala. — Gov. Gordon Persons year-long drive for highway safety paid off today when the National Safety Council disclosed that during the first 10 months of 1952 Alabama led the entire South in traffic fatality prevention.

During the same 10 months, the National Safety Council said Alabama moved from 48th to 43rd in the national highway death rate.

On Nov. 15, 1951, Governor Persons issued an executive order setting a 50 mile night and 60 miles per hour day speed limit on many Alabama roads. Subsequent orders brought all U. S. Highways and most state highways within the 50 and 60 mile limits.

"And while the national fatality rate has risen two per cent, compared to 1951, Alabama has scored a seven per cent decrease in road deaths," Persons said. According to the National Council, where 100 persons died last year, only 93 died in Alabama during these 10 months," he said.

"The figure becomes more impressive when the fact is considered that there were 40,000 additional cars licensed in Alabama over the 1951 figure," the governor added.

At the same time Alabama highway deaths were decreasing seven per cent, these traffic fatality increases were listed by other Southern states, according to the council: Florida, up seven per cent; Georgia, up four per cent; Arkansas, up 11 per cent; Kentucky, up 12 per cent; Louisiana, up nine per cent; North Carolina, up four per cent; South Carolina, up 16 per cent.

Traffic death decreases were listed in the South by Tennessee, down two per cent; Texas, down one per cent, and Virginia, down six per cent.

Nationally, other states which had seven per cent decreases are Maine and Wyoming.

Safety Council statistics show Alabama now has a death rate of 9.4 persons for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled in the state. In 1951, Alabama trailed the entire nation, with a death rate of 10.2 persons for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled.

At the same time, State Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan released a report for the first 11 months of 1952 showing an approximate drop of 14 per cent in the number of Alabama road deaths, compared to last year. This figure applies only to highway fatalities investigated by the patrol, and not those in cities and towns.

However, it was pointed out that this figure may not be regarded as final. Some of the road-injured may yet succumb. Both the National Council and Sullivan expressed belief that the fatality drop indicates a trend toward safer driving in Alabama.

"Naturally I am very happy and certainly want to compliment the Public Safety Department, and to thank Alabama drivers for the cooperation," the governor said.

"We still have a long way to g but I feel we are on our way," Pe sons added. He said, "I will co tinue my drive for safer highwa as long as I am in office. And I' sure that this report will encourag our people to drive more carefully

WORK IS SLATED to start around Jan. 1, 1953, on Alabama's new eight-floor state office building in Montgomery. A low bid of $2,682,812 has been submitted by Ray M. Lee Company of Atlanta. State Finance Director D. W. Hodo, a member of the Alabama Building Corporation, responsible for the job, says the low bidding firm proposes to complete the building in 600 days. Gov. Gordon Persons says that eight bids were received and all were within the $3,250,000 top authorized by the 1951 Alabama Legislature. The new building will be across Dexter Avenue from the State Highway Department Building, and will be of the same architectural design. The new structure was made the responsibility of the State Building Corporation by the 1951 legislature. The corporation includes the governor, the director of the Industrial Relations Department, the State Finance Director, and the State Attorney General. The law setting up the corporation also granted space priority in the new building to the Industrial Relations, Agriculture and Industries, Conservation, Education, Health, and Commerce Departments, and the Public Service Commission. Financing of the construction of the office building will be through a $3,250,000 bond sale by the corporation. Bids on the bonds were to be opened on Dec. 10.

TIME FOR CAROLS . . . Men, women and children from Protestant churches blend their voices in carol singing before the blazing Yule log. This Christmas Eve custom is becoming increasingly popular throughout the country.

Allegorical Parades Mark Mexican Yule

THE PEOPLE in Mexico build elaborate floats for allegorical parades during the holiday season.

For eight evenings before Christmas there is a religious procession at the head of which the figures of Joseph and Mary are borne.

On the ninth evening entrance is permitted and a religious ceremony conducted about the straw-filled manger of the Babe.

True Christmas Spirit Is Found in Sharing

FOR A REALLY satisfying and meaningful Christmas, share yours with the old and feeble, the ill and shut-in, the bereaved whose sorrows you might lighten.

Unfortunately, all the flurry and preparation associated with Christmas are apt to make parents as well as children overlook the real significance of the coming birthday of Christ.

Why You Hang Holly at Yuletide

CREDIT THE PAGAN Druids for inspiring one of the nice Christmas customs—decorating with holly. The traditional holly for the holidays is widely believed to have had its origin in the Druid practice of bringing holly sprigs indoors. The Druids woodland spirits lived in the holly.

Indoors, holly gave the spirits a nice warm place in winter. Besides, the lush green holly and the contrast of its red berries provided beauty that could be revered by men when the sacred oaks were shorn of their foliage.

The early Christian church frowned on such pagan customs and tried to stamp them out. In due time, however, it was felt that some of the customs could be adapted to the new Christmas conception.

Some beautiful legends associate the holly with Christ. In fact, it is often called the Christ thorn. One legend depicts the leaf spines as the crown of thorns; the red berries as the sins of the world and the blood of Christ. Another credits holly with first springing up from the footsteps of Christ. The plant is said to remain green all winter as a reward for once hiding Christ from his pursuers

The impact of the holly on the Christmas celebration is evidenced in the traditional holiday colors, green and red. The Druids weren't the only people of old who thought the holly was something special. Pliny, the great Roman historian, insisted holly blossoms caused water to freeze. Also, that holly thrown at any wild beast would make it lie down tamely next to the branch.

These legends, forgotten by many people, are said to be the reason we decorate with holly.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — More than a fifth of all the Alabama deaths attributed to diabetes in April, May and June were reported from the state's largest three cities. The announcement was made today by the State Department of Health.

The state total, the Department said, was 77. Ten of these were reported from Birmingham, four from Montgomery and three from Mobile.

The announcement was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. These may differ slightly from the final reports not yet available.

NO RAIN, DEAR . . . This young lady makes a pretty picture down in sunny Florida on Christmas eve as she poses with Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer. Although Florida lacks snow it makes up for it in other beauties.

HIGH QUALITY PRODUCTS INCREASE FARM INCOME

Auburn, Ala. — This is the time of year many farmers plan how to improve the quality of products they will market next year.

Whether a farmer is selling cotton, peanuts, fruits, vegetables, meat animals, milk, eggs or other products, the need for good quality and accurately described grades becomes more important year after year.

For instance, A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist, says that the huge output on U. S. farms in 1952 has solved most of the problems of scarcity that have bothered us for the past several years. During such a time, buyers sort the supply more carefully in search of better quality.

"Therefore," states Jones, "smart farmers will give more attention to producing higher grade products, describing them accurately, and selling them on the basis of standard grades that are recognized in trade channels."

A Prayer by St. Francis of Assisi

Lord make me an instrument of Thy Peace!
Where there is hatred . . . let me sow love
Where there is injury . . . pardon
Where there is doubt . . . faith
Where there is despair . . . hope
Where there is sadness . . . joy!

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek
To be consoled . . . as to console
To be understood . . . as to understand
To be loved . . . as to love,

For

It is in giving . . . that we receive
It is in pardoning . . . that we are pardoned
It is in dying . . . that we are born to eternal life.

In this season when Christian nations memorialize the birth of Christ, and when men and women contemplate the ideal of "Peace on earth, good will toward men," the prayer of St. Francis of Assisi seems especially appropriate for publication in space normally used for advertising.

Christmas Don'ts

To keep your Christmas a truly merry one, keep these don'ts in mind:

DON'T give children dangerous toys, or toys with sharp points. If they operate with electricity be sure you supervise their use.

DON'T decorate the tree with lighted candles unless it's absolutely unavoidable.

DON'T place the tree near a stove or fireplace.

DON'T leave lighted tree unguarded at any time.

DON'T use a rickety, unsafe ladder in decorating the tree.

DON'T place Christmas candles near the tree, curtains, paper wreaths or other decorations.

DON'T overlook the opportunity to make your tree fire-resistant.

DON'T leave toys exposed where people can trip on them.

DON'T allow steps and sidewalks to become icy in cold weather.

DON'T drive recklessly.

INFLATION . . . Santa supervises while one of his helpers inflates a doll. The benevolent old gent looks on with interest. Perhaps he is thinking inflation is not confined to economics.

CHRISTMAS EXODUS

When classes were dismissed at the University of Alabama the 5,600 Capstone students headed home for their annual two-week Christmas holiday.

PILGRIM'S PLEA

CHRISTMAS 1952

God give us wisdom to read the stars;
Not as the learned in earth's lore—
The learned, who with sextant and with spectroscope
Trace the highways of the skies, dissect and measure
Arcturus and his kind.
Not that! Not that!
Out of vast spaces,
Beyond the spangled field of our returning nights,
May we behold the heralds of Thy care.
We wait, affrighted. Unchained cosmic powers
Terrify our souls. Our Ship of State
Wallows in the trough of mighty tides,
And, with hands limp upon the wheel,
Our helmsmen stand aghast.
Titanic monsters
Of unrestricted greed and hate
Bar the roads that lead to Heart's Desire.
As did the wise of ancient days,
We scan the ebon skies
For some harbinger of Him
Who spake of quietness and peace,
Vouchsafed unto the trustful soul.
We may read the stars, and, following on,
May find the answer to our fears.

Man of Bethlehem

Jesus Christ is a God whom we can approach without pride, and before whom we may abase ourselves without despair.—Pascal.

As the print of the seal on the wax is the express image of the seal itself, so Christ is the express image—the perfect representation of God.—Ambrose.

The devotion to the person of Christ that steers clear of the doctrines and precepts of Christ, is but sentimental rhapsody. — Herrick Johnson.

This is part of the glory of Christ as compared with the chiefest of His servants that He alone stands at the absolute center of humanity, the one completely harmonious man, unfolding all which was in humanity, equally and full on all sides, the only one in whom the real and ideal met and were absolutely one. He is the absolute and perfect truth, the highest that humanity can reach; at once its perfect image and supreme Lord.—French.

MORE MILK

Milk production this fall has declined less than seasonally. Mild fall weather helped keep output up. However, farmers have had to feed more concentrates than usual because of the short roughage supply.

Quaint Rehearsal Of Christ's Birth Found in Old Carol

"Auld Lang Syne" has become such an integral part of our modern New Year's eve that no celebration, however gay, would be complete without it.

The music sheets for those nostalgic strains simply say "Robert Burns — Scotch Air", and Robert Burns generally is supposed to have written it after he had settled down on a farm and taken himself a wife, following the sweeping success in 1778 of the second edition of his "Poems." Well and good, but Auld Lang Syne was not exclusively a Burns' product, nor did he claim it to be.

In a letter to George Thomson, a publisher, Burns explained:

"It is an old song of olden times, which has never been in print. I took it down from an old man's singing."

Modern scholarship has discovered that Burns was wrong when he told Thomson "Auld Lang Syne" never had been in print. Its refrain at least, was printed obscurely long before Burns heard his "old man singing."

Further, the original song often has been credited to Sir Robert Aytoun (1570-1638) Aytoun was one of the earliest Scots to use the lowland dialect as a literary medium. Multitudes of Americans decended from non-British stock are perpetually mystified by this dialect, nor does it seem to make much sense in the standard English translation.

Regardless of its original author and origin, it was Burns who gave "Auld Lang Syne" its immortality And though the bells now welcome the New Year with joyous peals, symbolizing mankind's hope for a bright future, the nostalgiast of "Auld Lang Syne" summarizes an

BETTER PELT PRICES ENCOURAGE TRAPPERS

According to reports from one fur buying firm, mink pelt prices are averaging higher than those paid last year.

"An average of $2 to $4 higher for extra large pelts this year as compared with 1951 prices is an indication that the fur market may be improving," believes Earl Kennamer, API Extension Wildlife Specialist.

He advises 4-H Club boys and farmers to concentrate on trapping mink, muskrat, and beaver.

Here's How To Choose Your Christmas Tree

NEARLY 30,000,000 Christmas trees will be sold in the U.S. this year. Select one which will retain its needles well indoors. A simple treatment will keep the needles from drying out, make the tree less flammable and keep it green longer.

Choosing the tree: Select a balsam or Douglas fir. Their needles will last two or three weeks indoors. A balsam is easily identified by its fragrance, rigid branches and two thick rows of needles which do not stab the hand. Douglas fir, the best of the firs, has long pointed red buds. Other firs have globose buds. All have soft needles. A spruce drops its needles soon after it's placed in a warm room. A Norway spruce, however, makes an ideal community Christmas tree outdoors. A white spruce is better than a Norway spruce for indoor use. Pines recognized by extra-long needles can be used. Hemlocks and junipers are of little value as Christmas trees.

Preventing needle drop: Cut at a slant an inch off the base and set the tree in a bucket of water or wet sand 24 hours before bringing it in the house. Then anchor tree firmly in a holder that contains water or moist sand. Do not place it near a radiator.

Fire precautions: (Internally)—No tree can be made completely flame-proof. Government experts suggest reducing flammability by standing tree in a solution of either ammonium sulfate, ammonium phosphate, calcium chloride or ammonium sulfamate four to six days. First weigh tree and divide by four That will be number of pounds of material required. To each pound add one and a half pints of water. During treatment, keep tree in cool, dark place. (Externally)—Mix nine parts water glass (soluble sodium silicate) with one part water containing teaspoon of wetting agent (such as solvent soap) per quart Dip tree into solution or spray it on tree. This will give shiny finish to needles.

Christmas Greens: Measure height of ceiling before buying tree. If branches must be trimmed from tree, use them for door spray, mantel piece or swag for newel post. Add to them few branches clipped from red cedar.

Remove basting thread by cutting between the stitches and pulling it out in short lengths. Pulling out a long basting thread may cause large thread holes, and tear fabric threads in sheer material.

Christmas Gifts Are Not Always Brought by Santa

In America it is always Santa Claus, dashing from rooftop to rooftop in his sleigh, that brings Christmas gifts to the children But it is not always Santa who brings the gifts to children in other lands.

In Holland it is St. Nicholas, dressed in bishop's robes of black, wearing a mitre and carrying the crozier. And he arrives on a white horse.

English children look for a Santa Claus who closely resembles our own and gifts are tied to Christmas trees.

In Finland, Santa has elves who passes out gifts for him

In Italy there is no Santa Claus. Instead, they have a beneficent old witch, Befona, who sails through the air on a broom stick on Christmas Eve.

Brazil has Papa Noel, very much like Santa. He wears a red suit and travels in a sleigh drawn by reindeer. However, he enters the house through a window instead of the chimney.

Spanish children place their straw-filled sleeves on the window sills so that the Magi may feed their horses while they leave gifts. The older people fill an Urn of Fate from which the gifts are drawn on Christmas Day

In many other parts of the world Santa is not known, but many people exchange gifts nevertheless at Christmas time.

SELL MILK

Experts say that Alabama farmers who want a better income and plan to add livestock to their farm operation can well afford to study possibilities offered in sale of milk for manufacturing purposes

Wile running hot water over an inverted ice cube tray, use a colander to receive the cubes. This keeps them all together and washed and drained.

THIS IS...
CHRISTMAS

Christmas is a tree with bright lights and tinsel and the Star atop. It is a tumble of gifts, wrapped with pretty ribbon, beneath its green boughs. It is the light and faith in little children's eyes on Christmas morning. It is the choking feeling of joy in mother's heart as the packages are opened. It is the tear that wells in dad's eye and he tries to hide it with a grin. It is the remembrances of many other Christmases by grandmother and grandfather, undimmed by golden time.

It is the sermon of the Story of Bethlehem. The hymns of the choir, the candlelight service, the softness of children's voices, the peace and goodwill that can come into men's hearts

Christmas is the big tall tree in school, the only tree some of the children can call their own. It is the striped candy cane.

It is the joyful music of chimes and church bells, the carols from the record shop, the spirit of the season that makes strangers friends.

It is the garland and the candle in the window, the cards on the mantel, the wreath on the door, the mistletoe hung for Sis. It is sincerity in a handshake, the wishes of glad tidings, the vocal meaning in the hello from neighbors.

Christmas is a light. A light that vanquishes darkness; the light of charity.

Your Poinsettia Will Bloom Next Christmas

THE POINSETTIA has long b a popular Christmas pla probably few people have g much thought to the fact that it c come into bloom each year o this season.

The poinsettia is one of a grou plants known as short day p cause it will bloom only in the son of the year with short day le periods, preferably 10 hours or That is why it is always in blo during the Christmas season and not during the summer. It could be p vented from blooming now by lengthening the daylight period to 15 hours by means of artifical lights

Flower growers have learned how to bring garden chrysanthemums into bloom any month of the year by using shading cloth to shorten the days and artificial lights to lengthen the days. The chrysanthemum is also a short day plant

How can one keep a poinsettia plant until next season? After its usefulness is over, place it in the basement or some dry place where it will not freeze. Do not water it, or at least very little, and let the soil dry up. Next May bring the plant out, cut the stem back about two thirds, wash the old soil off the roots and re-pot in new soil. From then on handle it like any other pot plant. Softwood cuttings taken in July and rooted will give you good Christmas bloom.

Bay and Rosemary Christmas Tradition

Bay and rosemary have also been represented among our Christmas plants from time immemorial. An ancient writer says: "Rosemarie and Baies that are most faire were stuck about the houses and the churches at the time of Christmas."

According to tradition it was the bay tree, with its lance-like leaves and purple berries, that sheltered the holy family during a thunderstorm. Accordingly it was believed that lightning will never strike a bay tree.

The association of the rosemary plant with Christmas also goes back to the early childhood of our Lord, namely to the flight into Egypt to escape the wrath and jealousy of King Herod. Its branches are said to have held the little garments of the Christ-Child that were placed upon them by the Virgin Mother. Originally, its flowers were supposed to have been white, but the plant changed the color of its blossoms to lavendar so that they might bear the hue of the cloak Mary was wearing at the time.

Exercises will be held in the Student Activities Building at 2:30 p.m.

API President and Mrs. Ralph B Draughon will honor students, their parents and guests at a coffee hour to be held from 10:30 to 12:30 in Smith Hall.

TRUCK CROPS

The fall output of commercial truck crops is expected to be about four per cent larger than last year's, and nine per cent above average. The increase in supply probably will be accompanied by moderately lower prices.

TRACTOR CARE

Even though tractors are normally used for light work during winter, proper maintenance jobs on them should be done at regular times.

Christmas Seals Are Doing A Tremendous Job

"Christmas Seals are a down payment on the gift of health," reminded James B. Fort, Clanton, president of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association.

"You're giving yourself, your family and friends one of the very best gifts when you provide a safeguard against tuberculosis by joining with others in the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

"Every penny counts. Christmas Seal pennies have done a tremendous job of stalking TB and saving lives since 1907, when this disease was the leading cause of death.

"Even now, somebody dies every 17 minutes from TB in the United States.

"Right here at home in Chilton County, there are 68 known cases of TB.

"We cannot afford not to be interested. It's our job to do something real and genuine to help our fellow man during the holiday season.

"A Christmas wish becomes a wish of reality when it is directed to a cause that means the difference between life and death to so many.

"Get in the tuberculosis fight now. Buy and use Christmas Seals so they can do a year-round job of helping and stopping the spread of a needless killer."

Santa Claus! RIGHT ARM

THIS MAY BE the post office's biggest Christmas. The postmaster general estimates that more Christmas mail — packages and cards—will be handled in 1952 than in any previous year. With this in mind, the post office department has hired extra employees and arranged for use of extra trucks for the holiday period.

The post office is Santa Claus' good right arm. It delivers gifts and greetings throughout the world, and it will do its best to get them there by December 25—if they are mailed on time.

Much Christmas mail going overseas is handled in cooperation with the postal systems of other nations. But in the United States and its possessions, in U.S.-trusteed islands in the Pacific and among U.S. servicemen in all parts of the world, delivery of holiday greetings is strictly a United States affair.

The army takes over, through its army post office, for troops serving outside the United States, be they in Germany, Korea, or somewhere on the way. The navy handles mail for its men on ships at sea and at naval stations anywhere on the globe.

Best known special Christmas business done by any post office is that of Santa Claus, Indiana.

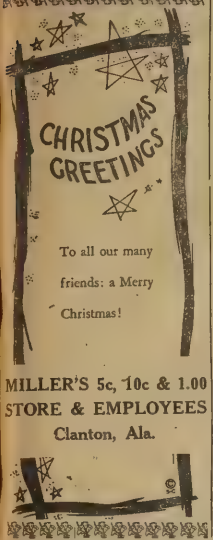
The Rose of Christmas Was Young Girl's Gift

THE Christmas rose blooms at an unusual season, from December to March, with white, sometimes pinkly colored blooms. Because of the soft tinge of pink, the flower has been given the name Christmas rose.

Legend tells us that when the Wise Men were journeying toward Bethlehem, they came upon a young girl who was tending her sheep. The girl complained to an angel that she had no gift for the Holy Child, whereupon the entire pathway to Bethlehem was flowered with glistening white Christmas roses.

Madelon, the girl, offered the flowers, and when the fingers of Jesus touched them they became suffused with pink.



To all our many friends: a Merry Christmas!

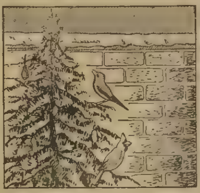
Christmas Trees Can Be Put to Many Uses After New Year's

There are a number of things you can do with your Christmas tree after New Year's besides burning it.

If it is a fir, for instance, it can [illegible] nchored in the back yard—per- [illegible] in a corner of the garden— [illegible] sed as a bird feeder the re- [illegible] er of the winter. Pieces of s [illegible] ind little feed bags may be t [illegible] the branches. A container of [illegible] er should be placed beneath the [illegible] and kept filled so the birds wil [illegible] ve a drink every day.

O [illegible] cut off the branches and place them, curved ends up, over flower beds when the ground is exposed An evergreen mulch helps prevent the soil from heaving during alternate freezes and thaws. Long branches may be built into little lean-tos to protect tender shrubs from sun scald.



The needles of a Christmas tree can be sprinkled beneath acid-loving plants such as laurel, andromeds, rhododendron and blueberries.

If the needles on the tree are still firm, use the branches in an outdoor windowbox. Moisten the soil in the box. Then push the cut ends of the branches down to the bottom and tamp the soil firm around them. This will generally give you greenery all winter.

If you must burn your Christmas tree, don't toss it into a fireplace. Cut off the branches and burn them safely one by one.

And remember, a Christmas tree tossed into the street can become a fire hazard if playful children pick it up and make a bonfire of it in a vacant lot.

Teamwork Needed To Conserve Our Top Soil

We farmed to the best of our ability and knowledge as we developed our country. But, we did not know as much as we know today about soil conservation and good land use. Like the early factry, the pioneer farm lacked the modern tools and skills that we now take for granted. In the last 25 years, we have discovered many new agricultural facts. Soil and water conservation has become a science in itself.

Nearly 6 million farmers own and operate the Nation's farm lands. They carry the responsibility of maintaining and conserving the productivity of the soil. But, most of them are not highly trained in soil conservation, especially since it is a relatively new science and includes parts of many others. They do not have the detailed knowledge of hydrology, soils, engineering, biology, forestry and crops to do this entire job.

Fortunately, we as a nation have worked out a system where farmers, with the support of the general public, join together in groups to carry out needed soil conservation work.

State legislatures have passed enabling acts which permit farmers to form soil conservation districts. Alabama, in 1941, became the first state to be completely organized into soil conservation districts. These districts are legal sub-divisions of the State and have their own local government, much the same as counties and towns. They are managed by governing bodies of farmers and landowners who serve without pay. (Include information on local district.)

Since soil conservation districts cannot levy taxes, they have little or no funds with which to operate. Therefore, they must rely on the assistance of federal, state and local agencies and organizations in planning and carrying out districts' programs and work plans.

Farmers and ranchers throughout the country have organized more than 2,300 soil conservation districts which are blazing a new trail of local, state, federal and individual cooperation. Within those districts are a majority of farmers and ranches who operate most of our country's land. They can get help from their local district in conserving and making better use of their lands.

While time does not permit going into the details of all this assistance, we would like to point out that the district does provide assistance to land operators in working out a system for the farm which will control loss of soil and keep the farm productive. Many methods go into these complete farm conservation plans. The plan provides for using the land for what it best capable of producing—whether cropland, hay or pasture, woodland or wildlife. It includes improved rotations whereby row crops are alternated with sod crops, needed fertilizer and lime, plowing under crops to improve the soil, safe disposal of run-off water, good management of woodland, or improvement of pasture. It calls for such practices as terracing, drainage, strip cropping or any of a dozen practices that may be needed. Which are used depends upon amount of erosion, slope of the land, kind of soil and other conditions. This kind of farming conserves and improves the soil, passes it on to our children in good condition.

Why haven't we gone farther and faster with this vitally important work? One reason is that, until recent years, we have not understood what was happening. Most of us had failed to recognize that if we are to continue to have plenty of food and raw materials for our increasing population, we must protect and improve our land resources And, its your job and mine to help see that soil and water becomes the accepted practice instead of just something we talk about and a few farmers practice.

We can all promote better soil and water conservation even though we do not own or control any farm lands. Here are a few of the ways we can help.

1. If you own land, see that it is farmed the conservation way Cooperate with your local soil conservation district. If you have friends or relatives who own or manage land, urge them to do the same.

2. Encourage your Church, civic club, Chamber of Commerce, sportsmen's club or other organization to study soil and water conservation as it effects the member's welfare. Such groups can arrange special programs with qualified speakers. Movies, slides, leaflets and other materials are available.

3. You or an organization to which you belong get acquainted with the supervisors of the soil conservation district operating in your Community. Ask what you can do to heln.

4. Encourage public schools in your community to teach conservation to all school children. This does not require a separate course. Factual information regarding soil and water resources should be a part of the regular school curricula in social science, civics, government, geography, history and other subjects.

5. Organizations may wish to help the local district conduct certain activities. Or they may sponsor and distribute a booklet or other educational materials about soil and water conservation in their community.

What does soil erosion and misuse mean to you and me and our children? J. N. (Ding) Darling, the nationally famous cartoonist, says, "Beefsteak and potatoes, roast duck, ham and eggs, and bread and butter with jam on it, go down our rivers each year in the form of good rich farm topsoil."

The soil conservation districts are working to reduce our soil and water losses. Their purpose is to try to see that our land is used in such a way that people will enjoy sufficient and continuous supplies of food, fiber and services that come from the land. The job ahead is as tremendous as it is important. It calls for teamwork between agencies, groups and individuals — all sharing the responsibility for finding and encouraging better land-use practices.

WAYS TO RID CATTLE OF CONTAGIOUS WARTS

Auburn, Ala — Warts on cattle are often spread throughout a group of calves by contact.

W. H. Gregory, API Extension livestock marketing specialist, says that one way to remove some warts is to clip them off and paint the stumps with tincture of iodine. Unusually large or deep rooted warts should be treated by a veterinarian

Other successful ways to remove warts include the use of a wart vaccine or castor oil applied to warts daily. When the vaccine is used, repeated injections are necessary

"Disinfecting stalls and pens will usually prevent spread of warts,' adds the specialist.

10 To Die During Xmas Holidays

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan says that according to last year figures, 10 people are due to die in Christmas highway accidents in the state

"Don't let it be you," Sullivan added. "The road fatalities can be avoided if you will drive carefully and observe the rules of safe driving."

Sullivan said that past statistics indicated an accident record over a 102-hour holiday period of eight traffic deaths in rural areas of the highway system, with two more deaths in city areas

During last year's Christmas period, 10 died in road accidents in 1950 there were 24 fatalities [illegible] 78-hour period, and in 1949 [illegible] their lives in 54 hours

First Christmas Card Was Created in 1842

Over 250 years ago English school children wrote Christmas expressions of good will called "Christmas pieces." From this school chore came the gracious custom of sending Christmas cards.

The first known Christmas card was created in 1942 in London by a young etcher named William Egley. Original of this first card is now on display in the British museum.

In the United States, Louis Prang published the first Christmas cards. During the 1870's and 80's Prang produced thousands of beautiful cards and has become known as the grandfather of the business.

Getting Around with Mac Brown

Have you ever thought how, like everything else, they've put Christmas on wheels? A couple of weeks back when the wife and I were down town doing the Christmas shopping, I got to noticing all the wheel goods.

Seems that now, the time you get a kid on his feet and teach him to use his legs, you start putting wheels under him and teach him not to use his legs any more than he has to!

When I was ten years old, I started having ambitions about a bicycle, but at that age now I guess they are wondering how soon they can trade in their motor scooter for a motorcycle!

Ours isn't quite at that age yet, but we got him one of those little bikes. He's already had it out, and one of the little kids insisted my boy pretend he had a flat tire, so he, the little one, could "stop and fix it." "That's the way you real truck drivers do, isn't it, Mr. Brown . . . stop and fix flats when you see folk's got 'em?"

That kid put me in the right mood for the Christmas season—to realize that the boy had some appreciation for the work I do. I just wish more grown folks would get his attitude! Who knows, maybe they will. Remember—"A little child shall lead them."

Merry Christmas!

Christmas Eve Memory Check

Did You Remember . . .

. . . to take home a few extra toys? If you are expecting two or three neighborhood small fry to drop in, you can be sure six will show up. And three toys and six children do not enhance "Peace on Earth."

Did You Remember . . .

. . . to check the Christmas tree lights? Not day before yesterday. Not last week. We mean right now. A few stores are still open and you can supply new ones. Better pick up a few more ornaments too.

Did You Remember . . .

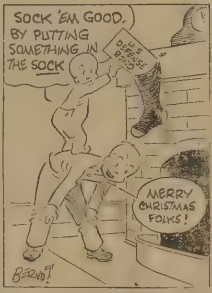
that you told all those people to drop in for refreshment tonight? Better check on the cake, cookies, soft drinks, and other goodies.

Did You Remember . . .

. . . those last minute Christmas cards? If not, you can send telegrams to friends too far away for cards to reach them by December 25. You can even have a messenger call at your house while the guests you invited in for snacks are there, and probably everybody will remember someone far away who should have a Christmas greeting.

Did You Remember . . .

. . to hang some kind of Christmas decoration outside the house, so passing strangers may enjoy some of the Christmas glow that is in your home and reflect it around your town? Remember, everyone has a part in this Christmas cheer, not just your small circle, and the more cheer you scatter, the more you will gather.



The Mystery of God's Firmament

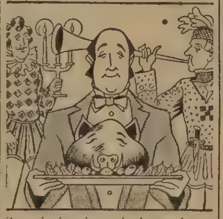
THE "STAR" which signaled "the First Christmas" may be interpreted in many ways. In all such interpretations we must put ourselves as nearly as possible into the social and psychological frame of mind of those whom we try to understand. The astronomer knows that through the ages the word "star" has been used to indicate almost any celestial phenomenon. We still speak of "falling stars" or "shooting stars" which we know quite well are not stars at all. In more ancient times the comet was called a "hairy star" and was derived from the Latin word coma, meaning hair. The planets were the "wandering stars" as opposed to the "fixed stars", and from the Greek word for wanderer we derive our word "planets."

The Star of Bethlehem could have been any of these. It could [illegible] have been a "new star" or nova which suddenly burst forth with a many-thousand-fold increase in brilliance, due to some great stellar catastrophe. These are all explanations of what the "star" could have been. Had it been any of the above it would have been seen by many peoples, and in literature would have been found references to the appearance of the object which attracted attention. But nowhere in the literature or in the folklore of any of the peoples noted as astute observers of celestial phenomena do these references exist.

From this we are forced to conclude the appearance of the star was a sight given only to the Wise Men to see.

Serving of Boar's Head One of Old Christmas Customs

Of the customs that grew up around the Christmas festival in Merrie England, the serving of the boar's head was one of the most stirring. It endures to this day at Queen's college, Oxford, where the 50-pound tusked head—a lemon in its grinning jaws—is borne in on a great silver dish, escorted by trumpeters and candle bearers.



In the olden days there was an appropriate chant, half carol and half ritual, that the gentlemen used to bellow at the moment the dish troubled the board:

Then set down the swineyard,
The foe to the vineyard,
Let Bacchus crown his fall.
Let this boar's head and mustard
Stand for pig, goose and custard,
And so ye are welcome all.

"OLD BOSSIE" HAS SWEET TOOTH, TOO

Everyone who has watched cattle grazing on improved pastures has noticed how much better cattle like fertilized grass than unfertilized pasture.

Research tests at one state experiment station indicate that the preferred grass has a higher sugar content. And J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairy specialist, explains that this is brought about by a proper balance of nitrogen and phosphorus, which are needed for the formation of sugar in the plant.

Parrish believes the moral is that the cow is a good judge of the kind of job her owner does in fertilizing his pastures.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

THROUGH THE HOOP . . . Flippy, a trained porpoise at Marine Studios, Fla., gets into the holiday spirit by leaping through a Christmas wreath suspended over the water of his tank.

CAPSTONE SANTAS

University of Alabama fraternities and sororities sponsored early Christmas for a number of underprivileged children before leaving the campus for the holidays.

The organizations held parties for children from the Tuscaloosa area, entertaining them with games and refreshments, and featuring visits from Santa Claus and his present-laden sack.

The Santa Legend Should Be Explained, Psychologist Says

"CHILDREN enjoy Santa Claus more when they know what he really is," Duke University psychologist Dr. Gelolo McHugh says.

"No one enjoys finding out that he has been kept in the dark," says the specialist in child psychology, "and children are no exception." The real meaning of Santa Claus is the joy of giving to make others happy, says Dr. McHugh, and no child should be deprived of this privilege.

Later parents have the difficult job of explaining that there is no jolly old Christmas man, Dr. McHugh points out. When the truth comes out the parent has placed himself in the position of being responsible for Santa's disappearance.

Santa should be a part of Christmas, however, Dr. McHugh believes, but from the very beginning, he should be treated as a wonderful pretend game. This method has proved successful with many children, the specialist says, including his own two young boys.

Children, who love to make-believe, are perfectly capable of enjoying Santa, reindeer, chimneys and all, while knowing in their hearts, when they stop to ask themselves, that he is a pretend person, he says.

The child who takes part in the Santa game doesn't have to wonder on Christmas morning why Santa didn't like him well enough to bring the expensive toys that were ordered from the North Pole, the psychologist points out.

The young Indianapolis mother who recently wrote a Christmas letter for her 5-year old son just before her death in an airplane crash, had wonderful understanding, Dr. McHugh says. She ended her letter by telling her little son that "anyone who loves and gives is real Santa."

LIBRARY GIFT

The University of Alabama Library has received the James Bowron selection as a gift from his son, Judge J. Edgar Bowron, and from A. J. Bowron, Jr., and other members of the Bowron family of Birmingham.

The collection contains 52 volumes of James Bowron's diary covering the years 1877 to his death in 1928, nine volumes of letter books dated 1875-1899, three type-written volumes containing an autobiography, 311 letters, 25 books and other works.
